Southern Buys Eight Smokeless Switch Engines

Big Road's Change Expected To Reduce Atlanta Haze by Half.

A long stride toward ending the serious midtown smoke problem came yesterday through the announcement by Vice President R. B. Pegram of the Southern Railway System that eight Diesel-electric engines for switching operations, which range between Inman Yards and the Chevrolet Motor Company's plant, had been purchased.

The cryptic statement, expected to mark beginning of the end of the situation which had its genesis in the first locomotive to belch forth its heavy breath when the city was still Marthasville, read as follows:

"Southern Railway Company, subject to Interstate Commerce Commission approval of the terms of financing, has ordered eight Diesel-electric switch engines from Electro-Motive Corporation, which will be used in switching in Atlanta, Ga." No date when the change will be effective was given.

It was estimated unofficially that the menace to health and property from switching done through the central retail district would thus be reduced at least by half.

Five other systems, the Georgia Railroad, N. C. & St. L., A. & B. & C.; Central of Georgia; S. A. L. and A. & W. P., also operate in the region with soft-coal-burning engines.

Through-train locomotives will not be affected by the action of the Southern.

Huge Order Placed.
At the same time it was announced that the Southern had placed an order with the Pullman Standard Car Manufacturing plant at Bessemer, Ala., for 1,500 all-steel box cars, estimated to cost approximately $3,700,000.

The order, the largest of the year for the Bessemer plant, will require approximately 30,000 tons of steel from Alabama mills.

It brought the backlog for the Bessemer plant to the highest point in recent years. The plant, which employs more than 1,000 persons, is now working on an order for 1,000 box cars for the Illinois Central.

In addition to car orders, some large, are in prospect before the end of the year.

Initial inquiries by railroads indicate heavy rail purchases next month and in November.

Heavy Thrusts Are Greeted by Stout Defense

200 Japanese Prisoners Reported Taken as Attacks Resume.

By The United Press.

HANOI, Indo-China, Sept. 24.—The Japanese Canton army late today resumed heavy attacks across the Kwangsi frontier on French and Indo-Chinese forces which resisted stoutly from fortified positions.

In the first hours of the renewed attacks, said to be the most intense since the Japanese crossed the border Sunday night, 200 Japanese prisoners were reported taken.

The Japanese notified the French that they would launch a major attack on the coastal region at dawn, which would include the bombing of Haiphong, port of Hanoi.

Still Hopeful.
French authorities, although still hopeful of a peaceful settlement, indicated that the agreement signed here on Sunday afternoon with the Japanese was cancelled because it was unworkable. The agreement provided for Japanese occupation of three airdromes by a limited number of Japanese troops (said in France to be 6,000). It did not sanction entry of the powerful Canton army into Indo-China.

A Japanese invasion fleet comprising eight troop transports, a cruiser and three destroyers was reported en route to Haiphong, the country's principal port. The commander reportedly had been asked, however, by Major General Issaku Nishihara to defer an attempt to land by force at Haiphong. Nishihara was en route to Hainan island aboard a minesweeper, reportedly to attempt to persuade General Ando, commanding the Japanese army in the South China area, to hold up his attack across the frontier.

The French, who were reported to have recaptured Dongdang from the frontier, which they were forced to abandon to superior forces early Monday, were reported to be fighting determinedly there and at Langson, important railroad town 82 miles northeast of here. Heavy French shelling from concrete fortifications was said to be taking a heavy toll of advancing Japanese.

Bodies in Heaps.
Border observers said Japanese bodies were piled high along the roads. They said that the Japanese, lacking time to remove the bodies, were cutting off hands for the purpose of later identification. Shanghai dispatches put French losses at Dongdang, in the early fighting Sunday night and Monday morning, at 131 dead, against very slight Japanese losses. Stubborn French resistance, with high Japanese losses, came in later fighting.

A Domei (Japanese) news agency dispatch from army headquarters in Southern China said the Japanese had captured 240 men of the Indo-Chinese force, including several French officers, near Dongdang.

It is of vital importance that the French forces hold Langson. From that point flat plains lead inland to the capital and the heart of the colony—ideal terrain for Japanese tanks and motorized columns.

Third Air Alarm.
Hanoi had its third air alarm Tuesday afternoon. Posters were plastered all over the city urging everyone without urgent business in the capital to leave. Schools were closed.

Twelve Japanese bombers flew over Haiphong early Tuesday, but dropped no bombs. French ground batteries withheld fire.

French Annamite (native) troops were reported standing up well against the Japanese in the frontier fighting. The Japanese have not yet come up against the main French white forces, stationed between Langson and Hanoi.

French Planes Bomb Gibraltar 4 Hours In Retaliatory Raids

100 Bombs Dropped on Big Rock; Terrific Explosions Heard.

By The Associated Press.

GIBRALTAR, Sept. 25.—(Wednesday)—War planes of France, Britain's Nazi-subjugated ally, heavily bombed Gibraltar for four hours and five minutes Tuesday, inflicting death, injuries, property damage and fires on this vital British fortress at the western head of the Mediterranean.

(Heavy cannonading heard from the internationalized zone of Tangier, Morocco, was heard late today along with indications that the British Mediterranean fleet was preparing to strike at France's Moroccan ports in answer to the French air raid on Gibraltar.)

One hundred or more bombs were hurled by 20 or more planes in the longest and heaviest air raid ever experienced by "The Rock," which often has been raided by Italian bombers.

(Laborers returning from Gibraltar to the Spanish town of La Linea, just across a neutral strip and moat from the fortress, said the French bombers sank a British destroyer, hit a submarine and wrought other heavy military damage and death.)

(They said Gibraltar had two more air raid alarms during the evening but no planes were seen.) Gibraltar military authorities described the raiders merely as "of French type."

Planes Definitely French.
Observers, however, said the planes definitely were French, and Miss Helen Hiatt of the National Broadcasting Company of the United States reported they appeared to be American-made Martin bombers.

The assault, widening the breach between the one-time friends, Britain and France, apparently was in reprisal for the British-supported attack by "free" French naval forces on Dakar, capital of French West Africa.

The British military report said that "so far" four persons had been killed and 12 injured by the French raiders.

Destroyer Sunk.
Observers of the Spanish mainland said one bomb hit the bow of a destroyer which immediately began to sink, and they believed property damage and casualties were heavy.

Shortly afterward, the observers in Spain reported, a British cruiser, four destroyers and two submarines left the harbor and headed into the Atlantic toward French Morocco or French West Africa, probably with retaliatory intent.

(Reports received at Lisbon, Portugal, said several of the attacking French planes were shot down, but La Linea did not confirm this.)

30 Planes Attacked.
One witness observed 30 French planes, attacking in groups of 3, 5, 10 and 12.

Plumes of black smoke hung over the rock and through it the French planes attacked at 10-minute intervals.

Observers here believed gasoline tanks and an arsenal had been hit, although the town of Punta Europa itself, often raided by Italian planes, appeared undamaged. At least 30 planes were seen taking part in the action.

Six Landing Attempts at African Port Are Hurlled Back.

By The Associated Press.

VICHY, France, Sept. 24.—The French government announced tonight that the British naval forces supporting the so-called "Free French" attack on African Senegal, had opened a new and prolonged bombardment of the town of Dakar after failing in six troop-landing attempts.

A second ultimatum, the Petain-Laval government said, drew this reply from Pierre Boisson, French governor-general in Dakar:

"France has confided Dakar to me. I will defend it to the end."

The ultimatum, timed to expire at 6 a. m. today, was declared officially to have demanded the surrender of the capital of French West Africa under pain of destruction of Dakar's fortifications and occupation of the town by force. Dakar is only 1,900 miles from South America.

A naval communique said the ultimatum was signed by "the admiral commanding the English fleet."

Naval Battle Rages.
All day Monday and late into the night a naval battle had raged off Dakar, while the attackers made attempt after attempt to land under the cover of shellfire.

(In the continuing naval battle, the United Press reported, the French warships are outnumbered nearly three to one.)

(The British were said to have one or perhaps two battleships in action, one of the 35,000-ton Royal Oak class, an aircraft carrier and 15 cruisers and destroyers.)

(The French defending force included three cruisers, three destroyers and the crippled 35,000-ton battleship Richelieu with 15-inch guns—victim of a previous British attack, the United Press said.)

A communique said one French submarine was sunk while attacking a British cruiser; that the cruiser herself suffered a direct hit from another French submarine, the Persee, and that three British planes had been shot down.

Early this morning the British began dropping shells on the important French naval base, which the government calls "the key to the south Atlantic." Late today the bombardment still was going on, meager wireless reports related.

French Counterattack.
Admiral Jean Darlan, the naval minister, charged with the task of co-ordinating France's remaining warships, men and planes, announced that the Senegalese forces loyal to Petain not only had repulsed landing parties and damaged "aggressor warships" at Dakar, the capital, but had lashed out in reprisal.

Darlan, in an order of the day, scornfully denied British assertions that the Germans or anyone else had menaced Senegal; declared the British, in attacking, were "only following their own personal interest" and proclaimed:

"Our firmness will stop them."

With the naval battle reported continuing, Darlan said the Petain-Laval government was counting on "the ardent patriotism of the fleet for the defense of the empire"—an empire which, he charged, Britain seeks to "dismember."

The defending French have three cruisers—the Montcalm, Georges Leygues and Gloire—and three destroyers at Dakar. There also are about 6,000 troops.

National Defense Program Will Provide Additional Millions for Georgia Projects

Augusta Air Base and Fort Benning Hospital Approved.

Allotment of additional millions to be spent in Georgia as part of the national defense program was announced yesterday by the War Department in Washington.

The newest projects are a million dollar army air base at Augusta and a million and a quarter dollar 1,348-bed hospital at Fort Benning.

Other projects approved in the last two months involve construction work running into several millions in the neighborhoods of Atlanta, Savannah and Columbus.

Construction will begin immediately on the new army air corps station at Augusta, the War Department stated. The 53rd Pursuit Group (interceptor) and the 22nd Air Base Group, including 30 planes, 140 officers and 1,180 men, will be stationed there.

Daniel Field, the municipally owned airport, will be leased to the War Department for operations. Fliers will use several hundred acres of Richmond county swampland for machine gun practice. Plans for the paving of four miles of airport runways are now being drawn up by the WPA.

The latest grant for Benning is for construction of a 1,348-bed hospital, consisting of approximately 100 cantonment buildings. Lieutenant Colonel James R. Alfonte, post quartermaster, explained the new hospital, in effect a small city in itself, will be located in the area immediately

Heroic Soldier Jerome Jones, Saves Truck, Labor Leader, 2 Companions Is Dead at 85

Leaps From Gasoline-Loaded Vehicle With Blazing Tin.

A heroic act by an Alabama National Guardsman who grabbed a blazing five-gallon tin of aviation gasoline with his bare hands and leaped off a gasoline-loaded army truck to save two companions from possible death was reported here yesterday by City Policeman J. J. Elliott.

The guardsman, Private Guiney Legg, 26, of Gadsden, was severely burned about the hands and face and was treated at Grady hospital.

Private Legg, Elliott reported Monday night, was riding in the rear of a truck loaded with 90 gallons of aviation gas which was en route from Nashville, Tenn., to Columbia, S. C. Suddenly one of the five-gallon tins bounced against the battery and flamed up. Legg stripped off his coveralls and tried to smother the lightning-hot blaze but soon saw he could not.

His companions, in the truck cab, saw what was happening and stopped the machine at Whitehall and McDaniel streets. Legg leaped to the ground with the burning gas—thus saving the remaining gas and the truck and removing the danger of burning the other two soldiers to death.

Laney Is Elected
East Point Mayor

E. Glenn Laney yesterday was overwhelmingly elected mayor of East Point, polling 1,142 of the 1,659 votes cast. Second Ward Councilman E. J. Bass ran second with 413 votes, while the third man in the race, David Hall, received 105 votes.

In the council races, Robert E. Carmichael, incumbent, and J. C. Leach were high in the first ward, polling 271 and 163 votes, respectively. Third man was W. O. McKenzie, with 136 votes. As neither Carmichael or Leach received a majority, a runoff in their race will be necessary.

In the second ward, to succeed Bass, C. O. Pair captured the necessary majority over his opponent, C. S. Wynn, polling 448 votes to Wynn's 200. Simpson D. Kidd Jr. was unopposed for reelection as councilman from the third ward.

Was Forceful Figure in Atlanta's Life for 40 Years.

Jerome Jones, father of the labor movement in the south and a forceful figure in Atlanta's daily life for more than four decades, died yesterday morning at Georgia Baptist hospital of a heart ailment from which he had suffered for two years.

He was in his eighty-sixth year. Word of his death brought expressions of sorrow from all parts of the south and from business and educational leaders as well as co-workers in the field of labor advancement. Among Atlantans paying tribute to his efforts were Preston S. Arkwright, president of the Georgia Power Company, and Dr. Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of city schools.

Funeral Today.
Funeral will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at Spring Hill, with the Rev. Dr. Stuart R. Oglesby, pastor of the Central Presbyterian church, and Dr. Sutton, officiating. Interment will be in West View cemetery.

Immediate survivors are a son, Jerome Jones Jr., and a granddaughter, Joan Jones. His wife died in 1931.

The veteran champion of workmen's rights and editor of the Journal of Labor was born in Nashville, Tenn., July 4, 1855, the son of the publisher of a Nashville newspaper.

At an early age he joined the Typographical Union and was a member of this union for more than 50 years.

Founded Paper.
Before coming to Atlanta, Mr. Jones rose rapidly in the labor movement and served as president of the Nashville Federation of Trades.

He was the founder and first editor of the Nashville Labor Advocate, which at that time was the official organ of the Tennessee Federation of Labor.

When he left Nashville he turned under these conditions, to abandon her policy of non-involvement in the European war.

Registration Date Will Be a Holiday

Governor Rivers yesterday fixed Wednesday, October 16—the date for registration of some 495,000 Georgians between the ages of 21 to 35 under the conscription program—as a state holiday.

Regular election machinery used in the September 11 primary will be used in registering the men. In the event any of the county election boards are unable to handle the registration, the Governor suggested they turn to the county ordinary, the American Legion or other civic organization for aid.

Japan, Germany Form Pact Plan

SHANGHAI (Wednesday), Sept. 25.—(UP)—Japan and Germany have agreed in principle on formation of a defense alliance to become effective in event of Anglo-American collaboration such as the projected use of Britain's great Singapore naval base, authoritative reports from Tokyo stated today.

Japan was said to be prepared, under these conditions, to abandon her policy of non-involvement in the European war.

Return Here Agreed Upon By Woodward

Delay Granted To Permit Him To Get Affairs in Shape.

Floyd Woodward, facing a score of charges in federal and state courts here, yesterday waived removal to Atlanta before U. S. Commissioner David B. Head, in Los Angeles.

The commissioner granted Woodward's request that he be allowed a few days stay of execution to permit him to get his affairs in shape and receive medical treatment for a chest ailment. He is being held in jail in lieu of $50,000 bond.

Meanwhile, decision as to what action the state of Georgia will take against Woodward, accused former "bunco" gang leader, will be made after Woodward is brought here by the federal government to answer charges of mail fraud, Solicitor General John A. Boykin said.

Plans Conference.

Boykin said he intends to hold a conference with Herbert N. Graham, the postal inspector who arrested Woodward in Monrovia, Cal., Sunday after a 20-year pursuit, as quickly as Graham arrives.

"I am going to review all of the state cases against Woodward and talk with Graham to see what we will do," he declared.

The solicitor general returned yesterday to serve the grand jury following a vacation.

Variety of Charges.

They range from the charge he and four others murdered Ed Mills in a hotel corridor in July, 1919, to numerous charges of larceny after trust (of amounts totaling hundreds of thousands of dollars) and straight larceny charges.

Boykin said that he reviewed the cases against the wanted man about two years ago when it was reported Woodward was in Arizona, but added before he could determine what action to take how he will have to go over the cases again.

Many of the persons victimized by the "bunco gang" more than 20 years ago were then elderly people and a number have died in the meantime, associates of Boykin said. Other witnesses have become scattered and will have to be located again, he added.

Senate Considers Bill by Ramspeck

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—The Senate today had up for consideration the House-passed bill of Representative Robert Ramspeck, of Georgia, which would extend the federal civil service system to some 300,000 workers now not afforded job security.

Passed by the House on February 9, the measure, commonly known as the Ramspeck bill, is recommended for passage by the Senate civil service committee in a report dated June 18. The Senate committee report contains only five amendments to the measure as it passed the House.

The bill would give the President the power to blanket into the civil service system certain employees of the government now in the unclassified service, excepting only Works Projects Administration employees.

TOCCOA PATROL STATION—exterior of the new all-steel headquarters of the State Highway Patrol which will be dedicated with elaborate ceremonies this afternoon. The building, cream-colored with green trim, was welded into a single unit. The exterior is designed to give immediate access to all parts of the building.

State Patrol To Dedicate New Barracks

Hundreds Will Attend Toccoa Ceremonies This Afternoon.

Ceremonies dedicating the new all-steel permanent barracks of the State Highway Patrol at Toccoa will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon with hundreds of guests from the vicinity and many parts of Georgia.

Governor Rivers, Commissioner of Public Safety Lon E. Sullivan, patrol commandant, and E. G. LeTourneau, Toccoa manufacturer, are scheduled to speak. Corporal W. T. Beauchamp, who will be in charge of the new barracks, will serve as master of ceremonies, together with Sergeant A. L. Bagley, commanding the Gainesville district, in which the new station is located.

The barracks is placed at the intersection of Highways 13 and 17, and contains an office, reception room, two bedrooms and a supply room, and full radio facilities. Welded into one piece, the structure was manufactured at the LeTourneau plant.

The exterior is cream colored with green trimming around the top and window frames. It is specially designed to give immediate access to all parts of the building.

CONTRACT AWARDED.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—(AP) The U. S. Housing Authority approved today a $606,000 contract awarded the Griffin Construction Company, Atlanta, for two housing projects in Marietta, Ga. The company bid $303,500 on the "Clay Homes" project and $302,500 on "Fort Hill Homes."

Rainey Lauded For Defense Of Dr. Rugg

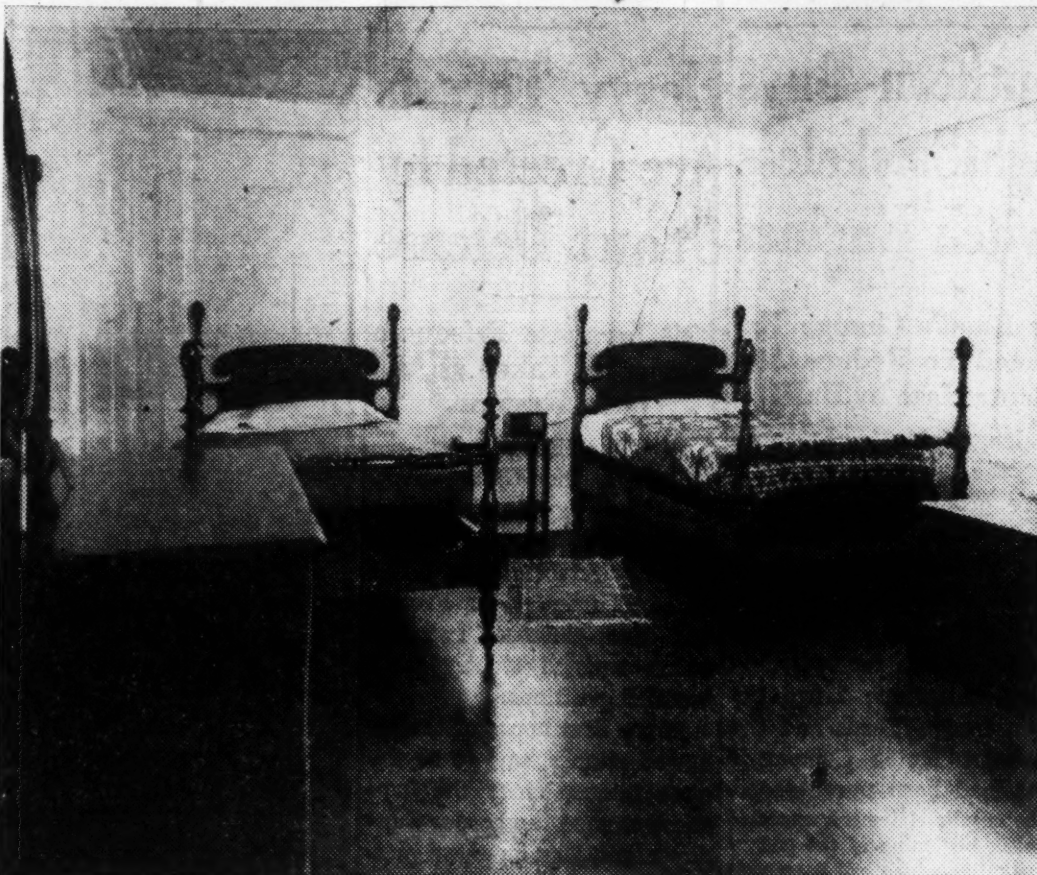

Civil Liberties Union Letter Raps 'Meddling of Politicians.'

The American Civil Liberties Union, which tilted with Attorney General Ellis Arnall over his ruling to keep the Communist party off the ballot in Georgia, yesterday applauded Professor Glenn Rainey of Georgia Tech, for his defense of Dr. Harold Rugg before the State Board of Education, where Dr. Rugg's textbooks were under scrutiny because, it was charged, they contained "subversive teachings."

The American Civil Liberties Union made public the following letter sent to Professor Rainey by Edward C. Lindeman, chairman of the union's committee on academic freedom.

"Your insistence that you were pleading 'for the right, as a Georgia teacher,' to be allowed to tell your students about, 'all phases of the world's political methods' is essentially a statement of the role of education in a democracy. The right and duty of teachers, and others who are professionally qualified, to judge textbooks from that point of view should not be obstructed."

"Educators are capable of handling the Communist charge, or that meaningless accusation of 'communism,' without the aid of politicians or professional patriots. Americanism is not the quality nor property of any one group. Our American teachers have long since demonstrated their loyalty to their country by their indefatigable defense of the principle that citizens cannot function in a democracy unless they are taught to arrive at intelligent conclusions after examining all available facts and social theories. Your courageous defense of your professional integrity before the Board of Education is part of their tradition."

'TROOPERS' QUARTERS—Life of a highway patrolman often is trying, involving long exposure, but the boys will be comfortable in the Toccoa station. Shown is an interior of one bedroom. All furnishings were supplied by residents of the district.

Coca-Cola Suit Goes Through Seventh Day

WILMINGTON, Del., Sept. 24.

(AP)—Witnesses for the Coca-Cola Bottling Company testified today that taproom employees in Chicago, San Francisco and Stockton, Cal., served "beverages from bottles labeled RC Cola" to customers who asked for "coke" or Coca-Cola.

The testimony was given in the Coca-Cola Company's suit seeking to restrain the Nehi Corporation, of Columbus, Ga., from using "cola" in describing the rival soft drink.

As the case went through its seventh day, attorneys indicated testimony for the Coca-Cola Company would be completed this week. A recess will be taken until October 14, when the Nehi concern will present its case.

Super Bombs Blast London; Buildings Fall

peared to have been the heaviest sufferer in daytime assaults.

Many bombs fell on towns along the Thames estuary. In one instance a direct hit was made on a small shelter and four members of a family of five were killed.

The air ministry announced that eight German planes had been shot down in daylight engagements against the loss of four British planes—two of whose pilots were saved.

Town Bombed.

British sources reported from one south coast town that two big German formations had swept repeatedly overhead, smashing a church and many surrounding homes, killing and injuring numbers of civilians. From the debris bodies still were being dragged tonight.

Above another town on the coast 50 Nazi planes rode the air lanes in successive waves, plunging into a howling antiaircraft barrage. From aloft British Hurricanes and Spitfires fell upon them. The attack broke up last, after the heaviest aerial battle yet seen in that section, in a series of dogfights which spattered the pavements with machinegun bullets.

The assault upon Brest, in westernmost France, on the Brittany peninsula, was declared by the air ministry to have set off four fires visible from 30 miles away.

Brest Is Target.

A "long line of bombs" was loosed over the Brest torpedo boat station, oil tanks and stores, the ministry added, while other planes bombed Zebrugge, Belgium, and threw sticks—or series—of explosives across the canal mouth, setting off great flashes.

The French coast was declared to have been left in flames by British pilots. Berlin was pounded with what the British described as the heaviest raid yet launched there—a series of on-schedule attacks "like well-organized trains"—said to have set the city's main power station and gas works aflame.

Kiel Is Attacked.

Aside from all this, the air ministry reported, British bombers attacked the lock gates of the Kiel canal, Germany's vital naval base; railroad communications over a wide area of the Reich; airplane factories, airdromes, shipyards and docks at Hamburg, Cuxhaven, Bremerhaven, Bremen and Wismar.

A statistical review made public today reported that Royal Air Force bombers had pounded at the docks in German-held channel ports 48 times in a single week.

LeCraw Told Garner Heads He Can Retain For Capital Military Status After Appeals

Term as Mayor Won't Affect Ranking, U. S. Officials Declare.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—After a conference today with War Department officials, Mayor-elect Roy LeCraw, of Atlanta, said he had been given assurance that he would be permitted to carry on his duties as mayor of the city and at the same time retain his status as major in the Georgia National Guard, which has been ordered out for active federal service.

The Atlanta mayor-elect came to Washington this morning in company with Lindley Camp, of Decatur, former adjutant general of the state, to discuss his National Guard status with members of the army high command. He was joined here by Adjutant General John E. Stoddard, of Georgia. All three called at the War Department together.

Subsequently Mayor-elect LeCraw made a brief call at the White House to pay his respects to President Roosevelt. He was accompanied to the executive mansion by Camp, a strong supporter of Governor-elect Talmadge.

War Department officials in charge of the huge government military training program now getting actively under way told the mayor-elect and his two associates that final rules and regulations governing the induction of National Guardsmen into federal service had not been worked out yet, but that sufficient elasticity existed to take care of LeCraw's particular situation.

Vice President Spent More Than Two Months in Uvalde.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—(AP)

Vice President Garner was on his way back to Washington tonight to resume his duties as presiding officer of the senate after more than two months spent at his home in Uvalde, Tex., tending his bantam chickens and supervising the enlargement of a low-rent housing project he maintains.

The Vice President, who left Washington shortly after his bid for the Democratic presidential nomination failed at the Chicago convention in July, slipped out of Uvalde so quietly that few of the townsfolk knew that he had gone. Mrs. Garner remained behind.

Several senators were known to have written Garner urging him to wind up his 40-year political career in the harness. Garner was said to have replied that he was ready to return if there were any important business demanding his attention.

MAY PAY GUARD.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Sept. 24.—(AP)—Three months' pay for city employees called up for one year's service with the National Guard will be recommended to city council at its semi-monthly meeting tomorrow afternoon. This plan, which is claimed similar to that adopted by several other cities, was recommended by the council's finance committee.

THEIR VOTE IN GEORGIA

Georgians do not lose their voting privileges by entering military or naval training but, legal sources reminded, they have only 10 more days to qualify for the general election if they are to be outside their legal residence November 5.

Some states, chiefly through a lack of absentee balloting, do not permit voting by legal residents called away from their home states.

Georgia's constitution prevents disfranchising voters who enter the nation's armed forces in another state. They would cast ballots just as any other qualified voter who is away from his regular voting precinct at election time.

Their only restriction, outside of being qualified as any other voter, is the time limit within which they must obtain absentee ballots.

Georgia law says any absentee may write his county registrar by registered mail not less than 30 days or not more than 60 days before the election for the absentee ballot. The ballot must be returned "immediately." About 3,000 Georgians soon will be in training at Fort Jackson, S. C.

Out-of-state men in service at Georgia military posts usually do not vote in this state. To qualify to vote in Georgia they must receive citizenship of their home state and become citizens of Georgia legally, and also reside in Georgia one year and in their county six months. Payment of Georgia's poll tax is another requisite.

MARKSMEN RETURNING TO FORT OGLETHERPE
FORT OGLETHERPE, Ga., Sept. 24.—Six of the crack marksmen of the Sixth Cavalry are expected to return to the post this week from Camp Perry, Ohio, where they have been participating in rifle and pistol marksmanship practice for the past three months. They are Lieutenant Edwin T. Knight, of Headquarters Troop; Sergeant Elmo Prescott, of Troop B; Sergeant Lee E. Eaton, of Headquarters Troop; Corporal Lucian Williams, of Troop E; Private Ray W. Middleton, of Troop A, and Private William J. Carter, of Troop F.

FORT BENNING FIREMEN UNDER ONE GROUP
FORT BENNING, Ga., Sept. 24.—The two Fort Benning fire stations, which have been operated for a number of years by firemen from the Infantry School Detachment and Quartermaster Detachment, have been turned over entirely to the Quartermaster Detachment. Men of the I. S. D. who wished to retain their firemen status were permitted to transfer, in grade, to the Quartermaster Detachment or remain in the I. S. D. for new assignments.

Among the organizations of Fort Benning conducting clerk's and typist's schools is the 29th Infantry. Two classes are held daily, the first starting at 7:30 a. m. and ending at 9 a. m. The second class gets under way at 9 a. m. The course has a duration of seven weeks and a student is required to average 45 words per minute on his machine to graduate. After graduation they are placed on various clerical jobs within the regiment.

First Lieutenant William H. Craig, 29th Infantry, is in direct charge of the school, with Sergeant Mitchell and another instructor. Class Stewart as enlisted instructors.

Recent changes involving officer personnel at Fort Benning included:

Second Lieutenant Eleanor W. Merriam, Army Nurse, arrived for one year's active duty at the station hospital.

Additional assistant instructors were detailed recently on special duty in the weapons section of the Infantry School to provide for the increasing student enrollment at the school. Those detailed are a selected group of non-commissioned officers and privates first class from the 29th Infantry. They are: Sergeant Nathan J. Brown, Norman J. McCullough, Kay T. Mims, Max R. Grigg, Ernest Costello, Willie E. Joiner, Sylvester C. Duncan, Timothy C. Newman, Ireton Fuller, Verne E. Burch and Roy M. Walker, Corporals James H. Banister, Rudolph S. Wallace, William M. Swindell, Tom Newberry, Aubrey Sellers, Milner R. Dixon, James W. McGee and George E. Garrett; Privates First Class Luther Preley and John W. Hall.

Status of officers sick in hospital: Second Lieutenant Bertram H. White, Field Artillery Reserve, from duty to hospital; Second Lieutenant Paul J. Burns, Infantry Reserve, from hospital to duty; Second Lieutenant Donald M. Sewell, Infantry Reserve, from hospital to duty; and First Lieutenant Phillip J. Linn, Infantry Reserve, from hospital to duty.

Promotions recently involving enlisted personnel included:

Charles Loyd, private first class, Company A, 24th Infantry, to the grade of corporal.

Willie E. Reid, private first class, Company A, 24th Infantry, to the grade of corporal.

Darius L. Daughtry, private first class, Company C, 94th Antitank Battalion, to the grade of corporal.

William K. Powell, private first class, Company C, 94th Antitank Battalion, to the grade of corporal.

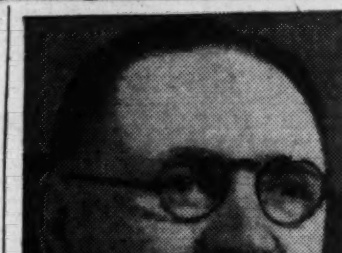

Dorpha R. Rainey, private first class, Company C, 94th Antitank Battalion, to the grade of corporal.

William E. Reid, private first class, Company A, 24th Infantry, to the grade of corporal.

Darius L. Daughtry, private first class, Company C, 94th Antitank Battalion, to the grade of corporal.

William K. Powell, private first class, Company C, 94th Antitank Battalion, to the grade of corporal.

Dorpha R. Rainey, private first class, Company C, 94th Antitank Battalion, to the grade of corporal.

Gen. Prosser Is Transferred To Canal Zone

Brigadier General Walter E. Prosser, commanding general at Fort Benning since the retirement of Brigadier General Asa T. Singleton last August 30, will be relieved from his assignment and stationed in the Panama Canal Department, the War Department announced yesterday in Washington.

General Prosser is also acting commandant of the Infantry School at the post and has been in command of the Fourth Division since that division was activated by the War Department last June, and Benning made its home station.

Prosser came to Benning from Fort Francis E. Warren, Wyo., where he headed the infantry section of the Sixth Division. He was with the Sixth last spring at Fourth Corps maneuvers at Benning, and later in Third Army maneuvers in the Sabine area of Louisiana and Texas.

Born in Indiana, General Prosser was promoted to brigadier general in November, 1937. He is a graduate of West Point, class of 1905, the Army School of the Line, the General Staff School and the Army War College. During the World War he served as colonel of the field artillery, commanding a regiment in the American Expeditionary Force. He served in Washington as a member of the General Staff Corps from 1924 to 1926.

Independents Lend Support To Roosevelt

Corcoran Quits Government Posts To Take Part in Campaign.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—(P)—President Roosevelt told a newly-formed national committee of independent voters today that he was "very, very happy" to receive its support for a third term because, he said, democracy has a better chance to survive if it "remains progressive and liberal."

The men and women designated by Mr. Roosevelt as "progressives" had just notified him of their intention to work for his re-election and of the formation of the new organization. Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia, of New York, is chairman and Senator George Norris, independent Nebraska, is honorary chairman.

Officers of the organization include many persons who have long been prominently identified with what they term the "progressive movement," including Thomas Corcoran, a key man in two Roosevelt administrations who resigned his governmental positions today to take part in the campaign. Corcoran is a vice president of the organization.

Corcoran held the paying position of R. F. C. attorney and two nonpaying jobs, special assistant to the attorney general and trustee of the Electric Home and Farm Authority.

In the presence of reporters who were invited to witness the meeting in the President's office, Mr. Roosevelt said:

"I think we all have our feet on the ground sufficiently to know we have not accomplished all for the country we want to do. There's a great deal left to be done. We don't want to stand still and we don't want to go back."

GROVER CLEVELAND'S SON OPPOSES THIRD TERM.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—(P)—Richard F. Cleveland, son of President Grover Cleveland, testified today that re-election of President Roosevelt for a third term would "remove our most effective check against the world's present tendency toward concentration of political power."

The Baltimore attorney, whose father, a Democrat, had two non-consecutive terms in the White House (1885-1889 and 1893-1897), appeared before a senate judiciary subcommittee studying proposals to limit presidential tenure.

Nazi Planes Raid Airplane Factory
BERLIN, Sept. 24.—(P)—German planes have concentrated this afternoon on bombing a British airplane factory in the English channel port of Southampton, it was reported here tonight.

Effective hits were said to have been scored.

These reports declared that 18 British planes had been destroyed so far today and that only one German plane was missing.

Earlier, the high command asserted that Nazi airmen, retaliating for a British attack on Heideberg, had bombed the famous medieval English university town of Cambridge.

'All-Out' Effort To Speed U. S. Defense Urged

1917 Spending Far Speedier Than 1940's, Bankers Told.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 24.—(P)—Arms expenditures increased 28 times faster in the first eight months of 1917 than in the same period of 1940, the economic policy commission of the American Bankers' Association said today, in urging an "all out" effort to rush defense measures.

The report of the commission, headed by Colonel Leonard P. Ayres, Cleveland banker and economist, was made to 4,000 bankers from all over the country.

Assembly for the second day of the association's 66th convention.
"Modern wars," the report said, "are won or lost in the periods of preparations for them."
"We should be pushing (the defense program) forward to accomplishment just as rapidly as our military, naval and industrial resources will permit."

YOU'LL SAY IT'S "FIRST BECAUSE IT'S FINEST!"

MEET the new Chevrolet for '41 and you'll meet a motor car of such thoroughly first-rate design and quality that we are confident you'll say, "It's first because it's finest—Again Chevrolet's the leader!"

For this car is the result and the reward of almost ten solid years of Chevrolet leadership in motor car sales... leadership that has brought with it unequalled manufacturing economies and unequalled value-giving powers... leadership that now makes it possible for Chevrolet to offer you a motor car which surpasses all previous levels of luxury in the lowest price field.

This new Chevrolet for '41 is a much bigger car in all ways—with a longer wheelbase and greater over-all length—with longer, larger, wider Fisher Bodies—with exceptionally comfortable interiors giving "3-couple roominess," or ample space for six passengers, in the sedan models.

And it's the best-looking motor car you've ever laid your eyes on—with dashing new "Aristostyle" design—with the smartest, smoothest front and fender treatment in the entire field for '41—and with concealed safety-steps (instead of running boards) at each door to assure easy, comfortable entrance and exit.

Moreover, when you drive this bigger, more beautiful, better-balanced car, you'll find that it fully maintains Chevrolet's reputation for dynamic performance and comfortable drive-and-ride leadership among all cars in its price range.

Your Chevrolet dealer cordially invites you and your family to visit his showroom; where Chevrolet for '41 is now on display... invites you to make a thorough-going test of the finest motor car Chevrolet has ever built... invites you to eye it, try it, buy it—today!

Again CHEVROLET'S the LEADER

EYE IT... TRY IT... BUY IT!

Keeping the Right Course For a Good Georgia Industry

The beer industry of Georgia is now sailing on a clearer course. Undesirable conditions which have wrecked some retail outlets are being marked and avoided.

This Committee is helping to pilot the beer industry through this menace. To set a course that will guide the industry to clear water, the Committee—and State and local authorities—have passed the word to "clean up or close up!"

You—the public—can help us keep this course by patronizing only reputable, law-abiding retailers.

Ivan Allen Jr. Heads Group Of Democrats

Atlantan Will Reorganize Young People's Political Clubs.

Appointment of Ivan Allen Jr., prominent young Atlanta businessman, as executive chairman of the Young Democratic Clubs of Georgia, was announced yesterday by Homer Matt Adams, national president and approved by Governor Rivers, Democratic national committeeman from Georgia.

Allen's duties will include reorganization of Young Democratic Clubs over the state and the calling of a state-wide convention in November for selection of permanent officers.

Governor Rivers in approving his appointment said:

"The Young Democrats serve a splendid purpose in our state. The encouragement they lend to our younger people in exercising their ballot is a work that deserves great praise. The cornerstone of democracy is in the ballot and the antipathy shown by many of our citizens toward this sacred heritage is regrettable. Any organization which works to improve such conditions deserves the fullest support of the citizens and this government."

Man Indicted In North Side Robbery Wave

Bill Against Him Contains 12 Charges of Burglary.

Accused of robbing many fashionable north side homes over a period of months, Clifford Johnson, Negro, was indicted yesterday by the grand jury on 12 charges of burglary.

County Policemen R. E. Flournoy, Barney Nichols and Hugh Perryman, who investigated the case, said Johnson wore a chauffeur's uniform as a disguise and was thus able to come and go without suspicion. He was captured with hundreds of dollars' worth of clothing and jewelry in his possession.

Among the homes in Fulton county he is accused of burglarizing are the following:

Robert D. Powell, 1559 Johnson road; Mrs. R. E. Stanfield, of 22 Palisades road; Arthur Burdette, 70 Palisades road; Mrs. C. A. Herndon, 105 Rumson road; O. M. Conrad, 1835 Peachtree road; J. P. Kelly, 2554 Peachtree road; R. H. Butters, 53 Huntington road; Tom Harrison, 853 Ponce de Leon avenue; W. W. White, 867 Ponce de Leon avenue; William Horton, 1798 Peachtree road; the servants' quarters at the home of J. J. Haverly, 2020 Peachtree road, and Melvin Hussey, basement at 843 Ponce de Leon avenue.

Another Negro, Joe Jackson, with indicted on charges of larceny after theft of $71.40 from L. G. Baldwin, of 1007 Peachtree street. County Policemen George W. Tumlin and Perryman said Jackson faked a hold-up in order to cover up the $71.40 shortage in his accounts as deliveryman for Baldwin's market.

B. M. Manley, white, was accused of robbing L. H. Grizzard, of a downtown hotel, of $130 August 31.

10,000-to-1 Chance Is Drawn for Jury Duty
When the odds are 10,000 to one against something happening and it does happen—that's news. Yesterday Judge Clarence Bell was drawing a jury panel for the civil court of Fulton county out of a box containing 10,000 names. T. E. Compton, of 1755 Lakewood avenue, S. E., a deputy marshal of the court, was aiding him. Almost the first name the judge drew was that of T. E. Compton, of 1755 Lakewood avenue, S. E. He promptly disqualified Compton for the jury.

Guard Learns Regular Army Is No Picnic

Intensive Training Started on Arrival at Fort Jackson.

By HAROLD MARTIN, Constitution Staff Writer.
FORT JACKSON, S. C., Sept. 24.—"Squad ten-shun. Stand at—ease. Ten-shun. Right—face. Forward—harrch. Whup, two, tree, four. Come on, keep your heads up there and don't shuffle them feet. You ain't plowin' a mule. Whup, two, three, four, Whup—"

Sweat pours off of sun-tanned faces. Heavy shoes slip and stumble in the heavy white sandy soil. Dust clouds roll up under the marching feet and the sound of disgusted language is heavy on the air.

Soldier School.
To the layman it is a confused mass of men doing nothing that possesses more than the faintest resemblance to the smart formation you see in the newsreels. To the army man it is the school of the soldier, the basic fundamentals of the long hard process of making a soldier out of a farm boy, a shoe clerk and a filling station gas-pumper.

The fact that it can be seen so early in the mobilization here indicates that Uncle Sam isn't fooling around. Spurred on by the necessity of building a good army quick, he is going about it with no loss of time, and no more waste motion than might be expected in a task as big as this.

There has been no fooling around. The boys who arrived here last night pitched their tents in the darkness, and ate long after the cook fires of troops already here had died down. They woke up this morning expecting an easy day of wandering around shaking hands with the boys down the company street from Macon and Valdosta and Dublin and Cordele.

No Delays.
They figured there'd be the usual delays of settling down and were looking forward to a day of Sunday-like calm.

Instead, you would have thought the enemy was at the gates. Before the sun had time to heat the white sands to more than mild warmth they were out on the drill field. They were mildly surprised. This was something to which they were not accustomed. This army they had gotten into was an army that meant business.

It served to fix more firmly in their minds the suspicion they have held since they arrived here—all this rush means they are getting readied up to go somewhere.

Rumors Fly Fast.
Lying under the black-jack oaks, panting during rest periods, they pass along the rumors that are flying fast.

"Somebody said he was over at the supply warehouse and saw a lot of stuff marked 121st Infantry, Puerto Rico." There ain't but one 121st Infantry is there? That's us ain't it? Well, what's our stuff marked Puerto Rico for if we ain't going there? Where the hell is Puerto Rico anyhow?

The Panama Canal Zone is getting a big play, too. And the names of all the new bases which this country secured from England are heard in the idle talk.

Clannish Bunch.
The easy-going National Guard has already found some things about this regular army that makes them mildly unhappy. The National Guard is a sort of clannish bunch. They come from the same towns and they like to stay together. Now, they learn, that with a fine disregard for this stick-together spirit, the companies that are a little overmanned are going to have to send men to the companies who weren't able to recruit up to strength. Company K from Dublin, for instance, came to camp with 153 men. That is 34 too many and they've got to split that 34 between the Company A boys from Jackson and the Company M outfit from Hawkinsville, who are short-handed. Sadness hangs over Company K like a curtain. Everybody hopes the finger won't be put on him. Every man wants to stay with his own outfit, and the burden of homesickness which is already being felt here is made worse by the process of transfers.

Much Paper Work.
There's another thing that's troubling even the commanders of the former free and easy National Guardsmen, too. It used to be when an officer of one company was a little short of men and wanted something done, such as a kitchen set up, say, he could send a messenger over to a neighboring company and borrow a couple of men like neighbors borrowing a couple of eggs. Now it can't be done that simply. There has to be all sorts of formality and paper work and by the time the order comes through it's too dark to do anything anyhow. The paper work has to be done more neatly, too. One company first sergeant, used to filling out his morning report wherever he happened to be, writing generally with a stub pencil while resting under a tree, got his reports back from regimental headquarters with a sharp comment from somebody up the line. Chastened in spirit at catching a rebuke on his first day, he now prints his reports laboriously, in ink, with his tongue sticking out one corner of his mouth like a small boy.

The strict army rules of cleanliness make it hard on a reporter used to the casual sanitation of a newspaper office. Tear a sheet of paper out of the typewriter and throw it on the floor and you get a glare that curls your hair. Flip ashes on the floor or toss a burnt match stem down and you draw an open reprimand. For throwing a cigarette on the floor the penalty is probably death at sunrise in front of a firing squad.

Recruits Resting.
The only men not being worked on the drill field until their tongues hang out, are the recruits. The new men who came in to take the place of those knocked out by physical disability or dependents. With no time for equipping them, they were brought along to camp as they were, a most unimpressive crew in panama hats, overalls, and two-tone shoes.

While the veterans drill they lie at ease in the shade near the supply tent waiting their call to get their equipment. Unfortunately, the equipment being issued them is brand new, shiny and well fitting, a fact which causes some of the more or less tattered veterans some disgust.

On the whole though, for the benefit of those back home who might be worried about how Johnny is doing, they are getting along fine. They are convinced that they will see some foreign service before they see home again but they aren't worrying about that.

No Playing.
As for their outside activities, from the way things look at the start they are going to be worked too hard all day to do much playing around at night. It will be a while yet before Joe's foxhole and the doghouse, neighboring jooks, get much of a play, despite the fact they are passing cards around the boys announcing "dine and dance—beer and wine, ladies to serve you."

'Polio' Benefits Raise $1,407,245
WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—(AP) The 1940 "fight infantile paralysis" campaign, climaxed annually in dances and other celebrations marking President Roosevelt's birthday, raised a record total of $1,407,245.74, the committee in charge of the drive announced today.

In a report to the President, Keith Morgan, chairman of the committee for the celebration of the President's birthday, said the proceeds exceeded by nearly $80,000 the amount collected in 1939. Of the amount collected, Morgan reported, $768,780.29 went to various communities and chapters of the national foundation for infantile paralysis throughout the nation. The national foundation received $638,465.45.

Firemen Toil Oblivious to Nazis' Bombs

London Brigade Puts Out Excelsior Plant Fire During Battle.

By VINCENT SHEEAN
For North American Newspaper Alliance.
LONDON, Sept. 24.—During a Nazi air raid that lasted about three hours your correspondent observed the work of the London fire brigade and their auxiliary fighters. A big fire which required the use of hundreds of pumps and the services of about 500 men, made a thrilling though terrible spectacle, in which it was easy to forget the drone of German airplanes, the roar of anti-aircraft guns and the reverberation of bombs.

The Ministry of Information arranged for this trip. The fire brigade took us on soon after the night's raid began—William McGaffin of The Associated Press, Robert Lowe of Liberty Magazine, and myself. McGaffin and I had a car and a sub-officer as a guide; Lowe had another.

Sky Seems Ablaze
When we started out the barrage was heavy; the sky toward the east seemed ablaze. The main fact about all these fires is that, when seen from a distance, they give the impression of a tremendous conflagration which, it appears, the city scarcely can survive. The nearer you get to them the less disastrous they seem, even though to the individual sufferers they are bad enough.

Our fire brigade car passed along the Thames with commendable speed and dived into a general area from which a glare was visible. Headquarters had told us exactly where the fire was, and we had no trouble in finding it.
I am not permitted to name the precise area or the nature of the buildings in the streets of that area that was filled with fire equipment and men at work, the largest number of them belonging to the auxiliary fire service, which has been doing a tremendous job in the last 10 days.

Excelsior of Fire
The main fire, or what we thought was the main fire until we saw some of its associates in the same group, was blazing from the three top stories of a warehouse building in which, apparently, excelsior was kept. The building next to it contained chemicals for a printing plant, and besides the effort to quell the main fire the anxiety of the fire brigade was to prevent any spread of the flames.

This was accomplished within two hours, and when McGaffin and I left that area, the first fire had been put out.
Apparently the Germans had released a large number of incendiary bombs in that district, and although most of the fires were put out by watchmen and wardens some bombs caught in flammable materials just under or upon the roofs. We watched the struggle against several of these in the immediate neighborhood.
One fireman was working from the top of a swivel ladder with a hose pumping about 750 gallons of water a minute. He signalled with his left hand whenever he wanted the ground workers to shift his ladder, or lean it forward. Geysers, sparks and balls of fire were going up all around his black figure, outlined against the flames. He had a telephone up there, but sometimes was too busy to use it.

During the entire period the anti-aircraft barrage and the bombing continued, but the firemen apparently were unaware of them.
McGaffin and I discovered that we, too, were becoming oblivious to anything outside our circle of water and flames.
The caretaker of some nearby buildings came along to ask advice of our sub-officer.
"I have just been putting out some incendiary bombs," he said. "Will you see whether I have done it properly?"
We climbed to the loft of the building he referred to. It was surrounded by major and minor blazes. The caretaker politely showed the way with a torch. He had extinguished two incendiary bombs up there with sand and two more on the ground floor.

One of them, which we picked up, was very hot, but apparently had been correctly extinguished.
These particular incendiary machines have a thermite filling and magnesium casing which flies up to spread the fire when they ignite.
All Under Control
All the fires in our area were either extinguished or coming under control when we left. However, from some distance away they still had that look of a tremendous conflagration because of the reflected glares in the night sky.
The work of these fire brigades and the auxiliary men is extraordinary in the highest degree, second only—if that—to that of the fighters and bombers. Therefore, it was startling to hear our sub-officer and guide say, "those fighter blokes must be bloody wonderful!"

Willys-Overland Dealers To Meet

Distributors, dealers and salesmen of the Willys-Overland Motors, Inc., of Atlanta, and the surrounding territory will meet today at the Biltmore Hotel for their first view of the new 1941 Willys.
M. J. Golden, sales manager of Willys-Overland, from Toledo, Ohio, will be the principal speaker at the luncheon at 12:30 o'clock and will describe the new model, which has been newly designed and newly engineered from "bumper to bumper."
Among the changes made in the 1941 model are greater power, higher speed and faster pick-up, due to engineering improvements, and luxury features designed to fill the need of a family car at the lowest price of any full-sized car.

For your own security, for your children's sake, for the protection of your future—why don't you definitely decide on home ownership today? The Real Estate for Sale ads in today's Constitution afford this opportunity.

Scouting Chiefs Accept Plans At Rally Here

Organization Prepares for Possible Service in National Defense.

Presidents and executives of the councils of Division 3 of Region 6 of the Boy Scouts of America, met in Atlanta yesterday and accepted the new 10-point "Program of Action" to be followed by Scouts this fall and winter to "strengthen and invigorate democracy."

W. A. Dobson, regional executive, Cherry Emerson, chairman of the regional committee, and Dr. Herman L. Turner, chairman of Division 3, discussed the program at the morning session and Dr. Roswell C. Long, regional chairman of the speaker's bureau and program committee was principal speaker at the luncheon.

The plans call for each council to take inventory and roll call of every troop; to recruit leaders to take the place of those who may be called into military service; to increase membership of each troop to its 32-boy capacity; to organize emergency service corps, and to mobilize all units for possible use in the national defense program.

Dr. R. L. Ramsey, of the Georgia Education Association and member of the Boy Scout speakers' bureau, and Frank Wood, chairman of the regional committee on "cubbing," also made brief talks.

Among other Scout executives attending the conference were: E. J. Knight, president of the Georgia-Alabama Council, Columbus, Ga.; J. S. Roberts, Atlanta Area, Atlanta; C. W. Coleman, Chattahoochee, West Point; W. W. Kirby, Flint River, Griffin; A. A. Drake Jr., Central Georgia, Macon; J. W. Bush, Chehaw, Albany; Jack M. Jones, Chatham Area, Savannah; Lee Parker, northwest Georgia, Rome, and L. A. Wesson, Suwannee river, Tallahassee, Fla.

Other regional executive committees were: Mel R. Wilkins, Frank D. Wood, L. E. Marfield, and Dr. W. A. Sutton, all of Atlanta; George H. Lanier, and the Rev. S. P. Spiegel, West Point; R. D. Harvey, Lindale; Harry G. Strachan, Savannah; W. N. Banks, Grantville; J. O. Porter, Covington, and George E. Lewis, Tallahassee, Fla.

SENIOR SCOUTS MEET AT ADAMS CAMP

First convocation of Senior Boy Scouts of the Atlanta Area was held during the weekend at Bert Adams Camp, with 84 boys 15 years of age and over and leaders attending.

The six phases of the senior scout were discussed by the following campers: Marshall Banks, sea scouting; O. Ben Huggins, roving; Bob Johnson, exploring; Thomas Widener, Knights of Dunamis; Lester Chambers, Order of the Arrow; and Pat Patterson, Alpha Phi Omega.

Plans were formulated for service opportunities for Senior Scouts and for organization of an emergency service corps were presented by Weaver M. Marr, scout executive. D. O. Smith,

Henry T. Smith Is Appointed to Consul Service

Young Atlantan Goes to Mexico To Assume New Post.

Henry T. Smith, 25-year-old Atlantan whose appointment to the United States Foreign Service was confirmed by the senate last month, left Atlanta yesterday to become vice-consul in Matamoros, Mexico.

Mr. Smith, a native of Athens, Ga., is the son of Mrs. William M. Smith, 1074 Columbia avenue, N. E. He graduated from Lanier High school, in Macon, Ga., with honors, and was graduated last June from the Georgia Evening school with honors. He was president of his class, and a member of the Speaker's Club, Theta Xi Zeta and Alpha Kappa.

While attending school he was connected with the construction office of the telephone company, and studied commercial, international, and maritime law in preparation for the examinations which he stood before he received his consular appointment.

He was accompanied to Mexico by his wife, the former Miss Nelle Varner, also of Atlanta.

In a letter to his son, William Tofte, who lives here, the elder Tofte, a retired government employee, revealed that from a pension of $2,200 annually, he must turn back the $1,800 as income tax. He gained the pension by contributing 4 per cent of his salary.

Wellborn Tells Of Nazi Bullets Zipping by Him

Drove Ambulance While Guns Chattered Overhead.

John D. Wellborn, Atlanta ambulance driver in the Battle of France, is back home now with hair-raising stories of his adventures behind a wheel and in front of wounded Frenchmen. But he has little to say about the events.

As a member of the American Volunteer Ambulance Corps he got to Europe to see much of the Battle of France and shyly and unintentionally admits that he drove an ambulance along roads where machineguns from the air fired upon French refugees and his ambulance.

Foremost in Wellborn's thoughts, however, are memories of the difficulties which he and 20 other American ambulance drivers encountered when they left France to return to America through Portugal and Spain.

Only one of their group spoke Spanish fluently, he reported; and only after they were safely on the American ship Exambion and well beyond the Azores, did one of the group reveal that he had fought with the defeated Loyalists in Spain against the Rebels, who have since come into authority.

Now he recalls the perils which confronted his party and its journey over to Europe. And, although he viewed some of the most dramatic and exciting events in modern history, still he refuses to allow his memories to develop into conversations.

Woman Confesses Extortion Attempt

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—(P)—An attempt to extort $50,000 from Miss Helen Clay Frick, heiress of the late steel multi-millionaire and art collector, under threat of bombing "everything she had," was disclosed by the Federal Bureau of Investigation today with the arrest of a middle-aged woman charged with the plot.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said that Mrs. Stanley Beggs, 46, of Lyndhurst, N. J., an alien who came to this country from Canada in 1910, had confessed sending three threatening letters to Miss Frick between August 14 and September 19.

In the third note, Hoover said,

Mrs. Beggs referred to the Hercules Powder Co. blast at Kenil, N. J., on September 12 and said the same thing would happen to Miss Frick unless she complied with the demands.

THE DOLLARS & CENTS COST

For Those Who Figure With Sharp Pencils

Many take at face value advertisements claiming "lowest interest on loans," etc., but the wise man investigates the actual total cost before borrowing. Always ask for the amount in dollars and cents for the time your loan is to run.

In all our advertising, we show the exact cost, in dollars and cents, that any loan will cost you, whether it is to run twelve months or twenty-four months.

To illustrate, take these five examples:

Amount of Loan:	Total Interest For Twelve Months:
$ 50.00	$ 5.00
100.00	10.00
200.00	20.00
500.00	50.00
1,000.00	100.00

Two years to repay if you need or want it.

SECURITY: Household Furniture, Automobiles, Diamonds, Endorsers, etc.

We like to make loans. We never turn down a loan unless we absolutely have to. We go out of our way to make loans that seem impossible at first.

south of the group of permanently constructed hospital buildings now in use, which have a 250-bed capacity. The new construction, he said, is needed to meet the demands of the fort's rapidly growing military population.

The buildings will be of the one-story, wooden, temporary type, some of which will be given over to the housing of the 120 nurses that will be on duty and the large medical department detachment necessary to operation.

Each ward in the new hospital will accommodate 33 patients. The hospital is divided into small sections in order to provide greater safety in case of fire, to separate convalescents from the seriously ill, and to facilitate medical and surgical care. Covered runways will connect the various buildings. Plans for the new units include provision for further expansion should future needs require it.

Plans to convert the old 83rd Field Artillery barracks into a hospital annex were abandoned when Washington approved the grant for the new hospital group, Colonel Alfante said.

Colonel Alfante also reported yesterday that the Mion Construction Company, of Atlanta, were successful bidders for the construction of 62 large cantonment buildings to house students and provide other facilities for the expanding Infantry School at the post.

Mion's bid was $352,213. The company stipulated in its bid that work would begin seven days after the award of the contract and that the project would be completed in 45 days.

In addition to 45 barracks there will be erected one enlisted men's mess building, several officers' mess buildings, eight supply buildings and a recreation hall. The new building will be located at the south end of Gordon Field as supplements to the cantonment group built last spring for the 20th engineers.

Benning authorities also announced that the next two weeks will see the completion of the Fourth Division cantonment in the Harmony church area of the fort. Work on the temporary buildings, to house the Fourth Medical Battalion, the Fourth Quartermaster Battalion, Fourth Reconnaissance Troop, Headquarters and Military Police Company, Fourth Signal Company and Division Headquarters began last June 21.

The government will spend, or is now spending, additional millions at the aircraft firing center near Savannah, on the Savannah airport, on other work at Fort Benning, at Fort Oglethorpe and Screven, on the establishment of a naval air corps training base, and the construction of a huge army supply depot in the Atlanta area.

Commonwealth College Fined $2,500 by Court

MENA, Ark., Sept. 24.—(P)—Commonwealth College, widely known labor school near here, was fined $2,500 on a charge of anarchy and two allied accusations today after representatives of the school walked out on a justice of the peace court trial. Justice of the Peace Clem Brown, after hearing testimony in support of the charges from a Baptist minister, public health nurse, newspaper photographer, tax auditor and two sheriff's deputies, assessed the fines "in absentia."

CLOSED SEASON.

Police officers at Toledo have a shooting range called "Taxpayers' Run" because it includes five life-size silhouette targets spaced seven feet apart. Four of these are "taxpayers" and one which weaves in and out among the four is a "burglar." The trick is to shoot the "burglar" without hitting the "taxpayers."

The Stars are out-ALL FIVE!

All plus-powered with the new FIREBALL ENGINE

All party-dressed in 1941's SMARTEST STYLE

This is the cyclonic CENTURY

Here's the sprightly SPECIAL

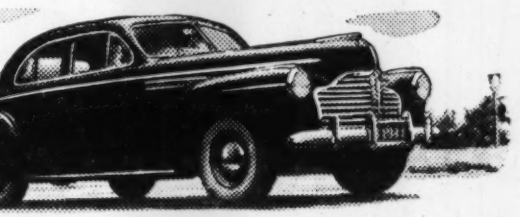

IT'S official now: the bright and glittering stars of the 1941 season are out—so at any Buick showroom you can see the best automobiles Buick ever built.

You'll see a massive grille, a trim speedstream radiator ornament—and behind them not one but five series of cars that are gorgeously new from dreadnaught bumper to direction-signaling taillight.

You'll spot a SPECIAL that not only looks like but definitely is the biggest package the money has ever bought.

You'll size-up a 125-horsepower SUPER that's still the shiningest style-star of the season, for all the efforts to duplicate its beauty.

You'll see a Buick LIMITED that is close to twenty feet of sheer spacious luxury—top-of-the-line in finish, richness and meticulous appointment.

... and the sleek-lined SUPER

All this your wonder-wide eyes will tell you, then your ears begin to take things in.

You'll learn here's lower-swung weight—a better, steadier, softer ride. Here are sensational new micropoisebalanced engines—FIREBALL Eights that get extra lift and power-wallop from still further progress in Buick's exclusive Dynafash combustion principle—here's brand-new Compound Carburetion that combines the lift of an extra engine with economy stepped up a full 10% to 15%!

Here are rugged new frames and new Flash-Way signals. New quiet-easy Concentric Shifting and new Permi-firm steering. New lovely body lines and new inside roominess. New instrument panels, new oil-bath air cleaners, new concealed running boards—even new clocks.

Yes, here are new things galore, modern new features by the dozen—but one thing is old, and hasn't changed a bit.

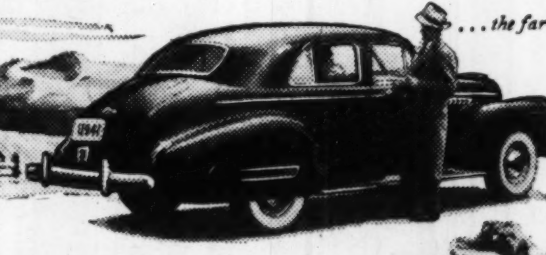

That's the plain rockbottom fact that when you see Buick you've seen the best of the bunch.

Make it the first one you see for '41, and save yourself a lot of fruitless looking around.

Willkie's Most Striking Gains With Independents, Poll Finds

Roosevelt Still Has Majority of That Group's Votes, But Republican Is Stronger Than Landon Was in 1936.

PRINCETON, N. J., Sept. 24.—Wendell Willkie's most striking gains as compared with 1936 Republican strength have been made among the so-called "independent" voters, a group overwhelmingly for President Roosevelt in the last presidential election.

Political leaders have long held a healthy respect for the "independent" vote, but not too much has been known heretofore about

How 'Independents' Vote

Independents In All States	% Major Party Vote for ROOSEVELT	% Major Party Vote for WILLKIE
Today's Gallup Poll	51%	49%
1936 Election, as Shown in Gallup Poll	76	24
Independents In 6 States	% Major Party Vote for ROOSEVELT	% Major Party Vote for WILLKIE
New York	49%	51%
Pennsylvania	62	38
Ohio	52	48
Illinois	46	54
Michigan	53	47
California	52	48

its size or voting habits. The institute's survey makes three major points clear in the current campaign:

1. One voter in every five (20%) regards himself as an independent—without definite party allegiance. Easterners and Westerners, farmers and city people, these voters will hold the balance of power in November, since neither the Republicans nor the Democrats have enough "regular" party members to carry the election unaided.

2. Whereas the independents reached in the institute's survey were 78 per cent for President Roosevelt in the election of 1936, only 51 per cent with definite opinions at this stage of the race say they will vote for Roosevelt again. Mr. Willkie, with 49 per cent of the independent vote today, is 25 per cent stronger with these voters than was Governor Landon.

3. Furthermore, a substantial number of independents (18%) say they have not yet decided how they will vote. "I'm still waiting to see what the candidates have to say," many of them remark. In state after state these independents who have yet to make up their minds may have a decisive effect next November.

Today in six key northern and western states, accounting for 153 electoral votes, independent voters with opinions divide as follows:

Independents	Roosevelt Percent.	Willkie Percent.
New York	49	51
Pennsylvania	62	38
Ohio	52	48
Illinois	46	54
Michigan	53	47
California	52	48

Voters in the survey were asked: "Do you consider yourself a Republican, Socialist, Independent or Democrat?"

The replies were:

Republican	35%
Independent	20%
Socialist and all others	1%

On the basis of the presidential vote in 1936, this means approximately 9,000,000 independent voters today—or about 12,000,000 when the total eligible population is considered.

The actual number of independents varies considerably from state to state and section to section. States with the largest proportions are Rhode Island (41%), Washington (33%) and Wisconsin (32%), while those with the lowest are South Carolina (2%), Mississippi (2%) and other Southern states.

The proportion of independents by states was:

Pct. Inds.	Pct. Inds.	Pct. Inds.
Maine 19	Wisconsin 32	Mississippi 2
New Hampshire 22	Minnesota 22	Arkansas 6
Vermont 25	Iowa 12	Louisiana 6

Willkie Flays Deficit-Making By New Deal

Terms Domestic Policy of Administration 'a Complete Failure.'

ABOARD WILLKIE TRAIN EN ROUTE TO BUTTE, Mont., Sept. 24.—(P)—Traveling eastward after a campaign swing through the far west, Wendell L. Willkie declared today that the New Deal's domestic policy "has been a complete failure, and its foreign policy a muddle."

Standing on the crowded streets of Spokane, Wash., the Republican presidential nominee said the Roosevelt administration has piled deficit on deficit, and has so conducted foreign affairs that the United States is almost bereft of any friend in the entire world.

Willkie told his applauding listeners the administration had left the United States completely unprepared, "and is only now trying to rush madly to build a stop-gap defense."

The former utility executive, making two addresses to sidewalk crowds in Spokane, also reiterated that local communities should decide whether the power from the projects should be distributed through publicly-owned or private systems.

He added that if a town wanted publicly-owned distribution, it should "buy out and take over" any existing private utility and that "some machinery should be set up for determining a fair price."

At Sandpoint, Idaho, Willkie expressed regret he could make no more stops in the home state of the late Senator William E. Borah, for whom the candidate said he had great admiration.

"This election is a struggle between those who believe in the New Deal in its entirety and those who do not," Willkie said.

He told the train-side crowd that no rural electrification projects would be abandoned if he were elected.

At Pittsburgh, Alfred P. Sloan Jr., chairman of General Motors Corporation, declared for Willkie in an interview in which he said that his election would "bring about a new note of confidence."

3d Term Issue Termed Minor Vote Factor

Willkie's Utilities Ties Also Minimized in Fortune Survey.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Neither the third term nor Mr. Willkie's former utility connections will be major factors in determining the outcome of the November election, according to the latest Fortune Survey of Public Opinion which will be published tomorrow in the October issue of Fortune magazine.

Only 29.9 per cent of the people feel that never under any circumstances should the President hold office for three terms. And all classes of voters overwhelmingly believe that Willkie's recent position as head of a major utility holding company is either an indifferent or even a favorable factor in his presidential qualifications.

The Fortune Survey also will reveal that regardless of what they hope personally, 58.1 per cent of the people expect Mr. Roosevelt to win the election, although 63.6 per cent believe the outcome will be close.

"Analysis shows that the largest vote against any third term comes from the class that dislikes Roosevelt the most; the prosperous, by 47.1 per cent," Fortune will explain. "The smallest comes from the poor: 18.4 per cent. Also, the largest votes for scrapping tradition are 16 per cent of the poor and 19.6 per cent of the traditionalist but pro-Roosevelt South Atlantic."

All economic levels, all parts of the country, all occupations tabulated believe, in varying proportions, that Roosevelt will be the winner this fall. Fortune will report: "Four years ago the answers to a similar question were: Roosevelt, 69.2; Landon, 22.3; don't know, 7.5 per cent."

"The most prevalent opinion that the election will be close is in the slightly pro-Willkie west north central, 72.4 per cent; the contrary belief is highest—41.8 per cent—in Roosevelt's stronghold, the southwest."

Atlanta Produce Market 'Just Fair'

Trading moved "just fair" over the week-end in the Atlanta fruit and vegetable markets, the Agricultural Marketing Service reported yesterday.

Considerable quantities of the produce available was labelled from out of state, indicating most of the Georgia truck had been marketed.

The Georgia extension service prompted farmers to get busy with their home gardens. North Georgians were advised to plant such crops as beets, carrots, Swiss chard, endive, kale, mustard, onions, radish, spinach and turnips.

For the balmy southern part of the state the service proposed similar crops, augmented by broccoli, asparagus and rhubarb.

Nation's Air Lines Set

New Travel Record
CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—(P)—The nation's air lines shattered their travel mark again in August, the Air Transport Association reported today, by flying 111,081,820 revenue passenger miles.

The figure was 8,700,000 more than the July total, the previous record. The August mark was 63.41 per cent over August, 1939.

The increase during the first eight months of 1940 over the same 1939 period was 61.64 per cent.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—(AP)—The Associated Press bureau in London advised New York headquarters over its leased cable tonight that it was "operating under extreme difficulty" during a terrific German air raid, intimating the possibility that the building had been hit by a bomb.

Jury Probing State To Meet Again Today

Camp, 3 Assistants, Expected To Return To Their Offices.

United States grand jury now conducting an investigation into the reported mismanagement of various departments of the state government will reconvene this morning after a week's recess.

Today is also expected to mark the return to their offices of United States Attorney Lawrence

S. Camp and three of his assistants who retired to Camp's country place below Fairburn Monday afternoon, reportedly for uninterrupted consultation on prosecution of federal trials now facing three state employees and ex-Klan Wizard Hiram Wesley Evans for alleged misuse of taxpayers' funds.

The jury adjourned last Wednesday after returning two indictments against J. G. (Bugs) Glover, suspended supervisor of state convict forces; one for allegedly having three state-financed houses built on land owned by him adjacent to prison camps, the other for allegedly pocketing money given misdemeanor convicts on their release to pay their transportation home.

The jurors were recessed, according to reliable sources, to give postal inspectors and other investigating agents time to trace new leads uncovered during a probe of the administration of state prison camps.

State employees facing federal charges in addition to Glover are George Blount, highway maintenance engineer, charged with collecting commissions on American Oil Company products; sold the highway board, and John W. Greer Jr., clerk of the house of representatives, who was jointly indicted with Hiram Evans on charges of conspiring to monopolize the sale of emulsified asphalt to the highway board, and of using the mails to defraud. Trials of all four defendants are tentatively scheduled for next month.

Sullivan Calls 7th District For Bonfire of Doctors' Wives Red Literature

Patriotic Citizens Urged To Collect Subversive Pamphlets.

Commissioner Lon E. Sullivan, of the State Department of Public Safety, yesterday urged patriotic citizens to collect "subversive literature" and "have a bonfire."

Addressing members of the Exchange Club at Macon, Commissioner Sullivan further stated that it had been brought to his attention that the German Library of Information and Communists are distributing subversive literature in this state and copies of pamphlets and leaflets have been located in several Georgia communities.

"Since under the law there is no way in which this literature can be stopped at its source, it seems to me a wise undertaking for the state patrol, the defense corps and the enforcement officers of this state to find as much of this literature as possible so that the patriotic citizens of Georgia can have a big bonfire and burn it up and thereby demonstrate to the nation that it is a waste of money to send subversive literature into Georgia," he said.

Three Million Cheer Legion's All-Day March

100,000 Veterans Furnish Boston With Color-Splashed Spectacle.

BOSTON, Sept. 24.—(AP)—In a mighty array of men and music, the American Legion marched again today before a record smashing crowd, estimated at more than 3,000,000, which cheered the veterans along a trail blazed by landmarks in the nation's history.

Scores of spectators collapsed and were carried off as the graying Legionnaires and their auxiliaries and bands, 100,000 strong, furnished Boston with a color-splashed spectacle, seldom, if ever surpassed in its history, as they dropped for the day all contemplation of their 22nd convention's more serious business.

Legion officials termed the parade crowd the greatest in the organization's 21 years of existence.

Over a two-and-one-quarter mile route through winding city streets, the foot-weary marchers trooped from shortly after dawn until long after dusk. In almost unending din and in a seldom broken line, bands blared, banners waved, drum majorettes strutted, and miniature cannon roared as the convention canes of the ex-service men clack-clacked a steady cadence on the hard pavement.

Borne by some Legionnaires were placards reflecting the war abroad.

"There will always be an England," was the word of one.

"To hell with Hitler," read another.

"God Bless America," said a third.

Willkie Group Puts Off Rally Till October 3

So Every Section Can Be Represented, Weltner Declares.

Georgia's Independent Democrats for Willkie have postponed their state convention until October 3, Philip Weltner, temporary chairman, announced yesterday. The convention was to have been held in Macon today.

Weltner said the new date was fixed "in order to afford every section the opportunity of being represented."

The call for delegates was sent out by Weltner, G. Pierce King, of Augusta; R. L. Anderson, of Macon; John Morrell, of Savannah; Graham Wright, of Rome; Hubert Moore, of Athens; Curtis Jordan, of Columbus, and K. S. Varn, of Waycross.

"Being unalterably opposed to a third term for any President," the call said, "as well as to the desertion by the New Deal of the principles of the Democratic party, and realizing there are thousands of Georgia Democrats who entertain similar views, the undersigned deem it vital that these independent Democrats of Georgia be given an opportunity for organization."

4-Story Building On Whitehall Sold

A four-story commercial brick building at 179-81 Whitehall street, near the corner of Trinity avenue, was purchased yesterday by John M. Rittelmeyer from the Trust Company of Georgia for an amount, it is understood, close to the city tax assessment of $24,000.

The property fronts 40 feet on the west side of Whitehall street and extends back 100 feet to an alley. It is well constructed, with electric elevator and other improvements, and is to be occupied in the future by the new owner in the conduct of a machinery and valve business.

Gas Tax Income Sets a New High

Georgians poured $2,112,155.43 into the state treasury during September for motor fuel and kerosene taxes to set a new high for the 21 years operation of the levy. The previous high was $1,960,875.19 collected in July of this year.

Figures released by T. Grady Head, state revenue commissioner, disclosed that the six cent a gallon gas tax brought in $2,094,220.13 while the one cent a gallon kerosene levy netted the state $17,935.30.

NEW CHAIRMAN?—James S. Peters, Manchester banker and businessman, is reported to be Governor-elect Talmadge's choice for the chairmanship of the state Democratic executive committee.

Peters Likely To Head State Party Group

Banker Reported Choice of Talmadge for Committee Post.

By The Associated Press.
Plans for organizing Governor-designate Eugene Talmadge's political forces for the Georgia Democratic convention began taking definite shape yesterday amid authoritative reports that James S. Peters, banker-businessman-farmer, of Manchester, would head the new executive committee.

Delacey Allen, Albany attorney—representative, is being groomed for the vice chairmanship of the committee and Shelby Myrick, Savannah lawyer and former state legislator, is the Talmadge choice for chairmanship of the platform committee, other reliable sources said.

These and other committee posts will be filled at the convention starting Wednesday, October 2, at Macon.

Peters, 56-year-old former state representative from Meriwether county, conferred with friends at Talmadge headquarters yesterday, but declined to confirm or deny the reports.

Talmadge in Boston.

Talmadge is in Boston and his son-campaign manager, Herman Talmadge, was in Birmingham. Usually dependable sources said some Talmadge supporters received notification of their selection for the posts.

An incoming governor's choices are usually elected at state conventions, since his supporters select the delegates from the counties he carried in the primary. Unsuccessful gubernatorial candidates sometimes waive the right to name delegates of the counties they carried.

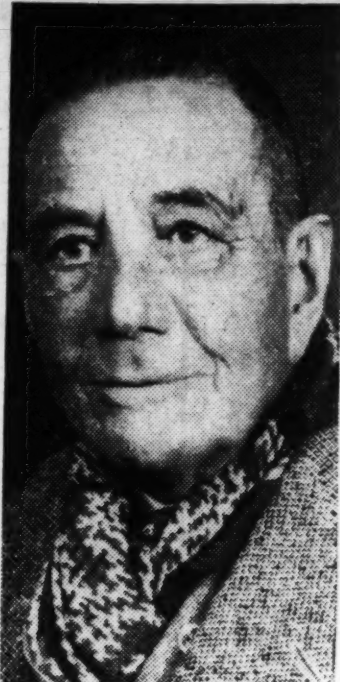

Peters, cofounder and president for 20 years of the Bank of Manchester, also is a fertilizer manufacturer, a major peach producer and he heads a telephone company which serves Manchester and the near-by Warm Springs Foundation. His business interests often bring him in contact with President Roosevelt, whose "other" home is at the infantile paralysis treatment center.

Machinery Completed.

The Savannah Evening Press said the machinery for nominating and seconding Peters had been completed, with Herman Talmadge to place his name before the convention. James L. Gillis, of Soperton, present chairman of the Democratic state committee, would open the Macon convention, under party procedure, and then would turn the gavel over to a temporary chairman who will preside during the election of a new permanent chairman.

Previous speculation for the chairmanship had centered around Delacey Allen and Herman Talmadge. The younger Talmadge recently denied he had any political ambitions. Yesterday, dependable Albany sources said Allen would become vice chairman of the committee, a position now held by State Auditor Zach Arnold.

Allen once polled about 230,000 votes for lieutenant governor in a general election in which creation of the office was disapproved. Formerly a critic of Governor Rivers' administration, he later spoke favorably of some Rivers' proposals. Myrick has been out of politics some time. He has served several terms in both the state senate and the house.

LEADER DIES—Jerome Jones, pioneer labor leader in the south and editor of the Journal of Labor, died yesterday morning.

ed the paper over to his son-in-law, Albert E. Hill, who later became Lieutenant Governor of Tennessee and attained national recognition as a labor leader.

He was persuaded to leave Nashville and come to Atlanta by Samuel Gompers, who at that time was president of the American Federation of Labor.

Mr. Gompers insisted that Mr. Jones come to Atlanta because he foresaw the place the Gate City was to play in the labor movement.

One of his first contacts in Atlanta was with Clark Howell Sr., who encouraged him in his work and up until the time of his death remained one of his best friends in the city.

Headed Group.

Mr. Jones served as chairman of the committee that persuaded Mr. Howell to run for the state senate and aided materially in his election to the post.

In partnership with C. C. Houston, Mr. Jones founded the Journal of Labor in 1898. Mr. Houston later became editor of Labor, official organ of all railroad labor organizations.

Aside from his editorial duties, he served as personal representative of Samuel Gompers throughout the south and his word was regarded as "law" in labor circles. He earned a nationwide recognition as the foremost advocate of conciliation and arbitration in labor disputes.

Obtained Legislation

He was appointed by Gompers to steer the Clayton bill through the Congress of the United States. This bill declared labor not to be the barter of trade and was considered by labor as the "Magna Carta" of the labor movement.

While working for the bill, Speaker Oscar W. Underwood honored Mr. Jones with the use of his personal office while he was in Washington.

In Georgia, Mr. Jones was noted as probably the first advocate of free textbooks and was one of the first to demand compulsory education.

He has probably done more for the cause of the common schools than anybody else in the state.

For many years he lectured at Agnes Scott and Emory University on the subject of political economy. He held that labor's advancement must come economically and not politically, and steadfastly refused to accept any political honors by either city, county or state.

He originally urged the abolishment of the convict lease system in Georgia.

Never Sought Office

He never sought office in the labor movement but at one time consented to serve the Atlanta Federation of Trades as president and on two occasions served as president of the Georgia Federation of Labor.

At the time of his death he was president emeritus of both organizations.

He served the state federation as delegate to the AFL convention many times. He was the only man that had a school named for him while he still lived.

Clark Howell Sr. and Preston Arkwright were his closest personal friends.

During the first World War he served the United States government as a $1-a-year man.

ARKWRIGHT, SUTTON PAY JONES TRIBUTE

Expressing appreciation of the long service of Jerome Jones in establishing the principle of conciliation in labor disputes, Preston S. Arkwright, president of the Georgia Power Company, declared:

"Jerome Jones was in the highest and best sense a man. His integrity was absolute, his devotion to his cause the guiding principle of his life, and his understanding of the true meaning of labor's advance rested upon sound judgment and understanding.

"For many years I had occasion to be associated with him in developing relations of mutual confidence in the consideration of problems which affected our respective interests. He was always fair, always painstaking in considering every detail of the problem at hand, always willing to deal generously with others as he expected to receive generously for himself and the cause he represented.

"It will require years properly to evaluate the greatness of his contribution to the establishment of conciliation as a substitute for strife in the relations between employer and employee. In this he was exceedingly far-sighted.

"As a personal friend and associate of Mr. Jones, I feel with thousands throughout the south and nation that we have seen come to an end a career of the highest worth. But his works will remain, and grow."

Superintendent Willis A. Sutton, of the Atlanta schools, said: "When a good friend called very early this morning stating that Jerome Jones had died, I could scarcely believe it. It is almost impossible for us to think of operating the city of Atlanta and the Atlanta public schools without the friendship, guidance, and support of a man like Jerome Jones. The entire school system, including the Board of Education and every employee, is saddened by his going away. Our city has been made better, our community stronger, our industrial life more stable, and the moral stamina of all Atlanta has been strengthened by his able leadership and guidance.

"As editor of the Journal of Labor, he has been one of our strongest supporters in every good work. I have often said that I doubted whether Atlanta had a more useful citizen, a stronger advocate of that which was right or a truer patriot than Jerome Jones. His going saddens us; his life strengthens us; his works live after him. Truly a whole generation rises up and calls him 'blessed!'"

Man Indicted On Charge of Perjury Here

Ex-Postmaster Accused in Connection With Power Company Suit.

W. S. Mooney, former Alabama postmaster, was indicted yesterday on a dozen charges of perjury in connection with his statements under oath in a damage suit against the Georgia Power Company in Fulton superior court last week.

The true bill set out he denied using any name but W. S. Mooney, that he denied having relatives in the United States, that he denied having been married more than once, that he swore he had no prison record, and that he had never had his fingerprints made by police.

His prints, made at Fulton tower after his arrest by County Policeman Hugh Perryman in the corridors of the courthouse, were checked by the FBI in Washington and revealed W. S. Mooney to have the aliases of C. P. Mooney, L. C. Mooney, Charles Mooney, William Clanton Mooney, Paul Mooney, L. C. Moody and William Samuel Mooney, and that he had served a term in federal penitentiary for counterfeiting and had been arrested and fingerprinted in Birmingham.

In the courtroom, Eugene Mooney, of Alabama, identified Mooney as his father; Thomas J. Mooney identified him as his uncle; and William Mooney declared he was his brother. Mooney denied ever having seen any of them.

The indictment charged he had been married twice and has seven living children.

RICH'S

NEW STORE FOR MEN

takes a HAT stand

We're for better and more becoming hats. We're getting a little tired of seeing our distinguished Atlanta citizens so meticulous about the fit of a lapel, the design of a shoe, and so casual about their hats. We believe hats should be made of materials that will take weather in their stride. We believe in hats that are made by careful, trained hands, that go through a thorough hand process of shaping, blocking and finishing. We believe in fitting the hat to the face—the homburg for the full face, the snap brim for the average face, the weltedge narrow brim for the thin face . . . You'll like buying your hats in Rich's fine new Store for Men. You'll like the separate hat shop where you have all the privacy you want. You'll like the fluorescent lighting which shows your hat color in true daylight. You'll like breathing the fresh country air (made by our ionizing air-conditioning plant). You'll like the wide aisles

"Something Goes Wrong"

Brigadier General George V. Strong, after six weeks observing the course of the European war from London, has returned to the United States. He brings with him a report that, from the viewpoint of the trained expert, gives this country an unbiased, calm and considered judgement on the probable outcome of the conflict. It must be also remembered, most importantly, that this report had to pass no foreign censorship. It is the considered findings of an American army man, made in this country after his return from London by American Clipper.

Britain, predicts General Strong, will defeat Germany in the end, but the war will be long. The time has passed when Germany could hope to invade England without "appalling losses." The RAF is making "magnificent showing" and British industry is producing new planes faster than the rate of loss.

Finally, and vitally interesting to America, Britain needs every thing the United States can provide in the way of war materials and equipment but does not need our manpower to fight.

Almost coincident with General Strong's report, come confidential advices from Washington sources which are in exceptional position to know the truth, that "something has gone wrong" with Hitler's plans. The thing that "went wrong," of course, was the failure of the Nazi air might to defeat the RAF. Without control of the air, Hitler could not hope to successfully invade England. In fact, with British bombers and fighters making the skies untenable for his own airmen, he could not hope even to embark any number of men who could cross that 22 miles of English Channel.

Further news of good import, also from informed Washington circles, is that British bombings in Germany proper, and in Italy, have been more successful than either Nazis or British have reported. This, combined with the awful pounding the RAF has given the "Invasion concentration" points along the Belgian and French coasts, is undoubtedly the "something wrong" which has happened to Herr Hitler's war schedules.

Certainly, he is far behind his announced program. That called for British collapse by August 15.

The recent conferences between Ribbentrop and Mussolini, in Rome, seem to indicate a shifting of the main effort of the Italo-German war machine to the Mediterranean. That inland sea may soon focus the heaviest fighting of the war, instead of the Channel and London. The "Battle of Britain" may be abandoned for the "Battle of the Mediterranean."

Incidentally, it is also interesting to learn that Germany has, and has had since before the war started, such a perfectly organized "Fifth Column" in Italy that Hitler could take over that country any time he desired. Poor old Il Duce is but a powerless pawn in the hands of Der Fuehrer.

If the main fighting shifts to the eastern Mediterranean, as now seems likely, it will probably involve, before it is over, Greece and Turkey. And what of Russia, sitting stolidly watching the preparations of a new feast for vultures?

50 Years of Service

The Augusta Herald, last Sunday, issued a remarkable anniversary edition, of 124 pages, marking the fiftieth anniversary of the paper's founding.

There is a double achievement here. First the achievement of publishing, in such excellent style, a paper of such dimensions. Type and illustrations are splendidly done and the editorial work is of highest caliber. Incidentally there is a well-earned tribute from members of the staff, on Page One, to Sam Moss, managing editor, who was chiefly responsible for the work of creating this fascinating edition. It was placed there, it is stated, without Mr. Moss' consent.

The second achievement is the tremendous accomplishment of 50 years of service to the Augusta area. Any newspaper which survives public service to its community and its people. Otherwise it could not survive.

The Augusta Herald ranks as one of Georgia's finest publications. It has been a power for good in its home city and a worthy example to all the state. It is to be sincerely hoped that it will continue to serve for at least another half century, growing to bigger and finer things hand in hand with its city and the state.

Jerome Jones

Few men in modern Atlanta life have been more widely respected and loved than Jerome Jones, editor of the Journal of Labor, who died on Tuesday morning.

Mr. Jones was for many years a leader in the south of organized labor. He belonged to the older school and was a close friend and confidant of the late Samuel Gompers, for many years president of the American Federation of Labor. Under the presidency of William Green, Mr. Jones continued his devotion to the AFL and was always a highly respected member of the organization's inner councils.

Mr. Jones was born to the publishing business, his father having been the editor of a daily newspaper in Nashville, where Jerome Jones was born. He came to Atlanta in 1898, at the request of President Gompers, to establish a labor journal in this city. How well he filled that assignment is testified by the constant excellence of the Journal of Labor, one of the best examples of labor publications in the country.

Although his health has been poor for the past two years, Mr. Jones continued to write editorials for his paper as well as a personal signed column which appeared on the first page of every issue.

He was a man honored not only by his fellows in the ranks of organized labor and its leadership, but by every one who knew him. He numbered his close friends in all walks of society. His death removes a valuable figure from contemporary Atlanta life and he will long be missed by all who take pride in the city.

Advertising Politics

Only too typical of the chicanery of the morally bankrupt Republican party and its starry-eyed high command is the projected "advertising campaign" to be inflicted in every section of the country by a business clique.

If it is finally carried out, the election of Wendell Willkie would be high treason on the part of every voter casting a Republican ballot. Treason to the people of the United States, who are entitled to expect at least common honesty and decency from any political party.

One aspect of the concerted advertising drive to be carried out by state party organizations, as a means to circumvent the intent of the Hatch act, reportedly involves the placing of placards in every vacant store owned by a Willkie backer proclaiming in effect that "This store is vacant because of the New Deal." One wonders how many have been vacant since the days of Herbert Hoover.

The advertising campaign is the natural outgrowth of the semi-chain letter campaign started by the Willkie forces earlier in the drive and still under way, in which the authors did not hesitate to take the name of Jesus Christ in vain to smear Roosevelt. They have, one hopes, received the complete disdain which they so richly deserve.

The advertising campaign may be expected to have a boomerang effect that possibly the Republican command has not thought about—as Willkie with all his condemnation of Roosevelt's foreign policy has not thought about his own statements, notably relative to Argentine beef—and that all self-respecting Americans will feel the disgust which must be the natural result of such cheap politics.

We never went as far as the totalitarians in declaring the profit motive a form of treason. The worst we can say for it is it is a mirage.

The lyric of a current hit song is so cute, there is talk of having it set to music.

JOINT DEFENSE BOARD.

"With the logical objective of a joint commission on the defense of Canada and our own country there can be full approval," declares Albany's KNICKERBOCKER NEWS, which, however, fears the "war-attitude of the President," saying, "There is a very real danger that his impulsiveness will lead him to expand the purposes of the commission into actual involvement in war and beyond his own powers." And the DESERT NEWS, of Salt Lake City, points out that the "board creates an unusual situation in American policy, as it involves an agreement between a neutral and a belligerent nation" . . . and . . . "Thousands of people . . . feel that there has been too much secrecy veiling the negotiations between the President and Dominion officials, and that whatever agreement or arrangement may be reached should . . . be submitted to the senate . . . before it becomes binding."

In one phase of activity, Canada is negotiating for military supplies, including immediate delivery of several hundred obsolete World War tanks, the DALLAS NEWS reports, and comments: "The Canadian purchase should be and probably will be effectuated in the immediate future. . . . We are late, but it is encouraging that we are learning."

THE DETROIT FREE PRESS recalls that "Not many weeks ago newspaper readers . . . were privileged to see pictures of the American army in training. Trucks and laundry wagons were built over with beaverboard and were labeled 'tanks'. Our soldiers were training with lead pipes and broomsticks. . . . Tanks? No, no tanks. . . . Today these same readers are looking at pictures of 229 American tanks which are to be transferred to Canada in some transaction the details of which have not been made public. No explanation is given as to why these tanks could not have been serviced for American training purposes."

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

THE SOUTH AND THE THIRD TERM

NEW YORK, N. Y., Sept. 24.—A few days ago the Republican presidential candidate, Wendell L. Willkie, visited Texas to urge the south to forsake its Democratic tradition and oppose a third term. Even though Willkie was received enthusiastically by large crowds, you cannot find a well-informed politician in either party headquarters here who will wager that Willkie will carry a single southern state.

The polls of public opinion show, of course, that the President has little serious opposition in the south. Yet it was only two years ago, when Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes first advocated a third term, that the biggest obstacle to the President's renomination seemed to be the anti-third-term sentiment in the south. The one organization that might be used in Willkie's behalf in the south, the Democrats-for-Willkie, recognizes that it would be wasted effort. The group is headed by two able Democrats, John W. Hanes, who until a few months ago was undersecretary of the Treasury, and Lewis Douglas, who was budget director in the President's first term. But Hanes, who is a native of North Carolina, and Douglas are devoting little attention to the south.

This decision came early in the campaign, after the group made spot checks of public opinion through the south and found the results discouraging. Hanes and Douglas discovered that if the anti-third-term feeling of Democrats was to be capitalized effectively, the most fertile field was not in the south, but in about 17 northern pivotal states from Iowa east through New England.

BUSINESS METHODS

The activities of the Democrats-for-Willkie and of Oren Root's Associated Willkie Clubs are interesting because both groups are using the most scientific of modern advertising methods. Hanes and Douglas, for example, are trying to convert to Willkie 2,000,000 Democratic voters in states with a total electoral vote of over 250. They have purchased lists of enrolled Democrats living in sections where a small shift of votes will give Willkie a victory. And they are circulating these voters by direct mail.

Anti-third-term pledge cards have already been sent to 500,000 Democrats. About one-third of this mass mailing responded and returned a pledge to vote against the President. Of these Democrats, about 25 per cent stated that in 1936 they voted for the President. This direct mail campaign, which is handled by advertising experts, has also netted Hanes and Douglas 36,000 volunteer workers scattered across the country.

The youthful Root, who was more responsible than any person for the organization of Willkie support before the Philadelphia convention, is using similar methods to that of the Hanes-Douglas group. But his setup is much more elaborate. He has organized 35 states with 1,800 Willkie clubs. He is using direct mail advertising methods, and hopes before November to have distributed 1,000,000 Willkie kits, containing 10 pledge cards and descriptive literature. He has developed a method of "chain" contacting whereby one volunteer gets 10 pledges and these pledges in turn get others. By this method he is attempting to "sign up" 11,000,000 voters.

NO JOBS FOR AMATEURS

When the campaign opened, as everyone knows by now, the regular Republican organization and particularly local Republican leaders looked on the two independent groups with somewhat the same feeling that a healthy person views a leper. Here were amateurs who were moving in on the bailiwick of the professionals. And for a month or so there was great friction and bitter personal feelings.

But apparently all is harmony now. The reason is that both Hanes and Root have assured the politicians that, if Willkie wins, they want no pay and patronage. This message, in fact, was carried by Willkie himself to the Republican national leaders, with instructions to pass the word down the line that the newcomers want nothing.

As a matter of fact, Hanes always intended to disband his organization after the election. His valuable voting lists are never to be used again. Root pledged that his 1,800 clubs would not seek to control jobs or distribute patronage. These promises apparently removed the cause of dispute. A few days ago a Republican state chairman, who had bitterly opposed Root's activities, asked him to set up Willkie clubs in his district.

Outwardly, at least, the sharp drop in Willkie's popularity as revealed by the latest Gallup poll has not discouraged Messrs. Hanes, Douglas and Root. They report private polls of more recent vintage than the Gallup tabulation, showing a rise in Willkie's popularity. But the betting odds here have risen to 11 to 5, with the President the favorite. Yet the Roosevelt Democrats are apparently taking no chances, for it is reliably reported that the new national chairman, Ed Flynn, put pressure on a large motion picture company in an attempt to prevent the release of the second of a series of "Information, Please," movie shorts featuring Wendell Willkie.

SILHOUETTES

"Roll Out The Barrel."

That story in Monday morning's Constitution of the wholesale death among British refugee children, when a German submarine perpetrated one of the foulest of many foul deeds in the record of the German navy by torpedoing their ship, en route to Canada in a savage storm, contained one sidelight which aroused personal memories.

Did you read how, as they marched, unflinching, to the lifeboats and, as they died, still unflinching in those storm-tossed boats, the children sang "Roll Out The Barrel?"

One year ago my wife and I were returning to New York, after a vacation in England, on board the Aquitania, a British ship. War had been declared and we were fearful of the submarines. (I only hope, if one had come, I could have behaved as well as did those British children, a couple of weeks ago.)

Our ship was blacked out and there was no moon. Decks, at night, were dark as the inside of a tomb and lights were permitted. Even cigarettes were taboo. So we spent our time in the badly overcrowded smoking rooms and lounges.

A Group of British Tars.

Among our fellow passengers was a group of some 70 or 80 sailors of the British mercantile marine. They were traveling as passengers, sent over to man a couple of large oil tankers in American ports. The tankers were British owned but had been operated by American crews, hence the necessity of change of personnel when the war came. These young men among us passengers were to take the two tankers back across the Atlantic, filled with oil. None of us envied them their jobs.

Most of them were inconspicuous, quiet fellows, impossible to distinguish from other passengers. But there were some half dozen who spent all their waking hours drinking beer in the smoking saloon. The beer was too weak to intoxicate anyway, but the amounts these boys swallowed, day after day, constituted one of the minor miracles of my experience, purely from the physical capacity viewpoint.

They sat around a table in the saloon, drinking the stuff by quarts and by gallons. And their favorite song was this same "Roll Out The Barrel." I suppose they regaled all within hearing with the first half of the chorus on an average of once every five minutes all day long, from early morning to midnight, never getting sicker of a song and a tune in my life.

But those lads were having a swell time. There was one tall, handsome youngster, with wavy dark hair, who'd jump to his feet with or without provocation, waving a beer stein around, and below:

"Roll out the barrel, we'll have a barrel of fun;
Roll out the barrel, we've got the blues on the run—"

And a shorter and lighter, but probably tougher, young Scotchman they called Mac. He'd join in, vociferously.

The Song Of A War.

I imagine, when the full story of this war is told, this same song will take its place as the unofficial war song. Sung by the lads in the cantonments, the sailors on lonely duty at sea—and by the British children as they died.

I'm no longer sick of the tune. I'm proud of it. I wonder what has become of those carefree young sailors who yelled it out on the Aquitania. And, every time I hear it, it seems to me to typify the brave gaiety which permeates British spirit today.

Do you remember "It's a Long Way to Tipperary"? That was Britain's war song in the years of 1914-18. It had no war connotation in its words, it just happened to catch the popular fancy at the right moment and, today, there is something almost sacred to the British people in its simple words and tune.

When we went into the war our song was "Over There."

I suppose, in years to come, "Roll Out The Barrel" will have an honored place in the personal memories of the average Britisher, just as "Tipperary" now has.

It won't, probably, be granted official recognition. Its composer won't be given medals or high honors. But, in the hearts of the men who march today to its rollicking tune, in the hearts of the mothers and fathers whose only comfort, today, is that their little ones died bravely, "Roll Out The Barrel" will have a lot of meaning you can't find anywhere in its words.

Twenty-Five Years Ago Today.

From the news columns of Saturday, September 25, 1915:

"The largest saving made to the city this year was by the school department, it having turned back into the treasury $35,000."

And Fifty Years Ago.

From the news columns of Thursday, September 25, 1890:

"Georgia has 300 life-term convicts in the penitentiary chain-gang."

FAIR ENOUGH

Skate

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—I have never met a more authentic specimen of the labor skate who fattens on organized labor in the role of political patron than Oscar F. Nelson, a judge of the superior court of Cook county, who has the effrontery not only to sit in judgment on the fate and fortunes of other men but to present himself as a candidate for the office of public prosecutor.

Ordinarily the public outside Chicago would have no interest in a contest for the office of state's attorney here for which the judge is now a candidate. But in this case the circumstances compel wider attention, for organized labor in Chicago has been devoured and ruled by racketeers of the criminal underworld as nowhere else in the country, and yet this judge, himself identified with evil interlopers, is campaigning as one who would "drive out all the undesirables who seek to fasten themselves upon labor organizations."

I call attention to the fact that I write not on hearsay but on information. I interviewed this judge for almost two hours in an office which he occupies in the suite of the law firm which still holds the account of the Flat Janitors' Union, a subsidiary of the malodorous International Union of Building Service Employees.

He formerly was a partner in this firm, but claims that he has dissociated himself for the duration of his term on the bench. I hope he is more truthful in that statement than in other declarations which he made to me.

A Statement Disproved

One statement I have already disposed of, that his firm got only a little more than $10,000 a year from the janitors during the 12-year period, from 1923 to 1935, when he represented these toilers officially. The proposition that this relatively small union required even that much legal service, including service of its individual members, if the union and the members were reasonably well-behaved, I need not discuss. It is his proposition and I will leave it lay where Nelson flung it.

But, confronted the next day with the fact that this union regularly collected an assessment of $2 per member per quarter for legal services, Judge Nelson admitted that this had been so, that his firm got "part" of this kitty, amounting, "at times" to $30,000 a year, and that one year the firm's rakeoff was $42,000.

Not His Secretary?

In the same interview Judge Nelson denied to me that his secretary had taken the minutes of the executive meeting in 1937, at which a mob of New York and Chicago hoodlums took over the presidency of the Building Service Employees by electing to that office George Scallise—the white slaver and inveterate racketeer who recently was convicted of robbing the union treasury. He admitted that the minutes were taken by a young woman employed by the law firm, but said she was not his secretary any more and was not his secretary at the time she took the minutes. Yet twice in the course of our conversation, this person entered the room where we were sitting and performed secretarial duties for him.

Judge Nelson also denied that he had served as counsel for the Building Service Union and said he knew Scallise only slightly.

On September 7 the Chicago Tribune quoted him as saying he never received a single fee from Scallise's union, which would suggest that he never represented the organization, and on September 20, the Chicago Daily News said he flatly denied that he ever was connected with the Building Service Employees.

His Own Writings

By way of comment on the truth of his statements I now quote from a greeting from Judge Nelson published in the official ballyhoo journal of the Scallise racketeers in its first issue, August 1, 1938, when he was on the bench.

"I hasten to extend my greetings, congratulations and good wishes to General President Scallise, to his fellow officers of the international union and to the new journal," Judge Nelson wrote.

And, again recalling his denial that he ever was counsel for the international note this closing sentence of his greeting:

"Because of the many years that I served as the attorney for the Building Service Employees' International Union and the part I had in its beginning, I shall always be particularly interested."

This from the man who says he would "drive out all the undesirables who seek to fasten themselves upon labor organizations."

DROWNING CHILDREN

A waiter slid me a cup of coffee down the marble counter. "What do you think of them Germans now?" he said. "Drownin' children! What do you think?" His face was red and he cursed the Germans, damning Hitler with florid oaths.

A taxi driver, waiting at a light, said: "Can you imagine the low-down—doing a thing like that? A lot of kids and they blow them up and let a lot of them drown. Why," he said, "I'd like to get one crack at that guy. I'd like to take that Hitler by the throat and see his eyes bulge out when his breath went."

A policeman said to me, "I'd like to take that bird and cut off his toes one at a time and then his fingers. I'd like to see him die slowly and in terrible pain. Blowing up children!"

I went home, and under the shower I thought:

"Well, Adolf, you've dirtied us all up. You've poisoned all our minds, you and your killers. That waiter in the restaurant isn't a bad guy. He is cheerful and gay and has a lot of old gags to pull on the customers. He gets off from work and meets his girl and takes her to a show and sets her up to a beer or an ice cream cone. He likes to dance. He knows all the steps. What have you done to his mind? You've put the acid of hate in his mind."

"That taxi driver isn't a bad fellow. He is paying for a small place. He works at a garden in his back yard. His wife cans some of the beans and tomatoes. They send a boy to school and worry about the way he wears out shoes. And clothes. No one ever would have thought, Adolf, you'd have reached over the seas and made that man hate you. But he does. He's a harmless fellow, but you have done something to his mind so that he cheerfully could torture you, Adolf, could he get you."

"And the copper? He doesn't like to arrest people. He has a kind word for the poor ones on his beat. He never slugged a drunk with a blackjack as some of the bullies do. You've dirtied up his mind, too."

WHEN THE NEWS CAME

I imagine when the news came that a shipload of children deliberately had been sunk by the Germans, thousands of fathers in America felt something red run through their minds, the raw, red rage of anger.

That moment, when the news came, there must have been some fifty millions of persons who thought, "I'd like to kill Hitler."

All over the country barbers, bakers, bankers, teachers, newspapermen, real estate agents, undertakers, lawyers, doctors, dentists, shoe repair men, farmers, clerks, workers with shovels—all these and more felt that desire to kill Hitler because he represented to them the force which would drown children.

They have done this to our minds. They have made many of us who fancied ourselves peaceful persons, feel the lust to wipe out all that beastliness.

Those who were saying a few months ago that this time they'd keep their minds clear of all hatred and fears, were the first to succumb. They were going to avoid all propaganda. They were not going to fall for any of the old stuff which featured the first war. And they didn't. The propaganda of the old war hasn't worked in this one.

But we do feel something. We just don't like it. That's all. We are a daffy people given to emotion and to extravagances. We have queer ideas at times. But we don't like killing children. And we don't like arrogance, although we have enough of it ourselves. There is just something in us which calls for fair play and decency.

IF WAR COMES

A long time ago I tried to write that we got into the last war because we wanted to. It wasn't the war debts. It wasn't the House of Morgan. There weren't any big debts when we got in. It wasn't that we were tricked by Woodrow Wilson as a lot of misinformed persons try to say today. We got in because we wanted to get in.

Franklin D. Roosevelt can't make us go to war, nor can he keep us out of war, if we make up our minds one way or the other.

Wendell Willkie, confused and incompetent as he is in his campaign, knows he is talking through his hat when he says the destroyer deal was all right but brought us nearer to war. Senator Vandenberg and all his political tricksters can't keep us out or get us in.

The people will decide. They decided before.

They went before so as to make the world safe for democracy. That was all right. That's what they went for. It was all mixed up by the politicians of all nations. But the emotion of the people was sound.

It will be sound again. If they become convinced that it is the beast against man, they may go to war. If they do, the force making them go will be a cumulative one of bombs, the drowning of children, and other horrors.

If we go it will be because we want to go.

We won't go until we do want to.

And no one can do much about it. Except hope.

In the southern part of Mexico, where a vanished race developed an admirable culture and kept an accurate calendar 500 years before Herod hunted the Child born in Bethlehem, a wide and quiet river creeps through the tangled jungle and at last finds its way to the Gulf.

In the river is an island several miles long, and here an Aztec Indian brought his young wife in the year 1890 or thereabouts and began to make a home.

No Blue Monday. For This Week's Morning Papers

If your Constitution of this past Monday has not been used to cover a pantry shelf or mailed to your married daughter in Oklahoma I suggest you take a look at it again. It was a lulu, from the managing editor's standpoint.

Monday's paper is a pain in the neck to the lads who must make it look newsy. The news must be gathered on Sunday. The courts are closed, the state capitol is empty, the markets are taking a holiday, of course.

You can count pretty well upon the usual list of automobile wrecks and fatalities, but they're routine nowadays. There just ain't no news.

The revered Theodore Roosevelt understood that—as he understood most things. So he would hand out his official statements to the press on Sundays, confident they would make first page, with big headlines on Monday morning. If the public reaction wasn't what he desired he'd insist that he'd been misinterpreted, but that's beside the point.

But to get back to last Monday morning's paper. The saying is "it never rains but it pours." There's no news or else too darn much. A lot of it broke last Sunday.

I'm looking at the front page of that issue.

That kidnaped boy was found, safe. Floyd Woodward, 20 years a fugitive, was caught. Child refugee ship had been torpedoed without warning by Nazi submarine, with 293 dead. The missing plane bearing a general had been found in Georgia swamp—little, if any, hope for survivors. There was even news for the inside pages. Daughter was born to wife of Fred Snite, the "iron lung man."

Publicity Did It

How much publicity should be given to kidnapping cases, hold-up robberies and such crimes? Newspapers have been accused of aiding criminals by telling too much. Sometimes that has been true.

But consider this California kidnapping. Local chief of police told the newspapers at once. He believed they could help.

They did. If it had not been for the newspapers and the radio those lumbermen, driving through the forest, would have had no suspicion of the stranger inquiring the way to somewhere who had a small boy in his car. But they spotted him on sight.

If they hadn't been informed who knows what might have been the outcome. Perhaps payment of that huge ransom and recovery of the child. Perhaps payment—and a dead baby, as in the Lindbergh case.

The kidnaper is reported to be a German alien. I'm rather sorry about that, because I can't logically connect Hitler with a plot to kidnap an American baby for ransom. I think it's the last thing the Nazi outfit would like. I'd say Hitler's crowd is even more incensed over the crazy action of Wilhelm Jakob Muehlenbroich, German alien, than any American could be. He just added fuel to the flaming rage against the Nazi dictators—a flame hot enough before and even hotter since the news of the sinking of that refugee ship.

I would be willing to join a mob to hang Hitler and his gang higher than Haman for their crimes against humanity. But not because of this kidnapping case. I don't think the kidnaper's nationality had a darn thing to do with it. We've had plenty of American kidnappers.

"May I Quote You?"

In a chat with Ralph T. Jones, associate editor, the other day, I discovered we had long ago developed the same formula in dealing with zealots with an ax to grind or an enemy to punish. I think it's invoked by most newspaper people.

Chap comes in with a mission. He's sore on something—or somebody. He tells all about it convincingly.

"You might be right," says ye editor. "Just write it out and sign it and we'll print it." "You're crazy," returns the ardent advocate of something—or other. "I'd make a lot of enemies. And lose my business."

"Aren't you willing to sacrifice yourself for your faith?" asks ye editor. I don't know why I write "ye" but it's traditional and sounds good.

"Well, not quite yet," admits the would-be manipulator of public opinion. "I got to make a living."

So that's that—and all of that.

Perhaps after all there is some good in politics.

Now all the shouting is over I find myself in possession of 22 neat blotters inviting a vote for three candidates. Unhappily, all were losers. My top desk drawer also contains three cigars, received from candidates or supporters whose names I do not recall at this moment. I am saving these for whatever bores may call, feeling sure they will have to seek fresh air after smoking the first inch.

The cigars may dry out, but I am sure the blotters will hold out until the next primary, two years hence.

SEE SHORT CROP.

SPARTA, Ga., Sept. 24.—Leading farmers in this section say the cotton crop will be much shorter than once was expected on account of weather conditions which have prevailed for the past few weeks. Most of the cotton is now open in the fields and is being picked out as rapidly as possible considering the shortage of farm labor. Ginsall over Hancock county are running full time.

TO CLOSE PLANT.

SPARTA, Ga., Sept. 24.—George F. Oldham, owner of the Oldham Lumber Company here, will close his plant and move to Blakely, Ga., where he will enter a similar business. There are four other planing mills in Hancock county which are running full time.

W.H. Glenn, 68, Civic Leader, Is Dead Here

Widely Known Business Man Will Be Buried This Afternoon.

William H. Glenn, 68, one of the south's leading businessmen and civic leaders, died yesterday in a private hospital.

Mr. Glenn was one of the best known business executives in Atlanta and the entire south, having been connected prominently with leading enterprises for nearly 50 years.

He was the brother of Thomas K. Glenn, chairman of the board of trustee of the Trust Company of Georgia.

Retiring from business last July when he resigned as chairman of the board of the Southeastern Compress and Warehouse Company, Mr. Glenn ended the hospital about two weeks ago.

Born at Cave Springs, Ga., the son of Dr. Wilbur Glenn, leading Methodist minister after whom Glenn Memorial Methodist church at Emory University is named, he came to Atlanta at an early age. His mother was Flora Harper Glenn.

He was a member of the second graduating class from Georgia Tech, receiving his degree in 1891. He immediately found employment with the Consolidated Street Railway Company, the organization headed by the late Joel Hurt and a forerunner of the Georgia Power Company.

His first employment was the basis on which he built his career of successive successes, diligently applying himself, and advancing steadily to a key position with the company. He, however, went up step by step. His first job was that of rodman, but soon he was promoted to the position of motor repairman and in 1893, only two years out of college, he became master mechanic in the street railway shops.

Advanced Rapidly. Serving for a time in this capacity, he was elevated rapidly to purchasing agent, and assistant superintendent of construction. The latter post was accepted by him in 1898.

When the Georgia Railway and Electric Company was organized in 1902, he was chosen to head the construction division and under his direction 87 miles of new rails were laid and 63 miles of old track were rebuilt. In 1908, Thomas K. Glenn resigned as vice president and manager of the railway department, and his brother, William H. Glenn, was named to succeed him, a post he held until he left the organization in 1920.

He served as president of the Southeastern Compress and Warehouse Company, which developed from the Shippers Compress, organized in 1920, until 1939, when he became chairman of the organization's board.

In spite of his many business

Good Morning

BY LOUIE D. NEWTON.

Take a glance at one of the cheering of chapters. Moses has come back from Mt. Sinai where he received the Decalogue from the hand of God, to find the people worshipping an idol in the form of a calf which they had made with their hands in the 40 brief days since Moses left them to meet God on the mount. Destroying the idol, and calling the people to repentance, Moses was directed by God to call the people to build the Tabernacle with offerings over and above the tithe and other offerings which they would bring for the sacrifices.

"And they came, every one whose heart stirred him up, and every one whom His spirit made willing, and they brought the Lord's offering to the work." Exodus 35:21.

Turn, if you will, to the 35th chapter of Exodus and read the subscription list—what they brought, and the measure of their gifts. It will lift your spirit. Indeed, the people brought so much that Moses had to ask them not to bring any more offerings. It is one of the most heartening examples of spontaneous, voluntary service unto the Lord anywhere to be found. It was a joyous surrender of precious things, not because they had to give them, but because they wanted to give them.

The right motive in Christian service is the important thing. When one's heart is moved by love toward God, anything that He asks us to do can and will be done. There is buoyancy and elevation which lifts the spirit of man, even as the light gas smooths out the limp folds of silk in a balloon, sending it heavenward. God loveth a cheerful giver—one whose gift expresses a buoyant heart stirred from within to heights of sacrificial service.

Not what they brought: "And every man with whom was found . . . brought it, and all the women did spin with their hands, and brought that which they had spun, and the rulers brought their gift . . . etc." Each gave what he or she could. What we have settles what we give. Capacity is the measure of duty. "She hath done what she could," said Jesus about Mary's beautiful gift.

Their gifts ranged from goat's hair for the roofing; to precious stones for the ephod. Each one's gift was needed, and each in its place was equally necessary. All had equal consecration, because all made one whole. And all was equally precious. The smallest deed that co-operates to a great end is great. "All true service ranks the same with God," said Browning.

He gives much who gives all, though his all be little; he gives little who gives a part, though the part be much. The motive sanctifies the act, and the completeness of the consecration magnifies it. It is the beautiful story of willing hearts.

FUNERAL TODAY—William H. Glenn, 68-year-old Atlantan, one of the south's leading businessmen, who died yesterday, will be buried this afternoon.

interests, he devoted much of his time to civic affairs, taking special interest in the Atlanta Rotary Club and serving as its president in 1923 and 1924. His first affiliation with the club was in 1915. He also served as a member of the board of directors and on practically all the important committees. As a representative of the local group, he attended many international conventions, the last one being in Mexico City in 1935.

Mr. Glenn also was a devoted member of St. Mark church, and served on the board of stewards. He lived at 1366 Peachtree street.

In addition to his brother Thomas K. Glenn, he is survived by his widow; two sons, Jack and William H. Glenn Jr.; two sisters, Mrs. Howard Candler and Mrs. Charles Moody, all of Atlanta; two other brothers, Walker Glenn, of Alexandria, La., and John Glenn, of Atlanta; and two grandchildren.

Funeral Today.

Funeral services will be held at 4 o'clock this afternoon from Spring Hill.

Dr. Lester Rumble, pastor of St. Mark Methodist church, will officiate. Interment will be private at West View cemetery.

Pallbearers will be: Frank Spratlin, Harvey T. Phillips, R. W. Courts Jr., Thomas H. Daniel, T. E. Fugate, W. C. Wardlaw Sr., Doll Ballard, Dr. J. E. Paulin, D. C. Black and James L. Dickey. An honorary escort will be formed of members of the Rotary Club of which Mr. Glenn was a member for so many years.

In addition to the Rotary escort, the Georgia Tech faculty, headed by Dr. M. L. Brittain, president; Dean W. V. Skiles, and William Van Houten will lead honorary escorts from the Tech Alumni Association and the athletic board.

Loyal Tech Alumnus.

When he received his bachelor of science degree from Tech, such prominent figures as J. L. DeGree, J. D. Goldsmith, J. B. McCrary and J. H. Jones were his classmates. He was one of Tech's most devoted alumnus, and administration officials and faculty members recognized him as a loyal patron of the institution.

In 1939 he was named a member of the athletic board because of his interest in athletics. The school had given him many deserved honors. In 1936 he was designated as the alumnus who had rendered the most distinguished services for the year, and at commencement exercises President Brittain presented him with a gold medal reading: "To honor one who through good deeds has served Alma Mater."

Tech's Phi Beta Kappa chapter and the Anak Senior Honor Society elected him to honorary membership.

He also served as president of the Atlanta Athletic Club, and held membership in the Capital City, Druid Hills and Piedmont Driving Clubs.

British Source Denies Nation Facing Defeat

Nazis Accused of Trying To Create Impression England Is Doomed.

Baselessness of any belief that the British Isles face vast destruction, and perhaps inevitable defeat, is stressed in a detailed communication received from a responsible English quarter yesterday.

Such a belief is being deliberately fostered by German propaganda, it was declared, to cultivate the conviction of the "futility of sending material aid to a country that is as good as beaten already," and the more insidious thought that "with Great Britain on the point of extinction, the United States will shortly have to face up alone to the threat of Nazi domination and must therefore conserve all its resources for their own direct purposes."

"The truth is," the communication continued, "that the Germans have not yet had to encounter the full power of a united people, well armed, well prepared with the resources of continents behind them, and above all, strengthened by the conviction that the spiritual life of the whole world for generations to come depends upon their victory."

"The issues at stake in this war are not material; every spiritual value to which mankind has so painfully won, is imperiled, for the Nazi creed spells the death of the human soul."

"It is perhaps not sufficiently well realized in America that whenever in the present war the Germans have found themselves opposed primarily by the British, they have met with failure. The submarine campaign and the magnetic mines were both effectively dealt with. The German navy was beaten in the naval actions of Narvik and the River Plate. The Germans, who placed the total destruction of the British

Printers Lose Suit Against Hearst Group

Six Sought Continued Pay After Georgian Closed in December.

The Georgia supreme court ruled yesterday that a collective bargaining agreement between a union and employer does not constitute a contract under which individual members may collect wages when the company discontinues business.

The ruling was made in case in which six employees of the Atlanta Georgian, a newspaper which suspended publication, December 16—all members of Atlanta Typographical Union No. 48—filed suit against Hearst Consolidated Publications to collect seven weeks pay.

The workers contended the contract between the union and the newspaper assured them employment and the suspension of publication was not a valid reason for withdrawal of this employment.

The petition was dismissed in the Fulton superior court and the ruling yesterday upheld the lower court's action.

Advance Gifts Group To Start Fund Campaign

Drive Will Open October 2 With 175 Workers, 16 Captains.

Atlanta's 18th annual Community Fund appeal will be opened Wednesday, October 2, by the advance gifts division when 175 of the city's business and professional leaders will take the field under direction of Donald Oberdorfer and 16 team captains.

The group will solicit gifts from persons considered able to make contributions ranging from $50 to $250 prior to general solicitation, which will begin Monday, October 21, and last through November 2.

Every man connected with the section has been urged to attend a special meeting at 7:30 o'clock Friday night at the Atlanta Gas Light Company's offices.

With a field of approximately 1,000 prospects, a quota of $101,600 has been set for the advance gifts division. Total goal of the 1941 appeal will be $565,226, compared to $482,982 raised last year.

This year, for the first time in many years, names of all contributors of $25 and over will be published in Atlanta daily newspapers.

Assisting Mr. Oberdorfer in the role of team captains will be W. C. Cave, Thomas H. Daniel Jr., Clement A. Evans, Howard W. Fisch, Stanton Hale, H. Z. Hopkins, Lyons B. Joel, Charles F. Johansen, Gordon P. Kiser Jr., Willis Milner Jr., Norman P. Pendley, E. M. Ransom, Cecil H. Rawlins, J. T. Smith and A. J. Weinberg.

Law Department Reveals Surplus

The State Law Department, which spent $34,048 to operate, finished the past fiscal year with a surplus of $23,807, of which $8,929 was in cash, $14,500 in appropriated funds not drawn from the state treasury, and $375 in claim.

State Auditor Zach Arnold reported yesterday. Most of the department's expenditures went for personal service—$29,705 being paid out for this item—and travel which amounted to $356.

A total of $329.91 of the traveling expense was paid to Assistant Herschel Smith, who made four trips to Texas to bring Dick Gallogly, escaped life term, back to Georgia.

Banks, who has a long prison record, is held without bond at Fulton tower.

Two Negroes, Adolphus Davis and Thomas Price, were also named in murder bills. Price was accused of stabbing William Dewberry, and Davis was charged with the murder of Raymond White with a rock.

James Hightower, Negro, was indicted on charges of reckless disregard for human life (a felony). A car driven by Hightower crashed into the truck of E. G. Summerall, of Waycross, on Bankhead street while speeding, according to police. The Negro was indicted on charges of stealing the car from E. R. Paris, of 525 Peachtree Battle avenue.

Lottery Evidence Upheld by Court

Georgia law does not bar lottery evidence from court cases just because it was seized without a warrant, the state supreme court ruled yesterday.

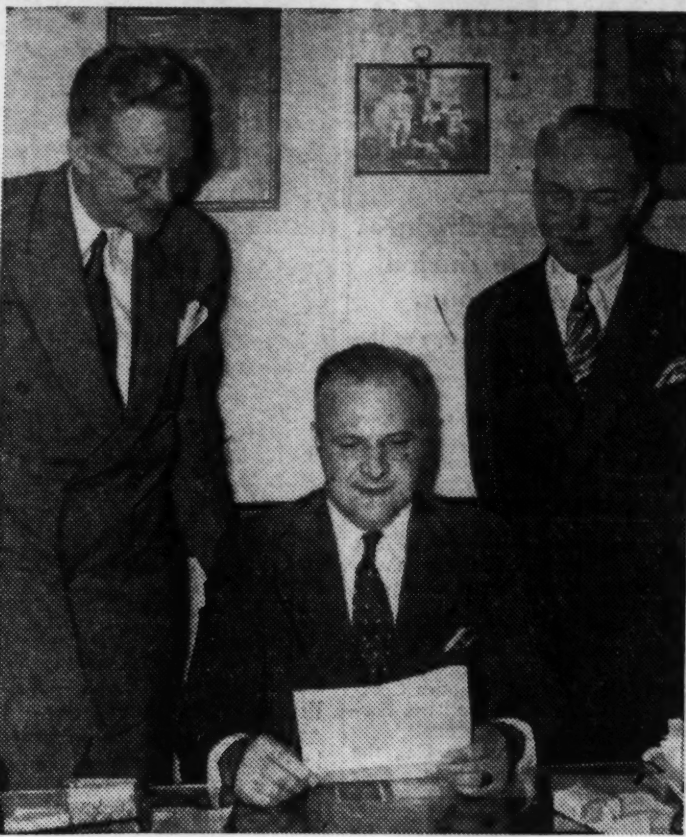

Sam McIntyre, vending machine salesman, filed an appeal to a 12 months' sentence in Fulton superior court, setting out that records were taken from his auto without a warrant and had nothing to do with a lottery.

The court held the evidence was sufficient for conviction.

County Commission Will Hear Petition

The county commission meeting this morning at 10 o'clock is scheduled to be a colorful affair. Up for hearing are petitions for permission to operate the Orange and Silver tourist camps.

George Finch, attorney, has threatened court action unless the commissioners grant a permit for the operation of the Orange camp on Marietta highway. Mrs. W. P. Cook is asking to operate the Silver camp at the intersection of Stewart avenue and Grant street.

FIRE OPENING GUNS—This trio of volunteer Community Fund workers are leaders of the important advance gifts division, second section, which will take the field Wednesday, October 2, to raise their share of the $565,226 goal set for the Fund appeal this year. Donald Oberdorfer, seated, heads the division as chairman. Willis Milner Jr., left, and H. Z. Hopkins, team captains, stand by for orders.

Ex-Convict, 54, Is Indicted in Fatal Stabbing

Two Others Are Also Named in Murder Bills Here.

A 54-year-old white man, Roy Banks, who was released from Tattall prison only last Thursday, was indicted yesterday on murder charges in the death Sunday night of Jack Sills, of 712 Tullin street.

Banks completed a 12-month sentence for larceny by trick and returned to Atlanta immediately, it was said.

Calvin Cole, investigator on the staff of Solicitor General John A. Boykin, said he had been unable to find a motive in the alleged slaying of Sills.

Witnesses told him, he said, that Banks and three friends had gone out for a ride Sunday night and returned to the Tullin street address where Sills lived at about 10 o'clock. Sills opened the door to let Banks and the others in.

Banks walked into the room a few steps and without a word turned and stabbed Sills, supposedly his friend, to death, witnesses related.

Banks, who has a long prison record, is held without bond at Fulton tower.

Two Negroes, Adolphus Davis and Thomas Price, were also named in murder bills. Price was accused of stabbing William Dew-

berry, and Davis was charged with the murder of Raymond White with a rock.

Scalise Evaded Tax on Income, Dewey Charges

District Attorney Holds Stolen Money Is Subject to Levy.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—(AP)—District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey, in an information filed today, charged George Scalise, former president of the Building Service Employees International Union (AFL) with violation of the state income tax law in allegedly concealing $54,000 income from his 1938 and 1939 tax returns.

Scalise was convicted September 14 of stealing money from his union and will be sentenced next Friday.

The district attorney declared that in his recent trial Scalise was shown to have stolen money from his union—and that stolen money is taxable income.

Nahem Will Pitch for Houston in Dixie Series Opener Tonight

All in The Game

BY JACK TROY

(Editor's note: This is the final of a series of articles on the football prospects of all 13 schools in the South-eastern Conference.)

Plainsmen Are Prolific

AUBURN, Ala., Sept. 24.—Auburn has brilliant prospects in football, but, as usual, the schedule is murderous. The Plainsmen jump off the deep end following the opener with Howard Friday night at Montgomery. From then until the season's end each Saturday brings forth such foes as Tulane, Mississippi State, S. M. U., Georgia Tech, Georgia, Clemson, Auburn, L. S. U., Boston College, Florida and Villanova.

JACK MEAGHER

Only one game, the Clemson game, will be played in the handsome new stadium here. Auburn consistently plays a heavy schedule. Fans have become accustomed to seeing a real game each time Auburn comes on the field.

Coach Jack Meagher's won-and-lost record may not be astounding, but there is something astounding about his career at Auburn.

Only once has a Meagher-coached Auburn team lost a game by as many as three touchdowns. And only twice has Auburn been beaten by as many as two touchdowns. Rest of the time there have been one, two and three-point margins when Auburn was defeated. Rarely is the margin as much as a touchdown.

This is a remarkable record, inasmuch as Auburn takes on the football world. One year, when the breaks come Jack Meagher's way, a flock of games will be Auburn's by those point margins and the Tigers will be back in somebody's bowl.

Could be this year.

Great Backfield

Nobody is going to present a finer first-string backfield than Auburn's, consisting of Lloyd Cheatham, quarter; Captain Dick McGowen and Carl Happer, halfbacks, and Rufus Deal, fullback.

McGowen, all-conference last season, is one of the best triple-threaters in the country. Deal is a bruising fullback. Auburn will get fine direction from Cheatham and a lot of help from Happer.

Besides the starters, the reserves are excellent. Buddy McMahon and Aubrey Clayton rank behind Cheatham. Bill Yearout—he's already got a year in; Clarence Harkins and Paul Ellis, Atlanta boy, are left halfback supporters of Captain McGowen. Right halfback reserves are Bud Wendling and Ty Irby. Irby is an outstanding sophomore back.

Jim Reynolds, a LaGrange, Ga., boy, and Monk Gafford are excellent fullback reserves.

There will be variety in the Auburn attack. The Tigers can turn on the power or run or pass, as the situation dictates.

Line Problems

Coach Meagher insists he has a couple of problems in the line. For instance, there is no center like Malvern Morgan at the moment. Morgan was a neat pivot man.

It may be one will develop from among Howard Burns, Abbe Christberg or Tex Williams. They're about on a par now. If a standout center emerges from the group, it will help a lot.

There seems to be some question as to what will happen when substitutions are necessary at the guards. Ernest Mills, alternate captain, and Nick Ardillo are tops. And if Wallace Wise, Vic Costello and Max Morris come through, the Plainsmen will be set.

The Plainsmen have all kinds of ends, so to speak. They have Babe McGeehe, Jim LeNour, Tweedie Faulk, James Samford, Theo Cremer and Henry Monsees, the latter of Savannah, Ga. They also have Fagan Canzoneri, cousin of the famed Tony.

Auburn can use three sets of ends without weakening the team.

The outlook at tackles is excellent, too. Jim McClurkin is better looking as a sophomore than was Bo Russell. That's saying something. Chester Bulger and Gordon MacEachern are experienced. MacEachern is hurt, but is expected to be all right. John Chalkley and Francis Crimmins are agile 195-pounders.

Among the Auburn line candidates who may develop are brothers of former Georgia stars. There's Hugh Maddox, center, brother of Red, and there's Joe Cordell, tackle, brother of Lou.

It would seem Auburn has enough heft and speed for a flashing Notre Dame attack and a rugged defense. It won't do to take the Tigers lightly, tough schedule and all.

Coach Meagher says, "We may not be as good as when we finished last season, but we will be vastly better than when we started. We could be a lot better than last year in November."

Rough Going

Auburn skips around, playing one weekend in Boston and the next in Florida; one weekend in Alabama and another in Texas. Such things that are beneficial to a player's education, but is somewhat wearing on the epidermis.

Here's the schedule—

Sept. 27—Howard in Montgomery (night).
Oct. 5—Tulane in New Orleans.
Oct. 12—Miss. State in Birmingham.
Oct. 19—S. M. U. in Dallas.
Oct. 26—Georgia Tech in Atlanta.
Nov. 2—Georgia in Columbus.
Nov. 9—Clemson in Auburn (home-coming).
Nov. 16—L. S. U. in Birmingham.
Nov. 23—Boston College in Boston.
Nov. 30—Florida in Gainesville.
Dec. 7—Villanova in Montgomery.

There's no rest in such a schedule, but one thing certain, the fans get their money's worth every Saturday.

CHANGE CAPTAINS.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 24.—Apparently the Syracuse squad was picking the best way out of a difficult position when it voted for the appointment of a captain for each game this season instead of choosing a successor to Tony Faskewich, who did not return to college.

COACH INJURED.

EUGENE, Ore., Sept. 24.—John Warren, University of Oregon freshman football coach, was the Webfoots' first gridiron casualty of the season. He skidded down a flight of stairs and suffered a fractured kneecap. As a result he will open freshman practice September 30 on crutches.

BEST IN DIXIE?—A lot of football men will tell you this starting Auburn backfield is the best in the south—maybe the nation. Left to the Tiger attack with his passing, running and kicking. Deal is a 200-pounder who runs like a mad bull.

Heyward Allen and C. B. Guest Start for Georgia Friday Night

Frank Sinkwich Out Couple of Days Following Kick on Shin Bone; Broken Bone Feared Before X-Ray Is Made.

ATHENS, Ga., Sept. 24.—Shifty little Heyward Allen and hard-working C. B. Guest will probably be in Georgia's starting lineup against Oglethorpe Friday night in Atlanta.

Coach Wallace Butts said this afternoon that Guest has finally rounded in the form expected of him last year as a junior and "right now he is the best right guard we have."

Winifred Goodman and Will Burt have both been running ahead of Guest up until today's promotion.

Allen's brilliant showing during a 10-minute offensive skirmish this afternoon earned him the right to start higher when Frank Sinkwich received a kick on the shinbone that will keep him out of work for a couple of days.

WORST SCARE. Sinkwich's injury was the worst scare of the season. An attending physician feared a possible broken bone, but X-ray pictures made immediately after the incident proved the wound only a bruise.

Dr. M. A. Hubert, team physician, said Frank would be able to go against Oglethorpe. He said soreness should be completely gone by Thursday.

The sophomore flash was hurt when he was rushed attempting to pass and forced to run with the ball. With Jim Todd on the sidelines with a broken nose—he'll be back out tomorrow—Allen will be called on for considerable duty in the Oglethorpe embroglio. Todd and Sinkwich will probably both see service, but their recent bruises will probably limit their playing time.

Another cheering note in the Bulldog camp today was the improvement of "Red" Keuper, hard-running sophomore fullback who has been on the shelf for 10 days with a charley horse.

READY TO GO. Trainer Fitz Lutz ordered Keuper's leg "tapped" this afternoon and afterwards "Red" said he felt ready to go right now. A great deal of blood pocketed under the muscle of his left leg next to the bone was drawn out and the charley horse will probably be forgotten about by Thursday.

With Keuper ready, Georgia can throw its full strength at Oglethorpe and probably every

Losers-Pay Meet

Set at East Lake

The losers-pay dinner tournament, which marks the end of the summer golf season at East Lake, will be held today, with Colonel Bob Jones and Scott Hudson Sr., as captains of the teams.

The tournament this time will be played on a dogfight basis and entrants will be allowed to make up their own foursomes, scoring being based on the usual handicaps. The dinner is scheduled after play.

Entries must be made before noon at the golf shop.

available man will be used.

Coach Butts announced 39 players will be carried to Atlanta for the game.

They are:

Ends—Van Davis, Carl Grate, Oliver Hawk, Green Keltner, Tom Malone, Morris Phelps, Captain James Skipworth.

Tackles—Gene Ellenson, Tommy Green, Joe Jameson, Lee McKinney, Wyatt Posey.

Guards—Will Burt, Winifred Goodman, C. B. Guest, Everett Horne, Harry Kuniansky, Walter Ruark.

Centers—Homer Passmore, Steve Hughes, Tommy Witt.

Backs—Heyward Allen, M. F. Carter, Charley Christian, Lamar Davis, Andy Dudish, Ken Keuper, Cliff Kimsey, Paul Kluk, Spike Nelson, Bobby Nowell, Henry Powers, Frank Sinkwich, Jim Todd, "Nub" Welch, Lewis Woodruff, Brooker Blanton and Lamar Bryant.

Dixie Sports Huddle

By ROMNEY WHEELER.

Associated Press Sports Writer.

This year's Southern Association Shaughnessy playoffs required exactly 14 ball games to prove what everyone already knew . . . namely, that Nashville was the class of the league . . . The pennant-winning Vols took the playoffs, runners-up Atlanta finished second, third-place Memphis made third best showing in the playoffs—carrying Atlanta to five games—while fourth-place Chattanooga trailed in the four-team eliminations, dropping three straight to the champs.

DID CONNER THINK OF THIS?

Tom Wall, in the Augusta Chronicle: "Mike Conner, the overlord of southeastern athletics, is in for some economic sanctions if he pays too much attention to what the conference's executive committee told him. They said it would be all right for Mike to look into any and all situations that gave off the faintest odor. But for him to do that very often would mean a good $10,000-a-year job had gone up the creek."

DOTS 'N' DASHES.

Look for Meridian's franchise in the Southeastern League to turn up in Tampa next year if a deal now simmering with a Sanford (Fla.) businessman goes through . . . Joe Engel says Cleveland's Bob Feller has no corner on speed . . . He thinks Smoky Joe Wood had as much steam, and Walter Johnson a lot more . . . That flashy 5-yard run against Union University Saturday was made by Mississippi's Merle Hapes . . . Although most papers credited him with the touchdown . . . Actually it was a sophomore fullback, Lee Castle, playing his first varsity game . . . He's a double for Hapes in a football uniform . . . The University of Chattanooga may be the season's opener for Georgia Tech next year . . . Comes a warbling wimbler . . . Jack Conn, Southwestern University grinner, sang before a Memphis audience last week . . . A Kitty League prospect, Dutch McCall, of Bowling Green, is tabbed by Manager Larry Gilbert as a sure bet for Nashville's outfield in 1942.

AN OLD MAN'S GAME.

They used to call golf the "old man's game," but the term better fits harness racing now . . . Sep Palin, grey-haired trainer of the famous Greyhound, is 60; widely heralded "Fat" (Whiskers) O'Connell from Cleveland is 75, and Ben White, of Lexington, Ky., is 77 . . . Doc Parshall, who led the field of drivers for the last four or five years, is the baby of the game . . . Just a mere 42 . . . With practically all the sulky records already in his name, Greyhound has just tried carrying a rider on his back . . . His trainer may let him try to break Hollywood Boris' 1936 record of 2:05 1-4 for trotting the mile under saddle.

AMATEUR SERIES.

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., Sept. 24.—(P)—Birmingham, Ala., and Battle Creek remained the only undefeated teams today in the fourth round of the amateur world series of the American Baseball Congress. Each has won three games.

"SECK TROOPS."

NOTRE DAME, Ind., Sept. 24. This probably wasn't what Knute Rockne was thinking of when he first called Notre Dame's reserves the "shock troops" and used them to start games, but the 1940 variety is able to give the regulars quite a shock. Saturday they whipped the first team, 14-0, in a scrimmage. Coach Elmer Layden advanced four of them, Right Halfback Steve Juzwick, Center Martin O'Reilly and Tackles Tom Gallagher and Paul Lillies, to the first-string lineup.

Sam To Face Former Mates In Sulphur Dell

Bufs Lost Only Two in Texas Shaughnessy Playoffs.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 24.—(P)—The Nashville Vols, hopeful of avenging last year's loss to Fort Worth, open the Dixie series here tomorrow night against Houston of the Texas league.

Ace Adams, stocky right-hander who hung up a record of 13 wins against five losses in the regular campaign, was nominated by Manager Larry Gilbert for hurling duty for the Southern Association champions.

Fitted against Adams will be Sam Nahem, bespectacled right-hander who a year ago was credited with hurling the Vols into the series. Sam won eight games and dropped six for the Bufs after joining them July 4.

A shower this afternoon prompted officials of the Nashville club to cover Sulphur Dell's diamond with tarpaulins as a precaution against rain, which the weatherman predicts for tomorrow.

The Bufs finished the season with 105 triumphs and a 16-game margin in the Texas loop and topped it off with decisive wins over Oklahoma City and Beaumont in the Shaughnessy playoffs.

Nashville wound up with 101 victories for a 9 1-2 lead and turned back Chattanooga and Atlanta to gain the right to represent the Southern in the series.

After games here Wednesday and Thursday nights, the clubs journey to Houston to resume the series there Saturday and Sunday with another scheduled Monday if necessary.

Grid Briefs

BOSTON COLLEGE HERE.

NEWTON, Mass., Sept. 24.—(AP)—The Boston College Eagles completed most of their preparations today for Saturday's important game with Tulane by engaging in morning and afternoon drills that totaled six hours.

During that long stretch, Coach Frank Leahy polished up all of the offensive tactics designed for the Green Wave's sole benefit.

After the second drill, Leahy named the 33 players who will enter in the Orleans tomorrow. Omitted from the traveling list was Lou Montgomery, the Negro halfback star. As a result, sophomore Ted Williams remained the only replacement for Frank Maznicki in that important backfield slot.

Although all of the squad were reported in top physical shape, Leahy appeared pessimistic about its chances against Tulane, despite the "bear" reports that have come out of New Orleans this week. The Boston College coach has made arrangements to have the Eagles practice in Georgia Tech's stadium in Atlanta on Thursday and in the Sugar Bowl Friday.

WAVE CRIPPLED.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 24.—Tulane's first string quarterback was in the hospital today, making the second man out of the first eleven to be a doubtful combatant in Saturday's crucial opener with Boston College.

Idle Tigers Gain Half Game as Brownies Defeat Indians, 7 to 2

CLEVELAND, Sept. 24.—(AP)—The St. Louis Browns dropped the Indians 1½ games behind the Detroit Tigers today, scalping Mel Harder and two other Cleveland hurlers for 14 hits and a 7-2 victory. Elden Auker pitched six-hit ball for the Browns.

The St. Louis Browns landed on Mel Harder for five hits and a run in the first two innings. Elden Auker was on the mound for St. Louis.

The Browns scored in the second on successive singles by Cliff McQuinn and Berardino.

After Harder held the Browns to three easy outs in the third, the Tribe knotted the score at 1-1 on Mack's single. Pytlak's sacrifice and Berardino's wild throw of Chapman's bounder.

HARDER FANS PAIR. Harder fanned Radcliff and McQuinn in the fourth. Judnich doubled for the sixth hit off Mel, but Cliff forced the Brownie center fielder. Walks to Trosky and Keltner and Bell's double loaded the bases with one down in the Indians' half, and Trosky scored as Berardino fumbled. Mack's hard-hit grounder. Pytlak popped out and Harder fanned to ease Auker out of the hole.

Chapman doubled for the fourth safety off Auker in the fifth, but he was left stranded when Weatherly sacrificed, Boudreau fanned and Trosky flied out.

The Browns made the count 2-2 in the sixth on singles by Radcliff and McQuinn, mixed with a force out and Cliff's long fly.

Harry Eisenstat and Rollie Hemmery formed a new Cleveland battery at the start of the seventh.

BROWNS FORCE AHEAD. Immediately the Browns forced ahead, 4-2. After Swift grounded out, Auker singled and Cullenbine doubled. Heffner flied out, Auker scoring. Radcliff's single tallied Cullenbine.

The Indians, nitless in the seventh, sent Johnny Allen in to replace Eisenstat. With two down in the eighth, Berardino singled and Swift walked. Auker's one-bagger brought home Berardino to send the count to 5-2.

Again in the eighth Auker held the Tribe in check without a hit. Cliff's single scored Radcliff, who had walked, in the ninth to make it 6-2.

Cliff took second on Boudreau's throw to third, and McQuinn walked. Judnich, who had walked behind Radcliff, tallied on Berardino's foul to Chapman to end the scoring.

Reds Rely On Hurling in Series

Turner, Beggs Add Strength To 1939 Staff

Rookie Joe Beggs Has Won Nine Straight Games in Relief Role.

By JUDSON BAILEY.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—(AP)—Without knowing who their foe will be in the world series next week, the Cincinnati Reds will be counting heavily on an advantage in pitching just as they and other National league clubs in the past have based their bids on a "bomb proof" hurling corps.

The Reds have the same staff they had last fall, plus Jim Turner and Joe Beggs. Instead of the familiar Yankee aces they will be facing Bob Feller, Mel Harder and Al Milnar, of the Cleveland Indians, or Buck Newson, Schoolboy Rowe and Tommy Bridges, of the Detroit Tigers. Right now there isn't anyway to tell which Cleveland makes the grade.

Feller will fire first and nobody, not even Paul Derringer, has any advantage over the fighting farm-boy from Van Meter, Ia. Likewise you have to go into the fine points of pitching to give anyone an edge over Newson, because Bib Bobo has a better percentage than any series stalwart except Rowe.

THREE STARTERS.

These are the three pitchers who rate the starting call for the first game of the series in Cincinnati a week from Wednesday and there isn't any question that they will provide a well-pitched game.

Derringer led off against the Yanks last year and lost a heart-stirring 2-1 struggle in the ninth inning. His record, 20 games won and 12 lost, isn't as flashy as last year but Manager Bill McKechnie says he has been pitching better ball. Bucky Walters has won 21 and lost nine, but he'll probably be in the No. 2 slot again.

Derringer throws curves and Walters tosses sinkers, the kind of pitching the boys in the American league don't often see and couldn't do anything with in the all-star game in St. Louis.

McKechnie also has worthy starters in Gene Thompson and Jim Turner and probably will use both, because there won't be any day of rest and travel interrupting this series. Thompson has speed and Turner control and between them they have won 28 games while losing 16.

BEGGS IS TOPS

But the principal margin Cincinnati sees for its staff is in its relief. Joe Beggs, a pick-me-up from the Yankee system, has won nine straight games in a rescue role and seems capable of working every day. He, too, is a lowballer with control.

If Detroit reaches the series, obvious No. 1 man, although Rowe's record of 16 and 3 is better, Newson can come back on short rest.

Rowe and Bridges are veterans of Detroit's last glorious World Series and this experience will be helpful. But their arms are going fast. Unless the series goes the limit they can't work more than one full game. This puts more importance on the depth of Del Baker's staff. He has two accomplished relief workers in Al Benton and Southpaw Archie McKain, but will have to choose between Paul (Dizzy) Trout and Rookie John Gorsica to start at least one game. Both have talent, but off their season's record, haven't yet developed it to World Series flavor.

DEPENDS ON FELLER

Feller, of course, is the stand-out of all the pitchers. If the Indians get into the series, he'll have to get them there. If he does, he'll be expected to start at least two of the games and maybe relieve once if the spot is right.

He has appeared in 42 American League games, going the route in 30, and getting credit for 27 victories against 10 defeats. His fast ball is dazzling, good for 259 strikeouts, but Bob isn't as calm as he might be with runners on base and the Reds play a running game. So even Feller isn't a sure bet.

Behind their ace, the Indians have Righthanders Mel Harder and Johnny Allen, and Southpaws Al Milnar and Al Smith, who have had all the better of it this year. But Cincinnati will have only two left-handed batters in the lineup and the southpaws may find their work reduced for that reason. Manager Oscar Vitt's best relief man is Henry Eisenstat, also a pitcher.

Dot Kirby Wins Over One-Time Movie Star

By DOROTHY KIRBY.

PEBBLEBEACH GOLF CLUB, Sept. 24.—I got off to a very lucky start today in my first match in the National, for I caught Mrs. Rod La Roque, the former Vilma Banky, of the silent movies. By the way, she is a fine golfer. However, I won, 5 to 4.

I was out in 39 while she was a few above that score. If she hadn't missed some putts on several holes things would have been different. She was one of the nicest persons I have ever played with.

The going was awfully slow all day, because a Mexican girl in front of us played very slowly. She evidently had trouble making up her mind to hit her shots.

As the draw turned out all of the brackets are fairly even. I am in the same bracket with Goldthwaite, Chandler, Sigel, Traung, Barrett, Cothran, Bauer, while Hicks, Jameson, Miley are in the other.

The biggest upset came in the match between Mrs. Davey and Mrs. Russ. Mrs. Russ shot a 79 yesterday in qualifying, while Mrs. Davey won a place in the play-off only this morning. She kept right on going to the eighteenth hole this afternoon, where she sank a 10-foot putt to win the match.

Bes Barrett and Jeanne Cline also went eighteen holes before Barrett won. Jeanne is that little 16-year-old from Illinois. In the future she will have them all stepping.

Elizabeth Hicks seems to be the hot one in the tournament so far. Today she was out in 36 and naturally had easy sledding. However, Dorothy Traung is holding her steady pace and will be hard to reckon with.

Looking a bit ahead, it would seem that Hicks and Jameson would tie up tomorrow afternoon. Both of these girls have rather easy matches in the morning round. When they get together old man par will most likely suffer a beating. Another good one will be the Chandler and Goldthwaite match.

They play in the morning round. As for myself, I engage Barbara Ransom. She is a spotty player, but when she is going right she's hard to beat. So I am not looking forward to this meeting.

Ruby Keeler was out this afternoon looking the girls over. She didn't qualify. I also met Charlie Winninger last night. His hobby is skeet shooting, but every now and then he gets in a game of golf.

By this time tomorrow the field will be thinned out considerably and I am hoping to still be in there.

First-round results included: Jane Cothran, Greenville, S. C., defeated Mrs. George Lewis, Beverly Hills, Cal., 2 and 1.

Dorothy Kirby, Atlanta, defeated Mrs. Rod La Roque, Los Angeles, 5 and 4. Mrs. La Roque is the wife of the veteran cinema star.

Jean Bauer, East Providence, R. I., defeated Mrs. Decker McAllister, Burlingame, Cal., 4 and 3.

Salica Captures 118-Pound Crown

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—(AP)—

Lou Salica, New York, cleared up the muddled bantamweight situation tonight and became sole owner of the world's 118-pound championship by outpointing George Pace, of Cleveland, in 15 rounds at the Bronx coliseum. Salica weighed 117½, Pace 118.

Outboxing the little Cleveland Negro all the way, Salica regained the crown he won in 1935 from Sixto Escobar, and lost the same year to the same fighter.

The first tariff act of the United States was on July 4, 1789.

Atlanta Boy Wins 18 Games for Rochester; Lauds Southworth

By CHARLIE ROBERTS.

Don't look now, but the St. Louis Cardinals should have taken the National League pennant like Hitler took Czechoslovakia. At least they should have if Manager Billy Southworth could have made all his players feel like he made Charlie Brumbeloe feel.

Charlie, an Atlanta boy hurling his second year in professional ball, played about six weeks under Southworth at Rochester before he took over Ray Blades' headache as Cardinal head-knocker. And Charlie avers "that Southworth is the greatest guy in the world. He taught me more about pitching than I ever knew there was to learn. Why, after a five-minute talk with him, a fellow thinks he can be the greatest ball player in the world."

Southworth made Brumbeloe feel so good that he considers his winning 18 games and losing 11 for Rochester in the International League stamps his season a failure. Instead of being jubilant, Charlie was moaning over losing his last four games, all by one run. (One was 1 to 0, another 2-0.)

Charlie, whose rise in pro ball has been meteoric, was playing for the Merita Bakeries nine two years ago. Furthermore, he played outfield most of the time. But Tubby Walton signed him for his "beloved Cards," who sent him to Cambridge, Md., in the Eastern Shore League, a month after the season started. He was a sensation, winning 20 while losing five, and doubled in brass as an outfielder and pinch-hitter pax excellence. This year, his record in the double-A loop is almost as good.

At midseason Charlie was hitting .308. He won't tell you his final average. He quit keeping up with it. Too many naughts, says he. He revealed, however, that Murray Howell, another Atlanta boy who once played for Birmingham, led the International League in hitting with a better-than-.370 mark. "Boy!" whistles Charlie, "that big boy is tough to get out. Nick Eiten, also with the Orioles, was the hardest man in the league for me to get out, though. He is the big fellow who played in the Sally with Jacksonville, and played first base for the Athletics awhile last year."

Yankees Trail Detroit Team By 2 1-2 Games

New York's Remaining Six Games Billed With Senators, Macks.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

The New York Yankees are on the warpath again and as a result the American League pennant conflict is in a new state of confusion.

The world champions swept a doubleheader from the Washington Senators 6-5 and 9-4 yesterday, while the Cleveland Indians were losing to the St. Louis Browns 7-2, and the Detroit Tigers were idle.

This was just about the same as an electric shock, lifting the third-place Yankees within 2 1-2 games of Detroit and within a single game of the second-place Cleveland Indians.

The Yanks now have won six in a row and have six more games to play with the impotent Washington Senators and Philadelphia Athletics. They would have to win them all and the Tigers lose two to finish in a tie, but anything can happen in baseball.

The Standings:

CLUB	W.	L.	Pct.	Behind Play
Detroit	87	62	.584	5
Cleveland	86	64	.573	1½ 4
New York	84	64	.568	2½ 6

Detroit with Chicago, September 25, 25; with Cleveland September 27, 28, 29.

Cleveland with St. Louis September 25; with Detroit September 27, 28, 29.

New York with Washington September 25, 28, 29; with Philadelphia September 26, 28, 27.

Bowling

The Ladies' Circuit Bowling league opened activities on three separate centers Monday in contests that were closely contested, and there is every indication that the loop is slated to be one of the most popular groups that has been organized in Atlanta.

With Augusta Smith turning in a 307 and Grace Cunningham having 303 for her trio of games, the Wall Cleaners won two games from Model Laundry, while Joan Thompson paced the losers with a 306 series in the match that was scheduled at the downtown alleys.

Estelle Warrington had 307 to feature the bowling in the contest at the Palace drives as here Wilson Shurt team won a pair of games, with Betty Kirkland having 301 to lead the Palace five.

Mary Jo Fillmore unleashed a bit of fancy pin spilling to pace the Claude S. Bennett five, with a 312 count, as they won two games from the Lucky Strike team at the uptown Lucky Strike alleys. Matches will be scheduled each Monday evening, with teams alternating between the three centers and a match of two games at each center each week.

D. B. Bull, of the Crescents, "burned up the wood" with his heavy score of 133, 114 and 102 for a 355 series in the Passenger Club league. Val Painter was runner-up with a 335 set.

Billie of the Peachtree Christian Church team, had games of 110, 140 and 110 for a high series of 360 in the Sunday School league. Laird J.'s high game of 133 and Ed Gasperini's 350 set were other features of this 12-team league's bowling.

Evelyn Barr had the high single game of 114 for the Ladies' Georgia league, with Miss Maynard having a 112 and Martha Barton 109 for other big counts.

L. H. Harris turned in the top single game of 123 and Merrian won three game honors with a count of 322 for the Commercial league in their third week of the new season's competition.

GODOY SIGNED.

BOGOTA, Colombia, Sept. 24.—(UP)—Arturo Godoy, Chilean heavyweight, will meet an American boxer, Lou Shapson, in a match scheduled for October 20, it was announced today.

Boy Went to Germany Futilely—Specialists Were in Army.

By ANTHONY G. DE LORENZO. JUNE 24, Wis., Sept. 24.—(UP) Carl Henry Wehrmann, 12, walked into his parents' modest home with a boyish grin that bespoke the success of 10,000 miles of travel to regain normal eyesight. "I'm gonna be all right now," he said with nonchalant assurance. His pockets bulging in typical Tom Sawyer fashion, Carl arrived on a streamlined train at South Beaverdam, Wis., 10 miles away this afternoon. He was met by his mother, Mrs. Fred Wehrmann, and his sister, Lily, 15.

Year of Travel. His homecoming marked the end of a year's travel, nine months of it in Germany, to overcome almost total blindness from arsenic poisoning incurred when he ate an apple that had been sprayed with a tasteless insecticide.

Only evidence Carl bore of a series of delicate eye operations performed in New York by Dr. Max Goldschmidt, German refugee and formerly of the University of Leipzig, were his bloodshot left eye and sun glasses which he said could come off "in a couple of days."

"Dr. Goldschmidt said I can read the funnies as much as I want," Carl boasted as he ran his hand over a stack of comic books he had picked up en route from New York and Chicago. "I only have to wear these glasses as long as the light bothers my eye."

He referred to his left eye, formerly colorless and inflamed. It was this eye which took him to visit his uncle in Germany in May, 1939, on funds supplied by the Juneau Lions Club, to see if German specialists could remove the opaque film. The strain on his right eye had already begun to tell.

He returned disheartened to his parents whose funds already had been long exhausted without having had the necessary operation because the German specialists had been called to army service.

But Goldschmidt heard of Carl's case and offered to do the operation free. Carl went to New York where Goldschmidt restored his sight with one operation and then performed two additional operations last week, straightening the left eye and painting the retina in a tattoo process to make it look normal.

As if his restored eyesight were not enough to bring home to his family, Carl had remembrances from the city for each of them. "I'm going to school tomorrow," Carl said. "The teacher will want me to tell the class about my trip. Boy, it's good to see again. I'm gonna play football too."

Peanuts Hang in Office 15 Years; Still Edible

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. ARLINGTON, Ga., Sept. 24.—A prized possession of the Arlington Oil Mills is four or five bunches of white Spanish peanuts, nuts still clinging to the vines, and still edible, after 15 years, though the skins have reddened. According to Judge J. M. Cowart, they were taken from his farm which is located between Arlington and Blakely, during August, 1925. The several bunches were tied together and hung high on the office wall. The nuts under the protection of the shell which nature provided have remained sound, and unmolested by weevil, or moth fly.

Cotton Storers Get Hours' Exemption

Seasonal exemption from the hours provision of the Fair Labor Standards Act for the storing of raw cotton in bales has been made final by Colonel Philip B. Fleming, administrator of the wage-hour division, Department of Labor, Dr. James G. Johnson, acting regional director for Georgia and Florida, announced yesterday.

As a "seasonal" industry, the storing of cotton in warehouses and compress warehouse facilities may be carried on for 12 hours in any workday, or for 56 hours in any work week, or 14 work weeks a year before the overtime provision of the act become effective. The exemption, however, does not relieve the industry from the requirement of paying at least 30 cents an hour minimum wage.

Brown Rainwater To Marry Lovely Texas Belle Today

• • • EXCLUSIVE AND extremely interesting news is the announcement of the marriage today of that popular erstwhile Atlantan, Brown Rainwater, to pretty Elizabeth Brown, of Dallas, Texas, which takes place at Vstop Farms, the summer home of the Rainwaters at fashionable Highlands, N. C.

The ceremony is scheduled to take place at 4 o'clock this afternoon with Rev. C. D. Braham, the Episcopal rector of Franklin, N. C., officiating, with only members of the immediate families in attendance. After the ceremony, Brown and his bride will leave on a wedding trip to an unannounced destination and will go later to Pensacola, Fla., where they will reside.

The wedding is the culmination of a romance which began in the summer when Elizabeth's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph R. Brown, of Dallas, occupied one of the lovely homes at the North Carolina resort. Sentiment marks the choice of the scene of the wedding, which takes place in the spacious living room at Vstop Farms, where Elizabeth and Brown met at a party in August. The vows will be taken before the huge window in the room which gives an unparalleled view of the gorgeous panorama of the North Carolina mountains. Tall pedestals filled with white lilies will add an artistic floral note to the nuptial scene. Elizabeth will wear a tweed traveling suit offset by brown accessories and her flowers will be white orchids. She will be unattended and will be given in marriage by her father. Brown has chosen his father, the late Mrs. Veazy Rainwater, was Sally Brown Edmondson, of Anniston, Ala., who was a beloved figure during her residence here at the Rainwater home on Oakdale road, which was the scene of many brilliant social functions.

Brown has three brothers, Veazy Jr., of Beaumont, Texas; Crawford, of Pensacola, and Lupton, who is now attending Emory University. It was Crawford, you recall, who married Betty Gregg, of Atlanta and Birmingham. The groom-elect is a nephew of Mrs. J. H. Sawyer, of Beaumont, Texas, and of Mrs. M. Brown Edmondson, of Highlands, N. C.

He attended Principia School in St. Louis, and later attended Rollins College in Winter Park, Fla., where he was a member of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity. He is now in business with his father in Pensacola, where he is a member of the Yacht Club and the Country Club.

• • • WHEN LOVELY Kitty Butner becomes Mrs. J. T. Pittman this evening at the home of her parents on Wakefield drive, she will wear an exquisite rose-point lace veil which was worn by her mother, the former Lella Belle Herron, when she married James Butner.

Mrs. Butner bought the veil in Brussels when she toured the continent with her parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. J. Whit Herron, of Washington, D. C. Kitty's head-dress will be fashioned after the Russian manner and is made entirely of pearls, the same pearls which trimmed her mother's wedding dress.

The bride-elect will carry a small satin prayer book which belongs to her godchild, little Claudia Smaw Foster, young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Foster.

• • • NEWS WAS RECEIVED yesterday of the departure of those newlyweds, Nell and Henry Smith, who left for their new home in Matamoros, Mexico. The couple will reside there for the coming year while Henry serves with the United States diplomatic corps.

The bride, you know, is the former Nell Varner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fulton Varner, and her marriage to Henry Turner Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Smith, was one of the interesting events of the early summer, taking place June 30 at the Peachtree Christian church.

• • • CHARLES AND LAURA STAUVERMAN BAUTZ

chose a delightful and novel way of announcing the birth of their brand-new daughter. The popular couple's friends received last week tiny oblong packages postmarked Arlington, Va., present home of the proud parents. Upon opening these they discovered man-size cigars of a very select brand to which were tied with pink satin ribbon the engraved announcements of the baby's birth.

Written in rhyme, the cards read:

"She's Laura Patricia by name,
At eight-fifty-five she came,
A bundle of heaven
Who weighed six-eleven.
Now Poppa's surrounded by dames.
"THE BAUTZES,"
"September 3, 1940."

Mrs. Bautz, you know, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Stauverman, of The Prado, and her sister is Pauline Stauverman, attractive member of the Sigma Delta sorority.

During her enrollment at Washington Seminary, Laura enjoyed wide popularity and made a legion of friends.

All American Fashions

By Winifred Ware.

The United States now leads the world in fashions. When the couturiers of the French capital were scattered and their traditionally important organization was disrupted, American designers assumed the style leadership not only for America, but for the world. American designers long have been competent, even expert in some fields, but never before have they received much recognition. Today, retail stores are featuring American designers' creations and a new patriotism lights the clothing world.

This keen patriotism is not based merely upon loyalty to Americans; it has a sound basis—an appreciation of clothes that are practical and wearable as well as glamorous. American designers long have been commended on both sides of the Atlantic for their sports and casual clothes. They have proven themselves adequate in other fields as well, and this fall, afternoon, dinner and evening clothes, as well as jewelry, shoes and accessories, show their artistry and practical workmanship.

Atlanta, key city of the south, has clothing stores and shops that are keenly alert to fashion trends, and this fall finds their managers prepared with complete selections, both in budget and higher-priced merchandise.

The advent of fall finds everyone, whether dwelling on paved streets or in country lanes, from school kids to grand-mama, taking themselves off to the cedar closet, shaking out the moth balls, and giving their stock of fall clothes the once-over.

And whether wardrobe supplements or new outfits from overshoes to undies be needed, the entire populace takes itself to town, to look at, try on, and buy new fall wearing apparel.

Many frankly admit that buying new clothes is fun, some pretend that it's just a task that must be done—as painlessly as possible; but all agree that the basic problems of shopping are:

To know what you need and what you can afford;

To know what you want and what suits your face and figure.

So, first decide on these things, and then follow the fashion finds in Atlanta the easy way. Cull from the fashion advice, illustrations and advertisements presented in this section, information on the selections you will make. Do this comfortably, at home in your favorite nook. Then you can make a brisk shopping tour for the things you are seeking, knowing where to go without having to spend hours dragging all over town trying to discover them.

Remember, fall clothes are needed for specific activities and weather. There will be rough weather in store for commuters; gay parties for gadabouts; concerts for music lovers; football for sports enthusiasts, and an inviting variety of autumn outdoor fun everywhere and an equal amount of indoor work and play for all.

But also buy with the unexpected in mind. Delightful parties or weekend trips are arranged on the spur of the moment, and these do not permit shopping time. Don't be caught short and miss a trip to the mountains, shore, or a quick get-together, because you "just haven't a thing to wear."

For further information about clothes on this and following pages in this section call or write Winifred Ware, Fashions Editor, The Constitution, or WA. 6565.

Above: Miss Lucy Statham is wearing five pieces of a seven-piece casual suit. This suit is in shades of brown and beige and consists of a dress (not shown), skirt, shirt, topcoat, short jacket (not shown), hat and bag. These pieces may be bought separately. They're lightweight wool.

Right: A rose beige, beaded, informal afternoon dress with black accessories is worn by Mrs. Frances Latimer Brown. Note her gloves and bag and her off-the-face hat with square-cut jeweled pin and square-cut bracelet.

Below: Corduroy slacks and hip-length jacket in contrasting colors are modeled by Miss Elizabeth Strickland. For walking she is wearing low wedge ghillies, and carrying a Tyrolean felt hat which completes her active sports outfit. Skirts instead of slacks are available.

Suit of cocoa brown wool is stunning with slenderizing furs, and tilted hat with flying bird. This smart outfit is modeled by Miss Claire Hunnicutt.

Right: A shimmering formal of lime-colored lame is worn by Miss Ellie Murrah. Note the draped sleeves and the "covered-up" neckline. The evening bag she's carrying is a shiny ball on a gold chain; it is polished aluminum, opens exactly in the middle revealing dainty pink insides.

Debs Name Grady Hospital As Their Charity Project

Grady hospital was selected by the 1940-41 Debutante Club for its charity at the meeting of the organization held yesterday at the Piermont Driving Club. The proceeds from the fashion show and dance to be sponsored by the debs on October 18 will benefit this charity, this annual affair to be a brilliant highlight of the autumn season.

Another debutante in the person of lovely Miss Elizabeth Anne Newton, of Forsyth, voiced her decision to join the Debutante Club yesterday. Miss Newton is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howell Newton, of Forsyth, and will be among the most widely feted of the season's buds.

Interest centers today on the announcement of the date chosen by Miss Gladys Randall for her debut, this attractive belle to bow at a tea to be held from 5 to 7 o'clock on the afternoon of December 21 at the home of her mother, Mrs. W. L. Randall, on Pace's Ferry road. Another party planned for Miss Randall is the tea to be given by Mrs. Paul Randall, at which she will share honors with her cousin, Miss Helen Randall, lovely debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Randall.

The latter, who is the popular treasurer of the Debutante Club, continues to form the inspiration for numerous parties which will add to the brilliance of the winter season. She will share honors with Miss Martha Merritt, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hynds, at the party at which Miss Mildred Rand will be hostess. During the Christmas holidays she will share honors with Miss Barbara Indell at the supper-dance to be given by Miss Jennelle Wilhite, following the latter's return from Rollins College in Florida, where she is a student.

Lives of the Younger Set Are Busy and Exciting

By Winifred Ware.

Nine out of ten girls from 13 to 30 participate in some form of sports, or are among the crowds of spectators at games. Most all girls, too, go to dances, go shopping and go to afternoon parties.

So, it's clothes, clothes, clothes that young Atlantans think about with the coming of a new season. And fall clothes must suit fall activities. For hundreds of girls, fall activities means school. Again, a wardrobe must be planned. And then there are the career girls, with a change of seasons requiring suitable suits and dresses to wear to work.

Debutantes begin their rounds of festivity and must plan far ahead in order to take in five or six social events in one day, and have plenty on hand to wear when the rush is on without having to stop and shop.

Debutantes will need tea and luncheon dresses, with a generous sprinkling of sports clothes. High school and college girls might stock up on sports clothes to wear to school, and career girls need serviceable, durable, tailored clothes for office and store work. So let yourself go on evening clothes, but don't glitter too much in the daytime if you are in school or are working all day.

The busy life and activities of American girls was taken into consideration by American designers this year. That is why it will be doubly easy to find the clothes you need, and find them in so many varied styles that plain Jane and lovely Laura can look equally smart, and at whatever price the budget dictates.

Sweaters are a "must" in the wardrobe of the younger set. For football games, pep meetings and other campus events—as well as for active sports—sweaters give the important casual look. Miss Gloria Gormley is wearing a kick-off red cardigan and examining its slip-over twin. The other sweater shown is a novelty, ribbed in soft pink.

All ready with rich creams to beautify the skin and match colors in make-up to wear with new fall clothes are the cosmetic counters, which lure womankind, young and old. Mrs. Ruby King is the demonstrator.

Keep in mind your coloring and figure. Buy the gorgeous shades offered in numerous basic colors, brown, black, gray, green and blue, and have the time of your life assembling accessories to go with them, because the range and colors never have been prettier.

Shown here are some finds in the fascinating array of fall clothes and accessories being displayed in Atlanta stores. These are only a few examples of the hundreds of selections planned for Atlantans for autumn wear.

Casual Clothes Are Colorful

Sweaters, casual blouses and play shoes, all made in fall materials, bring the leisure note into the fall fashion picture.

Novelty weaves and combinations of colors, cardigans and contrasting slip-overs, are found in sweaters of varied prices. Favorite jackets, used with skirts—solids, plaids or stripes—are being made just like a man's coat. Another favorite of the girls, borrowed from the wardrobe of the mighty male, is the casual coat, loosely fitted and good with skirts or slacks.

Attractive combinations made in wool, corduroy and other materials, are suits with blouses, skirts, jackets and slacks, all of different colors, but well blended, so that if you own one of these layouts, you have four costumes.

For further information about clothes on this page, write or phone Winifred Ware, Fashions Editor, The Constitution, or WA. 6565.

Dinner dresses can be simple or dramatic. Miss Lady Jane Akin is wearing a gray velveteen with novelty rhinestone buttons, pouch pockets and stiffened wide belt. It has new three-quarter-length sleeves. Ready to slip on over it is a red fox 32-inch jacket which boasts a circular front and spiral sleeves.

Hostess robes and housecoats are important wardrobe items. They can be as beautiful as they are comfortable and useful. Miss Jenelle Wilhite is wearing an embroidered flannel coat and satin slippers. This robe comes in sky blue or rose. Satin slippers in black, burgundy, white or pink.

All photos by Kenneth Rogers.

Beige has found new importance this fall. Here Miss Lane Winship is seen wearing a beige coat with brown lapin trim. Her hat repeats the idea, being trimmed with the same brown fur. Very perky, it is. Fur-trimmed hats promise to become increasingly important in the style parade with the coming of winter.

Children's Theater Group Plans Interesting Program

Decatur children will, for the third season, attend the presentation of the Clara Tree Major Children's Theater. The plays this year will be held in the auditorium of the Girls' High school, opening with "Heide," to be given October 18 at 3 o'clock.

Recently, the Children's Theater committee of the Decatur Council of P. T. A., sponsors of the plays, met at the home of Mrs. L. W. Markert, this year's chairman. Plans for the sale of season tickets and various other arrangements were made.

Children and parents who have seen the production of "Peter Pan," "King of the Golden River," "Aladdin," "Under the Lilacs" and "Tip Van Winkle," sponsored by the group, will be glad to know that this year's programs will be equally attractive.

The schedule of plays includes: October 18, "Heide"; November 29, "Beauty and the Beast"; and

February 28, "Robin Hood."

Season tickets will go on sale at an early date, and after the first play the sale of season tickets will close and single admissions will be sold.

Members of the children's plays committee are: Mrs. L. W. Markert, general chairman; Mrs. H. F. Higgins, chairman Decatur Council P. T. A.; Mrs. Minor Franks, secretary; Mrs. Vernon Frank, treasurer; Mrs. J. A. Weingartner, ticket chairman; Mrs. C. J. Lamers, publicity; Mrs. Charles Taylor, hospitality; Mrs. Irvin de Garis, arrangements; Mrs. Robert Davis, ushers; and Mrs. William C. Pauley, music.

Ticket chairmen for the various schools are: Boys' High, Mrs. W. R. Williamson; Girls' High, Mrs. E. B. Helble; Ponce de Leon, Mrs. L. G. Thompson; Winnona Park, Mrs. Hamilton Ansley; Fifth Avenue, Mrs. D. F. S. Galloway. Other chairmen will be announced later.

P. T. A. District Holds Meeting

Thirteenth district of Congress of Parents and Teachers met in the auditorium of Tucker school recently, in the form of a school of instruction. Mrs. E. E. Carter, director, presided.

Invocation was given by Rev. C. C. Singleton. Miss June Mundy gave the salute to the flag, after which Mrs. D. D. Hopkins and W. C. Mundy gave welcoming addresses. Mrs. M. C. Brown Jr., of Gwinnett county, gave the response. Mrs. C. J. Cheeves, of Gainesville, secretary and treasurer of the district, read the minutes.

Reports of council presidents were given by Mrs. Ernest Key, DeKalb; Mrs. C. E. Higgins, Decatur; Mrs. Robert A. Long, president of Georgia Congress of Parents and Teachers, spoke on "Importance of Parent-Teacher Membership at the Present Time." W. M. Rainey, superintendent of DeKalb county schools, talked on "How the Parent-Teacher Association Can Help the School."

A working pattern for a local association was conducted by officers and chairman of the district. Lunch was served in the new gymnasium.

Shower Is Given For Miss Chambliss.

Mrs. W. B. Willingham III entertained at a miscellaneous shower on Saturday at her home on Ponce de Leon avenue in compliment to Miss Frances Chambliss, whose marriage to Thurman Nash will be an interesting event of October 5.

Mrs. Willingham chose for decorating her apartment a colorful array of garden flowers which were attractively arranged in bowls and vases. She was assisted in entertaining by her mother, Mrs. W. B. Willingham Jr.

Invited to meet the bride-elect were Mesdames Olga Gloer, Thelma Sampler, Julian Maddox, Charles Ensor, G. B. Boyd, Harry McNeill, Misses Elizabeth Chambliss, Kathryn Jolly, Charlene Gray, Frances Barron and Molly Russ.

Today Is Set As Prayer Day.

Three seasons of the year are of special significance to Baptist W. M. U. These are the seasons of prayer and offering for home, state and foreign missions. Mrs. Frank Burney, president of W.

Miss LeGuin Weds Foster H. Snoderly.

McDONOUGH, Ga., Sept. 24.—The marriage of Miss Frances LeGuin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. G. LeGuin, of Locust Grove, to Foster Haden Snoderly, of Atlanta, formerly of Knoxville, Tenn., was solemnized September 14, at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, at the home of the bride's brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. T. L. LeGuin, in McDonough.

Rev. J. W. O. McKibben, pastor of the First Methodist church in Decatur, and close friend of the bride's family, performed the ceremony, and music was presented by Mrs. Fred LeGuin, pianist. The bride was attended by her niece, Miss Dorothy LeGuin, as maid of honor. Miss LeGuin wore a dress of Indian earth brown and shoulder spray of sweetheart roses and forget-me-nots.

The bride entered with her father, who gave her in marriage, and was met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Glenard Gentry, of Knoxville, Tenn., cousin of the groom. She wore a becoming blue crepe dress with accessories to match. Her flowers were gardenias and valley lilies. Her only ornament was a rhinestone necklace, a gift from the groom. After the ceremony the couple left for a trip to Florida.

Epworth Society.

The charter meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of Epworth Methodist church was held recently at the church with the pastor, Rev. J. Hamby Barton, conducting the impressive service. Mrs. Walter Streeter served as temporary secretary and also gave the message "Our Heritage." Mrs. L. P. Johnson and Mrs. J. H. Barton also assisted in the worship service.

The following officers were elected: President, Mrs. J. A. Cox; vice president, Mrs. T. W. Fowler; treasurer, Mrs. A. J. Oakley; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Annie Grant; recording secretary, Mrs. Lee Smith. The secretaries are Mrs. J. H. Barton, Mrs. Pat Gilentine, Mrs. E. L. Ledbetter, Mrs. M. D. Ruff, Mrs. J. W. Ross, Mrs. Bennett Hutchison, Mrs. C. E. Bromley, Mrs. E. L. Graydon, and Mrs. M. Benton.

M. U. of Georgia has announced today as the day set apart for the state season of prayer and the Mrs. W. J. Neel offering. The 1324 organizations, including W. M. U. Young Women's Auxiliaries, Girls' Auxiliaries, Royal Ambassador chapters and Sunbeam bands are urged to observe this season.

Mr. and Mrs. Roland A. Walker, left, were married recently at Kirkwood Methodist church. Mrs. Walker is the former Miss Frances Loveless, attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Loveless. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Simpson Eubanks, right, were married at East Point Christian church. The bride was before her marriage Miss Juanita Jeanne Manor, daughter of Mrs. J. B. Manor.

Linen Shower Set For Next Friday

Mrs. Joseph W. Awtry, superintendent, and Mrs. J. S. Price, personal service chairman of the Atlanta Association of Baptist W. M. U., announce the annual linen shower for the orphans' home at Hapeville, September 27, at 3 o'clock.

Dr. Z. E. Barron, pastor First Baptist church, Hapeville, will bring a devotional. J. L. Fortney and Mrs. J. W. Awtry will bring messages. Miss Bonnie Pullen and Mrs. Ralph Mitchell will present the children in musical numbers.

A tour of the campus will be featured, and three modern new buildings have recently been completed and furnished.

This work was born in the hearts of a band of Baptist women of Atlanta in 1890. The home opened with five children. The Baptist Brotherhood of Georgia became interested, and arrangements were made whereby the home came under the fostering care of the state convention in 1900, and the home was moved to Hapeville from its old location at 219 Courtland street. Approximately 300 children now enjoy the shelter, care and protection of a "real home."

Once a year a linen shower is given by the 405 W. M. U. organizations including young women's auxiliaries, girls' auxiliaries, Royal Ambassador chapters and Sunbeam bands. Last year there was a fine display of linens, quilts and articles of clothing. The cash contribution was $914.86, the largest ever given by the Atlanta union.

Parties Continue For Miss Sewell.

Prior to her marriage on October 9 to Lamar R. Plunkett, of Charleston, S. C., Miss Frances Sewell is being feted at many social affairs. Today Mesdames Hoyt Broadwell, C. E. Hughes, and Lewin Thompson, all of Bremen, will compliment the popular bride-elect at a luncheon at the Henry Grady hotel. On Friday Mrs. F. M. Bulloch will give a dessert bridge at her home on Peachtree road for the bride-to-be and that evening Miss Evelyn Green will be hostess at a dinner party at Peacock Alley for Miss Sewell. On Saturday Miss Miriam Rudesal will honor the future bride at a bridge-tee at her home on North Decatur road.

Miss McArthur Is Honored Today.

Miss Maryvill Pickett honored Miss Mae Bess McArthur at a miscellaneous shower yesterday at the Atlanta Woman's Club at 2:30 o'clock.

Miss Jean Mulder and Mesdames John F. Echols, Mose S. Hayes, Ray Miller Jr., and A. C. Loudermilk assisted in entertaining.

The tea table was overlaid with a lace cloth and centered with a bowl of tea roses and snapdragons. A silver service was placed on either end, and varicolored dahlias beautified the club.

Invited were Misses Betty Holcomb, Jean Mulder, and Mesdames J. K. Davidson, H. W. Bishop, J. A. McArthur, J. W. Bishop, Charles Davidson, V. C. Strickland, Wheeler Davidson, Hamilton McDonald, N. A. Davidson, Sam Combs, William Rankin, Ray Miller, Jack Ferguson, Ray Miller Jr., Jack Harris, Robert Patterson, Mose S. Hayes, W. H. Cook, A. C. Loudermilk, J. W. Meadows, H. P. Morris, Ralph Thacker, John F. Echols, A. L. McArthur and Jack Powell.

Day of Prayer For State Missions.

Today at 10:30 o'clock at the Druid Hills Baptist church, the W. M. S. will meet for a day of prayer for state missions.

Mrs. Marvin Woodall, mission chairman, has arranged a program around the theme "Our Judea for Christ" with the following taking part: Mesdames W. T. Dent, W. C. Carlton, C. R. Bell, L. D. New-

Parties Planned For Miss Staten

Miss Frances Klein Staten, an attractive bride-elect, will be feted at a steak fry on September 28, with Miss Ellen O'Donnell as hostess. Mrs. John Harde gives a luncheon for Miss Staten on October 5.

Mrs. Sykes Young entertains at a luncheon on October 12th at her home on Alpine road for the popular bride-elect and Miss Mary Pritchard gives a seated tea for her on October 19th at her home on 14th street.

Mrs. W. F. Staten will entertain at a tea on October 18th, and Mrs. Frederick Nardin entertains at a buffet supper on October 19th, as a complimentary gesture to Miss Staten. Mrs. Clarence Staten will entertain after the rehearsal on October 21st at her home on Lenox road, in honor of her daughter and her fiancé, George Mills Carson.

Other parties given for Miss Staten included a miscellaneous shower given at her home in Decatur by Mrs. Allan Rolfe. Miss Jane Knapp entertained at a linen shower at the home of Mrs. John Crosby Knapp, her mother.

Mrs. Frank Lindsey and Miss Mary Mills, of Griffin, entertained at a tea at Mrs. Lindsey's home in Griffin. Mrs. Christopher Sheridan gave a luncheon at the home of her mother, Mrs. John M. Harrison, on Orme circle, for Miss Staten.

West End Club Meets Today

The West End Woman's Club will meet today at 3 o'clock with Mrs. J. H. Legien, the president, presiding. Officers and chairmen are requested to bring reports of the past month's work.

The executive board meeting will be held at 2:30 o'clock, presided over by Mrs. B. F. Starr, first vice president.

Mrs. Conrad Smith, scholarship chairman, has secured scholarships for the club, as follows: One half business scholarship, one half music and one half dramatic. Applications may be made by calling her at Raymond 4555.

Mrs. J. H. Phagan, chairman of the Needlework Guild, reminds members that the "shower" is still on for this work. At the close of the meeting a surprise feature will be given.

Miss Laura Coit And Fiance Feted.

A number of interesting social affairs have been planned for Miss Laura Coit and her fiancé, Boisfeuillet Jones, whose engagement was announced Sunday. Yesterday Mrs. Joseph Green entertained at a luncheon at her home on Sixth street for Miss Coit.

On Friday Mrs. R. B. Cunningham entertains at shower at her home in South Candler street in Decatur, and on October 5 the bridal couple will be honored at the steak fry at which Gilbert McLemore will be host at Chatham Springs.

Miss Eliza King has planned a tea on October 2 at her home on Penn avenue for Miss Coit, and on October 19 Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bowden will give a buffet supper at their home on Ponce de Leon avenue for the young couple.

Others planning parties include Miss Betsey Dupuy and Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Rushin.

Important Points for Men Only

By RALPH MCGILL.

Once upon a time I read a story about a young man who, after years of trying to keep a crease in his pants, gave up the task and entered a monastery where robes are worn.

There is no trouble in these days and times when the tailors know their art and the wool grown on modern sheep seems to hold a crease better than the wool from sheep in the "good old days."

Atlanta buyers say this really is the men's style center of the South. Practically every visitor to our town comments on the beauty of our gals and the well-dressed men who are to be seen admiring the gals.

One can always tell a visitor from Birmingham, Chattanooga or New Orleans. They look so odd in their funny-looking suits. The Atlanta men all look like models for what the well-dressed man will wear. It is possible the other towns are selling the stocks which merchants here fled with at the advent of Sherman's Bummers.

Once I was coming from New York to Atlanta. There was an English lady on the train. As we pulled into Atlanta's Terminal Station she said:

"This reminds me so much of London, there are so many well-dressed men to be seen."

I told her she should see them in their Sunday suits.

It will be recalled that a couple of years ago the Duke of Windsor and Wally were planning a trip to America and Atlanta was on the itinerary. It was said they were interested in housing. Actually Wally was bringing Edward to Atlanta to buy him a suit.

The Atlanta suits which cost $18 will outlook most suits in other climes and countries. And one of our $40 and $50 suits will enable one to get into the bank president's private office. One of our $75 suits will enable him to get a loan from the president.

When "Gone With the Wind" came to town Clark Gable didn't look so good. I remember hearing a cute young thing on a street car say to her boy friend, as she hugged the arm of his $17.50 suit, "Honey, you look better than Gable to me!"

It had to be the suit. He was freckled and no handsomer than the Young Mr. Lincoln.

If the United States is going to set the styles for the world, I am right here to say Atlanta men will lead the parade.

I've been looking in the shop windows, looking at what the buyers have bought for fall, and they look good to me. They make the shops along Bond and Regent streets in London look bad.

Once the world has had a look at our styles the buyers will turn over and go to sleep when the conductor comes through the trains and says Paris is the next stop.

Pierce Carruth prepares for fall football with a llama mixture overcoat of natural camel hair. His wingback hat has Tech and Georgia's schedules printed on the inside band. To the right, he wears bemberg pajamas and brocaded satin robe.

Select accessories carefully. The shirt, right, is striped broadcloth, and the tie has a dignified design. The tie-holder has a monogram plate. Linen handkerchief matches shirt. Leather billfolder and calf-skin belt are also excellent buys.

Bill Garrison, above, makes his sports trio do for two outfits. Left, he wears the slacks of the suit with a leisure coat made along pinch-back lines. Right, he wears his rough finish tweed suit. His hat is stitched with the new type pugaree band and has a telescope crown. Notice his comfortable walled moccasin type sports shoe with heavy sole. His sweater is reversible, green on one side, tan on the other.

RICH'S

Home Appliances Sixth Floor

A black, jet sequin trimmed formal is worn by Mrs. E. Raymond Johnson. The net top gives becoming softness and a long-sleeved jacket may be worn when dining out.

This autumn Atlanta will be more active than ever for the group of mature women whose days are filled with clubs, entertainments, and sports, as well as homemaking. The fall series of concerts begin in October, so do the big football games.

With politics in the limelight, there are patriotic meetings. Many new organizations for war relief have been organized here, and busy women find time to knit, sew, and raise money for the sufferers in Europe.

The stores are keeping step with all the women who participate in social and civic activities. They have acquired the kind of clothes you are going to need, and you will find them more flattering than ever. Waistlines are normal, colors are better blended, and fine materials make the ready-to-wear market the most attractive in its history.

Mrs. William Willis Anderson is seen wearing an afternoon dress of becoming design. The beautifully embroidered long sleeves zip off when you want the short sleeve sewn in beneath.

A handsome coat of natural mink made on swagger lines is modeled by Mrs. Samuel Baum. Note the yoke treatment.

Regardless of age, size, or interests, you can be stylishly dressed this season

Miss Gloria Ann Melchor models a youthful hat which frames the face and shows off the curls on the forehead.

Dignity, gaiety, or glamour are found in accessories with an autumn air.

Colors that have long been on the sidelines have returned. Bronze appears in shoes again; earth, natural beige and Indian Summer—all three are beautiful with black, gray, and blue as well as brown.

Red in sports and evening wear makes a bright splash on the fall scene. And any conceivable color, odd or ordinary, may be found on jewelry counters. Hundreds of shapes and sizes, costume jewelry may be had in everything from lamp posts to spoons, and emblems of war relief societies are colorful and well executed. Square cut stones and square bracelets and earrings are the newest of notes.

Evening bags are acknowledging their purpose and appearing in sizes large enough for a good many more items than a lady's handkerchief.

Left: Comfortable all round shoes are these of suede. They have hand-worked eyelets in the vamp and silk ribbons laced around the throat.

Right: Silver mesh with red and green stripes form these slippers that will lead a gay life with you. They will go with a number of formal gowns—also come in gold mesh. The twinkling bag is of rhinestones—clear cut as crystal!

Godwin-Touchton Plans Announced

Much social interest is centered in the plans for the marriage of Miss Charline Godwin and Glenn G. Touchton, of Valdosta and Atlanta, which are revealed today by the bride-elect. The ceremony will be solemnized at 6 o'clock on the evening of October 2 at the home of the bride-elect's parents on Ponce de Leon avenue. Dr. Ellis A. Fuller will officiate.

Miss Godwin will be given in marriage by her father, William A. Godwin, and attending the groom-elect as best man will be his brother, Ashley Touchton, of Nashville, Tenn. The bride has chosen as her attendants her sisters, Miss Betty Godwin, maid of honor, and Miss Camille Godwin, bridesmaid.

Mrs. Charles Rightmyer, pianist; Joe Dukes and John Youmans, of Valdosta, vocalists, will present a musical program. Ushers will include Carver Hunt, of Valdosta, and Tony Henry, of Atlanta.

A number of social functions are being planned in honor of the bride-elect, among them being a luncheon to be given on Saturday at the Henry Grady hotel by Misses Florence and Harriet Hagan. October 1 is the date selected by the bride-elect and her mother, Mrs. W. A. Godwin, for a buffet supper to be given at the home of the bride-elect's parents after the wedding rehearsal.

Miss Carpenter Will Be Honored

Miss Lillian Carpenter, who will become the bride of David G. McNair at a fall ceremony, will be feted at a series of social affairs.

Mesdames J. T. Brasewell and Goodwin Walker are planning a bridge-ten for Miss Carpenter on October 4 at their home on Clifton road. On October 9 Mrs. Ernest Osborne will give a bridge-ten for the bride-elect at her home on Habersham road. Miss Caroline Malone has chosen October 11 as the date for the tea at which she will entertain at her home on Fairview road from 4 to 6 o'clock.

Miss Barbara Settle will entertain at a luncheon and shower on October 17 at the Druid Hills Golf Club for the bride-elect. Mrs. J. L. Cline will be hostess on October 8 at her home on North Decatur road, with Mrs. H. H. Askew as cohostess, at a linen shower and bridge party for Miss Carpenter. Mrs. L. P. Wyche and Mrs. Dave Bolling will give an evening party at Mrs. Wyche's home on Oakdale road in compliment to Miss Carpenter and Mr. McNair, the date to be announced.

Sigma Delta Chi

Misses Helen Winslett and Anne Vance entertained the Sigma Delta Chi sorority recently at the home of the latter on Langston street. Officers elected were: President, Mildred Bales; vice president, Anne Vance; secretary, Elaine Webb; treasurer, Helen Winslett; scribe, Frances Wade; and sergeant-at-arms, Frances Copeland.

Trinity Society

The executive board meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of Trinity Methodist church has been postponed and will meet on Friday at 2:30 o'clock at the church.

MRS. JOHN KING BYRD.

Miss Lucile Clarke, of Tampa, Weds James Byrd, of Atlanta

TAMPA, Fla., Sept. 24.—At an impressive ceremony taking place yesterday at high noon in the St. Andrews Episcopal church, Miss Lucile Minter Clarke, daughter of Mrs. Lucile E. Clarke, became the bride of James King Byrd, of Atlanta, Ga., son of Mrs. Daniel Madison Byrd, of Atlanta. Rev. Sidney Hopson performed the ceremony and a program of music was presented by Mrs. Robert Nunez Jr., assisted by a boy choir of 40 voices.

Ushers were James T. Whitner and John Vann, of Atlanta; Alex Doremus, of Augusta; Richard McKay and Charles M. Price, cousins of the bride, and William F. Edwards, uncle of the bride.

Miss Jane Price, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. She was gowned in crisp faille taffeta of champagne rose with which she wore a hat of deeper rose. Miss Velva Sutton was bridesmaid and the junior bridesmaid was Miss Sarah Clarke, sister of the bride. They wore pale pink taffeta with matching hats and all the attendants carried bouquets of gerberas, shading from pale pink to dark rose.

The bride entered with her brother, Webb C. Clarke Jr., who gave her in marriage. They were met at the altar by the groom and his brother, Daniel Madison Byrd Jr., of Washington, D. C., who served as best man. Mrs. Byrd was gowned in a floor length model of antique brocade faille made with a basque bodice and designed with a heart-shaped neckline and fan puffed sleeves. She wore a tailored picture hat of antique velvet and a cream veil tied under the chin. She carried a prayer book, showered with valley lilies that was used by her grandmother, Mrs. L. C. Edwards, when she became a bride.

Mrs. Clarke, mother of the bride, was gowned in black crepe with which she wore matching accessories and a shoulder spray of purple orchids. Mrs. Byrd chose for her son's wedding a model of French blue-crepe. Black accessories and a shoulder bouquet of purple orchids completed her costume.

Mr. Byrd and his bride left for a wedding trip to North Carolina and upon their return they will reside at 1765 Peachtree road in Atlanta.

Mrs. Byrd chose for traveling a velvet suit of moss green with which she wore a matching green hat, black accessories and a shoulder spray of orchids.

Among out-of-town guests attending the ceremony were Mrs. Daniel Madison Byrd, of Atlanta; Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Madison Byrd Jr., of Washington, D. C.; and Mr. and Mrs. James Whitner, Mrs. T. J. Whitner and John Vann, all of Atlanta.

Miss Ferguson Weds Mr. Fuller

ROCKMART, Ga., Sept. 24.—Miss Betty Ann Ferguson, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. G. M. White, became the bride of James M. Fuller at a ceremony solemnized at 7 o'clock last evening at Rockmart First Methodist church. Rev. L. F. Huckaby officiated, and music was presented by Thomas Thompson, organist; Stanley Powell, violinist; Mrs. Lewis Kincaid, Miss Joy Dansby and C. R. Butler, vocalists.

The usher-groomsmen were Jack Head, of Rockmart; Dr. Paul Vansant, W. B. Gibbons, Pat Colquitt and Ed Perryman, all of Cedartown.

Miss Dorothy Anne Fuller, of Cartersville, only sister of the groom, was maid of honor. She wore aqua satin, fashioned with a sweetheart neckline, short puffed sleeves and a full skirt. She carried a gold prayer book.

The bridesmaids included Misses Hilda McCalman, of Buchanan; Elizabeth Platt, of Gainesville; and Virginia Simerville, Jewel Nichols and Louise Morgan, all of Rockmart. They wore dresses fashioned like that of the maid of honor and carried silver prayer books. These books were engraved with the girls' names and were presented to them by the bride.

Miss Amelia Butler was the dainty little flower girl, wearing a long dress of bluish satin and carrying a large pink rose. Dressed in a white satin suit, Master David Huckaby carried the ring on a satin pillow.

The bride entered with her brother, Harry Ferguson, of Atlanta, by whom she was given in marriage. They were met at the altar by the groom and his brother, Bandy Fuller, of Ellijay, who served as best man.

The lovely bride was gowned in creamy duchesse satin made along princess lines, with sweetheart neckline and leg-o-mutton sleeves. Her tiered veil was caught to a choir boy cap of duchesse satin, with a face veil, the last tier falling the length of the train. She carried a white satin prayer book with white orchids, showered with valley lilies and a lace handkerchief given her by Mrs. Frank Lane. Her only ornament was a diamond pin given her mother by her father, the late Harry Ferguson, on their wedding day.

Following the ceremony Dr. and Mrs. G. M. White entertained at a reception at their home on Ivy street. Mrs. Joe Gail, of Charlotte, N. C., and Miss Mary Chahoun, of Macon, kept the bride's book.

Mr. and Mrs. Fuller left for a wedding trip . . . the evening and upon their return will reside in Cedartown, where Mr. Fuller is owner of the Fuller Drug Store.

The bride wore for traveling a Norman Hartwell model of stone blue with blue fox collar and hip-blue wool coat with blue fox collar and hip-length coat. She used black accessories and a cluster of white orchids completed her costume.

McKinley-Beggs Rites Set For Church Ceremony Oct. 1

Miss Grace McKinley and her fiancé, Douglas Beggs, have chosen October 1 as their wedding date, the ceremony to take place at 8:30 o'clock in the evening at the First Methodist church in Decatur. The Rev. Dr. Dick Hall will officiate and L. P. Johnson will present a program of organ music.

Miss McKinley will be given in marriage by her father, John E. McKinley, and George Beggs will be best man for his brother. The ushers will include John McKinley Jr., brother of the bride-elect, and Tom, Robert and Norman Beggs, all brothers of the groom-elect.

Mrs. John McKinley Jr., will be matron of honor for her sister, and the bridesmaids will include Miss Caroline Ledbetter, Mrs. James Fain and Mrs. James B. Allen, of Athens.

Following the church ceremony Mr. and Mrs. John E. McKinley will entertain at a wedding reception at their home on West College avenue, Decatur. After a wedding journey Mr. Beggs and his bride will return to Decatur for residence.

Mrs. Harold Newton has planned a luncheon in Miss McKinley's honor on Saturday to be given at Davidson-Paxon's tearoom, and on Saturday evening Miss Elizabeth Cousins will entertain at her lodge at Rex, Ga., for the betrothed couple.

Mrs. Rufus Darby will keep open house Sunday from 4 to 6 o'clock at her home on Woodcrest avenue in compliment to the bride-elect, and on Monday Misses Leila and Cliff Mable will entertain at luncheon at their home in Decatur. Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Beggs and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Walker will be hosts on Monday evening at the Walker home on Fairview Road, following the wedding rehearsal.

Garden Club Meets

Mrs. Lon Credelle was hostess recently at her home on Buford highway to the Bird and Flower Garden Club. Mrs. J. H. Lucas assisted her in entertaining.

Mrs. Lambdin Kay, the president, presided. Mrs. R. A. Williams read a paper on famous Georgia trees and Mrs. S. H. Bean Jr. invited the club to meet with her in October.

P.-T. A. Will Meet

Back-to-School Night for O'Keefe parents takes place this evening. O'Keefe P.-T. A. and the school faculty, Stanley M. Hastings, principal, will welcome the honor guests.

Parents are invited to become acquainted with activities, schedule, teachers, building and the advantages offered at O'Keefe.

Guests will assemble in the auditorium at 7 o'clock for a P.-T. A. meeting and at 7:30 o'clock the parents will go to the children's home rooms, where a schedule will be given them. Questions will be answered at that time regarding rotation.

Among features to be offered are exercises by Miss Mary Bringhurst on the auditorium stage. J. D. Shackelford will give vocal classes in the music room, and Owen Seitz will demonstrate the teaching of instrumental music in the band room.

MY DAY: Community Living Has Problems Too

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

HYDE PARK.—I met with a number of people at my apartment in New York City who wanted to talk over a variety of things. I think my most unusual visitors were Mr. Hans Meyer and Mr. Guy Johnson. They come from a group who believe in living, here and now, in real brotherhood.

For the moment, while the government of England understands their position, the people about them are making their community life somewhat difficult, for they have every nationality in the community in order to show that there really is a brotherhood of man. You make no commitment as to any special religion in joining them, you simply are willing to live according to their theories of government.

South Dakota has a similar community, but they are somewhat withdrawn from the other people of the neighborhood. The English group wishes to bring over its members to join those in this country. It is evident that they would be model citizens and their conception of democracy is certainly a pure and practical one. But even these two men with fine, calm faces, agreed that community living was not without its problems. I wonder if it will be easier in South Dakota than in England. I hope so, for they could not fail to be a good influence.

After attending the opening of a department store of designs for household furniture which various American artists had made, I left New York City in a cheerful mood. This work is going to bring taste and beauty to the people in the country because it is within the price range that many can afford. I wish them great success in what is a commercial venture but, at the same time, an artistic one.

Saturday night, to our great joy, James, Elliott and Ruth and Franklin Jr. and Ethel were all here for their grandmother's birthday celebration. Our other guests were Mrs. J. R. Roosevelt, Miss Laura Delano, Mr. Langdon P. Marvin Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Fairbanks Jr. It was a happy family gathering and I hope there will be many more similar ones.

Elliott has decided to go into the air corps for the duration of the emergency and his brothers are trying to figure out with his various business commitments, for it is a little disrupting completely to change your life. Today he receives his orders in Washington and will know the exact date when he must report for duty in Dayton, Ohio.

health which is the basis of skin beauty. Thus, it is necessary to establish and maintain a routine of skin care—a simple routine, but it should be complete. Most women buy creams and lotions, but oftentimes the foundation for make-up is neglected.

The desired foundation is one that holds make-up the day long, has a velvety mat finish and tends to accent color; also to hide freckles, temporary blemishes and the like. In looking over cosmetic counters the other day I discovered a foundation cream that is new. It's a delightfully scented, creamy, tinted base, obtainable in light, medium, and dark to meet individual complexion needs. Not at all greasy, it leaves the face with a smooth finish and is perfect beneath make-up. It tends to clear the skin and you won't have to bother retouching your make-up during the day. It's good also, to use on the arms, shoulders and back as a base for evening make-up.

This delightful base tint, with its beauty enhancing qualities, is put up in an attractive white jar, with a pretty, pale blue top. The same beautician did not stop with making the make-up base, but offers a soft, lightweight powder to use with this foundation. Its shades are many and they complement the three shades of the base. Powder shades are important since they contribute much toward soft and natural make-up. Like the rest of your make-up, the powder must blend with both the rouge and the powder base used.

We believe you'd like this flattering combination, and if you'll call me at The Constitution, I'll tell you what they are and where to get them. Write to Winifred Ware, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for pamphlet "Belly Breathing," (Protected by John F. Dille Co.)

Natural Oils Beautify the Skin

By Dr. William Brady.

In a preceding talk we described the function of the sebum (skin oil), which is to keep the skin soft, smooth, pliable and warm and to protect it against irritants. Incidentally the skin oil, secreted by two or three million sebaceous or oil glands under the skin of the entire body surface except the soles and palms, beautifies the skin. It keeps what would otherwise be a dull or sallow complexion rosy and clear, just as a bit of oil brightens and brings out the color of a piece of furniture.

Other differences, of course, distinguish the bright, clear youthful and beautiful complexion from the dull, gray or sallow appearance of the old skin, such as wrinkles, looseness or sagging lines, but the primary difference is in the supply of skin oil. By the same token the main purpose and practically the only actual effect achieved by the application of cosmetics is to remove sebum or skin oil when there is an excess of it or to substitute something for it when there is insufficient sebaceous gland secretion.

Cold cream freshly made according to the formula given in the Pharmacopoeia—by freshly made I mean the batch should be prepared in quantity sufficient to last a month—is one of the most satisfactory substitutes for natural skin oil, for an old skin.

Many women keep their skin and complexion in excellent condition by the daily use of a minimum of this home-made skin oil: Heat moderately for three hours in double boiler four ounces of sesame oil with 20 grains of powdered benzoin. Then let cool and add 20 drops of rectified spirit (pure alcohol, dehydrated alcohol or absolute alcohol) or 190-proof alcohol, stir well, strain through silk.

Sesame oil (also called teal or til oil) does not clog the skin as some other oils do. In applying this skin oil, it is always more satisfactory to apply it frequently and in minimum quantity—only a drop or two at a time—than to apply it only once daily in larger quantity. Remember, it is merely a fair substitute for the natural sebum which is secreted constantly but in minimum quantity in the normal individual.

Others with old, dry and dull or sallow skin prefer cold cream prepared thus:

Pare into fine shavings one ounce of spermaceti and one ounce of white wax (beeswax bleached), melt them together with moderate heat. Add five ounces of expressed oil of almond (sweet almond oil). Dissolve 20 grains (about one-third teaspoonful) of sodium borate (borax) in 1½ ounces (three tablespoonfuls) of stronger rose water, and add this to the other mixture. Then stir rapidly or beat with egg beater or with heavy spoon until the mixture becomes uniformly soft and creamy.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Safe Bathing

Is it dangerous to go in bathing when the water is beginning to get cold? I mean for girls in their teens, and especially at times in the month. (MRS. P. S. R.)

Answer.—So far as the temperature of the water is concerned, or the temperature of the air, it is immaterial—the bathing or swimming is beneficial, never harmful or dangerous, if the girl enjoys it.

How Are You Breathing?

Three years ago I couldn't pass a life insurance test. Today I have a four-inch chest expansion. (T. K. W.)

Gold-colored carrots are a valuable food. Try eating them "toasted".

Whole Carrots Toasted in Crushed Flakes Give Variety to a Healthful Food

By Sally Saver.

The green leafy vegetables and the yellow ones have an edge on the others for health-giving qualities. And among the yellow ones none ranks higher in vitamins and calcium than carrots. On the tables of those who know food values frequently you will see little strips of raw carrot, usually served on the relish dish with other crunchy appetizers. These are delicious after being crisped for a while in ice water. But there are times when, for sake of change, you want to cook carrots and today I am presenting them "toasted." Here's how to make them as pictured above:

Toasted Carrots.
2 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted

1-4 cups corn flakes, crushed
1-4 teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
Dash of paprika
Wash carrots thoroughly and scrape. Cook whole, in as little water as possible, until tender. Cool slightly. Roll whole cooked carrots in melted butter or margarine, then in crushed corn flakes which have been seasoned with salt, pepper and paprika. Place under a broiler at moderately low heat for about 10 minutes, turning frequently to insure even toasting. Serve with sprigs of parsley arranged to simulate the tops. These carrots make a beautiful garnish for a meat platter.

Mrs. Leo Schillinger will give a trolley tea at her home on Holderness street, Thursday, in honor of her daughter, and Friday, following the wedding rehearsal, Miss Stella Schillinger will entertain members of the wedding party and out-of-town guests at a buffet supper at her home on Holderness street. Miss Schillinger will be assisted in entertaining by her mother, Mrs. Leo Schillinger.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Y. Fife entertained recently at their home on South Gordon street with a heart die party in compliment to this popular couple.

Miss Lucile Boswell was hostess at a buffet supper Saturday evening at her home honoring Miss Schillinger and Mr. Denman.

Miss Chapman Weds Mr. Wilson.

Of interest to their many friends is the announcement made today of the marriage of Miss Charlene Chapman and William Wilson, which was a quiet event taking place on Sunday afternoon.

The ceremony was performed at the home of the Rev. T. B. Thrallkill, on Delaware avenue, who officiated at 4 o'clock in the presence of only a limited number of friends.

The bride's maid of honor and only attendant was Miss Dorothy Lomax and Roy Pritchard Jr. was best man. The bride was becomingly gowned in an ensemble of navy blue and her flowers were gardenias.

Mrs. Wilson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Chapman and Mr. Wilson's parents are Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Wilson. The young couple will reside in Inman Park.

Shorter Alumnae.

The Atlanta Chapter of the Shorter College Alumnae Association meets today at the home of Mrs. Samuel Hewlett, 2765 Peachtree road, at 3:30 o'clock. Guests from Rome will be Dr. Paul Cousins, president of Shorter College, and Miss Louise Bennett, dean. Mrs. Robert Arnold, of Covington, national president of the Shorter Alumnae Association, will also be a guest.

Plans for the annual alumnae breakfast, which takes place at the Georgian Terrace hotel on November 16, will be announced. Mrs. Walter Gay and Mrs. J. Curtis Dixon will announce the October plans for the two groups.

Dr. Mildred Mell, formerly connected with Shorter College, will speak. A tea hour follows, with the following hostesses: Mesdames W. L. Funkhouser, J. D. Cromer, Alfred Thompson and A. W. Woods.

For Miss Crumbley.

Misses Dorothy Martin and Aileen Barron will entertain Saturday at a luncheon in the Spanish Room of the Henry Grad Hotel for Miss Mae Crumbley, whose marriage to Clarence Stubblebine will be an important event of October 5.

Invited are Miss Crumbley, Mrs. Charles A. Stubblebine, Misses Sue Heldmann, Elvina Chosewood, Elise Nance and Ida Pope Shannon.

Miss Fulghum Weds Mr. Martin

The marriage of Miss Nell Claire Fulghum, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Fulghum, of College Park, and Charles Norris Martin Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Martin Jr., was solemnized on Sunday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at the First Baptist church. Rev. James L. Baggott performed the ceremony and a program of music was presented by Frank Willingham and P. H. Bearden.

The altar of the church was banked with palms and ferns interspersed with candelabra holding burning white tapers. Floor baskets filled with white gladioli and lilies completed the decorations.

Ushers were Harold Taylor and Harold Coan.

Miss Margaret Fulghum, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and only attendant. She was gowned in blue taffeta trimmed with wine colored velvet ribbons. She wore a wine veil and carried a bouquet of blue asters and red roses. Her only ornament was a cameo necklace, a gift of the bride.

The lovely bride entered with her father by whom she was given in marriage. They were met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Ralph Wooten. Mrs. Martin was gowned in white bridal satin made along princess lines and featuring a sweetheart neckline and a full skirt ending in a graceful train. Her veil of illusion was caught to her head with a coronet of orange blossoms. Her only ornament was a diamond necklace belonging to her mother.

After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Fulghum entertained at a reception at their home in College Park for the bride's guests. The bride's table was overlaid with a lace cloth centered with a three-tiered wedding cake.

Mrs. J. C. Fulghum, Miss Virginia Park, Mrs. Robert Terry and Miss Doyal Martin assisted in entertaining.

Mrs. Fulghum received her guests wearing a model of black crepe with which she wore black accessories and a shoulder spray of Biarrieff roses.

Mrs. Martin chose for her son's wedding a green velvet gown with which she wore Indian earth accessories and yellow roses.

Mr. Martin and his bride left for a wedding trip to Florida and upon their return they will reside in Atlanta where the groom is affiliated in business.

Mrs. Martin chose for traveling a costume suit of blue wool with which she wore matching accessories and a shoulder spray of orchids.

Affairs Planned For Miss Gaines.

First of the series of social affairs to be planned in honor of Miss Cornelia Gaines, lovely fall bride-elect, will be the kitchen party at which Miss Lydia Dalton will be hostess this evening at her home on Standish avenue. On Saturday Miss Montez Blackman will compliment Miss Gaines at a luncheon and shower at her home on Huntington road.

On October 1 Miss Dorothy Pharr will honor the popular future bride at a linen shower at her home on West Peachtree street.

Miss Gaines was central figure recently at a luncheon given by Misses Sarah Shelnut and Dolly Dopen.

Guests were Misses Reba Strickland, Dorothy Jolly, Lydia Dalton, Eva West, Frances Echols, Mesdames J. V. Frederick, Olie Gaines, Oscar Barber, W. A. Jolly, J. W. McDaniels and Gerald Hannah.

For Mrs. Humphries And Mrs. Briggs.

Mrs. W. C. Humphries, of Miami Beach, Fla., is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Paul Warwick, at her new home at 3860 Lake Forrest drive. She formerly resided in Atlanta and will be entertained at several social affairs.

Mrs. Merl Thompson's luncheon recently commemorated the birthdays of Mrs. M. Briggs, of Hollywood, Cal., the guest of Mrs. S. M. Briggs.

Mrs. Richard W. Courts gave a small luncheon at the Piedmont Driving Club for Mrs. Humphries. Mr. and Mrs. Warwick were hosts at a family dinner party on Sunday at the residence as a complimentary gesture to Mrs. Humphries.

Mrs. Smith Hostess.

Mrs. D. L. Smith honored her young grandson, Gary Hopper, at her home on Capitol avenue recently.

Guests included: Mesdames D. L. Smith, M. D. Toney, Maude Proctor, T. E. Humphrey, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hutchins, Miss Estelle Stevens, Miss Winnie Lee Davis, Miss Katherine Ellsbury, Tarpin, Forest Granger, Mrs. Minnie Ellsbury, Miss Opal Avery and Clarence Hudgins.

MRS. WILLIAM REID TAYLOR JR.

Miss Paden Becomes Bride Of William Reid Taylor Jr.

Of cordial interest to a host of friends is the announcement of the marriage of Miss Carolyn Pickens Paden to William Reid Taylor Jr., of Birmingham, Ala., formerly of Atlanta, which took place at noon Friday in the study of the Druid Hills Methodist church. The Rev. Eugene C. Few, pastor of the church, read the marriage service which was witnessed only by members of the immediate families of the bridal couple.

The bride is the only daughter of John E. Paden and the late Mrs. Paden, who before her marriage was Miss Ruby Harrison.

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor will reside in Birmingham, where Mr. Taylor is associated in business with the Southeastern Underwriters' Association.

Miss Holloway and Mr. Smith Marry at Church Ceremony

The Peachtree Christian church formed the setting Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock for the marriage of Miss Julia Elizabeth Holloway, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Holloway, and Capers Franklin Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Smith, of Columbus. Dr. Robert W. Burns read the marriage vows and a program of music was presented by Mrs. Victor Clark, organist, and Miss Martha Ware, soloist.

The altar of the church was banked with palms and ferns and a graceful arrangement of white gladioli completed the decorations.

Groomsmen were J. Clyde Rushin, Bert Stotz, Edward Dannehy, Dr. B. B. Hudson Jr., all of Columbus, and Bryant A. Whitmire and McCoy Whitmire, of Birmingham, Ala.

Miss Catherine Holloway, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a gown of hyacinth blue taffeta trimmed with royal blue velvet ribbons and designed with a sweetheart neckline, short puffed sleeves and full graceful skirt. She wore a matching hat of taffeta and carried a nosegay of red and white roses.

Misses Guynell Williams, Olivia Johnson, Jane Coffin and Rebecca Fillingame were bridesmaids. They wore hats and gowns trimmed with wine velvet ribbons designed like that worn by the maid of honor and carried nosegays of pink and violet asters.

The lovely bride entered with her father by whom she was given in marriage. They were met at the altar by the groom and his brother, L. G. Smith Jr., of Columbus, who served as best man. Mrs. Smith was gowned in white satin designed with a sweetheart neckline, trimmed with lace, and long fitted sleeves ending with points over the hands. The full graceful skirt featured a fan-shaped train and her veil of illusion was caught to her hair with clusters of orange blossoms. Her only ornament was a strand of pearls, a gift of the groom, and she carried a bouquet of white orchids, bride's roses and valley lilies.

Mrs. Holloway, mother of the bride, was gowned in black crepe with which she wore matching accessories and a spray of gardenias. Mrs. Smith chose for her son's wedding a model of black crepe. Matching accessories and a spray of red roses completed her costume.

Mr. Smith and his bride left for a wedding trip to New York City and Boston, and upon their return they will reside at 15 Pine circuit, the Peachtree Hill apartments.

Mrs. Smith chose for traveling a costume suit of marine blue wool with which she wore a

Miss Rowe Weds John T. Adams At October Rites

Sincere interest is centered in the announcement made today by Claude Donald Rowe of the engagement of his sister, Miss Addie Elizabeth Rowe to John T. Adams Jr., of Roanoke, Va., formerly of Atlanta and Fayetteville, Ga. The marriage is scheduled for October 26 and will be among interesting events of the fall season.

Miss Rowe is the eldest daughter of the late Schuyler Rowe Bauknight, of Atlanta. Her maternal grandparents are the late Mrs. Elizabeth Ella Williams and William Francis Moore, of Tuskegee, Ala. Her paternal grandparents are the late Addie Clifford Brannen, Bulloch county, and Daniel Rowe, Columbus, Ga.

The bride-elect received her education in the Atlanta public schools. Her sister is Miss Schuyler Janet Rowe.

The groom-elect is the son of Mrs. Bessie Smith Adams, of Fayetteville and Roanoke, Va., and the late John Rusty Adams, who was a prominent merchant of Fayetteville. On his maternal side, he is the grandson of the late William Lawrence Smith who for many years served as mayor of Fayetteville, and was a leading merchant, and Eugenia Elizabeth Milam, of Fayetteville. His paternal grandparents are the late Captain Elihu Adams and the late Catherine Miles, pioneer Fayetteville county citizens.

Mr. Adams for a number of years was connected with the Southern Freight Traffic Bureau in Atlanta and now holds a responsible position with the Norfolk & Western Railroad, in Roanoke, Va.

For Bridal Couple.

Miss Mae Crumbley and Clarence Stubblebine, whose marriage will be a social event of October, shared honors Sunday evening at the buffet supper given by Mr. and Mrs. Brooks McCrory and Mrs. Kendley Martin at the home of the latter on Fairhaven circle. Centering the lace-covered table was a tiered wedding cake flanked on either side by crystal candelabra holding burning white tapers. Graceful arrangements of gladioli and dahlias were used throughout the room for decoration.

Mother, watch your baby carefully for signs of unusual fretfulness, belching and the spitting up of food. Often they come about as a result of temporary constipation. Here TEETHINA can be relied upon as a mild and efficient laxative, as so many mothers will tell you. And, mother, when baby is suffering with a cold, it is most important that he have good bowel movements because constipation greatly aggravates and increases the discomforts of such condition. '41 Studebaker Highlighted by Cruiser Body

New Models Now Being Displayed by Atlanta Dealers.

Studebaker automobiles for 1941, now on display in Atlanta are highlighted by the slip-stream Land Cruiser body, from the designing board of Raymond Loewy, well known for his Stratoliner, railroad and steamship styling.

The Land Cruiser is sleeker, lower, and roomier than any previous Studebaker models of the Commanders, Presidents and Champions, and the new Cruisers are offered in each line.

Additional room, riding comfort, and effective harmonizing of interior trim, upholstery and hardware blending with the exterior styling, has all been featured in the Land Cruiser besides engineering innovations.

Operation Cheap. Chassis engineers have worked on traffic ability and roadability and at the same time reserved the low operating costs, making these a distinguishing aspect of the new Studebakers.

In the new Champion model the seemingly minor changes in cylinder head and spark plugs add to the surprising pep in traffic as well as economy of fuel consumption.

Overdrive is available in all models, and carburetors are of the downdraft type with full automatic heat control in addition to the automatic choke.

Colors Optional. Color combinations for exterior and interior are optional, with two-tone and three-tone combinations offered in the Champion line.

The 1941 Commander and President models have added horsepower and agility. The Commander's six-cylinder engine now delivers 94 horsepower, and the President's, an eight, 117 horsepower.

Both power plants have aluminum alloy pistons, with three rings and pins locked in connecting rods. Camshafts are driven by Celeron gears, the Commander having four large bearings and the President six.

Both standard and Land Cruiser bodies of Commander and President lines are available in regular and deluxe-tone "editions" and each model gives further evidence of Studebaker stylists' efforts to produce startling new blendings, in color, cloth and trim.

Army Service Not To Cause Loss of Benefits

Workers, Dependents Protected by Military Legislation.

Compulsory military service will not cause workers or their dependents to lose any accrued or future benefits under federal old-age and survivors' insurance, Joseph R. Murphy, manager of the Social Security Board's Atlanta office, reported yesterday.

Recent legislation inducing the National Guard into federal service contained provisions protecting insurance benefits, while early consideration is expected to be given to preserving insurance protection under the Social Security Act, the Railroad Retirement Act, the Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act, and to facilitate state action under state unemployment insurance programs, Murphy said.

On September 18 the Senate wrote into the excess tax bill an amendment giving the President broad authority to establish allowances for dependents and make modifications in social security regulations for the benefit of those entering military service, he pointed out.

Pacific Problems To Be Discussed

The first of a series of open forums discussing problems of the Pacific ocean as they confront the United States will be held at 3 o'clock Saturday at the Georgian Terrace Hotel by Nu-Chang, Delphinians. The subject, "The Border Line of the Pacific," will be led by Mrs. Gertrude Harris, president.

The forum is sponsored by the Delphinian Presidents' Council. The Delphinian Presidents' Council is composed of the following chapter presidents: Mesdames Gordon Evans, chairman; W. S. Johns, Ed Danforth, V. S. Ward, R. A. Spittler, R. T. Jones, J. J. Flowers, H. R. Neathery, educational director; W. A. Dodge Jr., Hazel Eaton, C. A. Nixon, Gertrude Harris, W. R. Johnson and Miss Addie Lou Gilbert.

Tea will follow the forum, and Mrs. Frances Burnham will preside, assisted by the Delphinian presidents.

600 Applicants Swamp Army Recruiting Office

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—(AP)—A rush to join the army—greatest since the World War—has hit the Second Corps Area recruiting headquarters.

Recruiting clerks handled 400 applications and turned 200 away at closing time yesterday. The line of applicants extended all around the Whitehall street block, in which the office is situated.

Colonel L. B. Magruder, recruiting officer, said 2,914 completed enlistments had been handled since September 1, the highest number in any month in more than 20 years.

LARGER, ROOMIER—Here is the 1941 Studebaker Commander in the brand-new Land Cruiser model that is larger, roomier, and more powerful than its predecessor. Its slip-stream lines by Raymond Loewy make for distinction.

Health Bureau Has Cash Surplus

Despite an expanded health program, the State Department of Health closed its fiscal year June 30, 1940, with a cash surplus of $426,046.33 as compared to a cash surplus of $175,626.33 for 1939, State Auditor Zach Arnold reported yesterday in an audit of the department's books.

Income for the year was $1,212,970, of which more than half, or $602,119.41, was contributed by the federal government. The state appropriation was $420,000, while earnings from miscellaneous fees totaled $11,330 and gifts aggregated $2,020.

The state auditor also filed a report on the state tuberculosis sanatorium at Alto, which is under supervision of the health department. Expenditures were listed as $199,991 for administrative costs and $225,504 for outlay which included a new building and equipment. A balance of $90,829 was reported in the institutions funds.

Mighty Problem Rests Heavily On Young Shoulders

A-H-H-H! Relfe Pruett seems to breathe a sigh of gustatory delight as, virtually surrounded by toothsome delicacies and ATO's, he appears in the midst of his first rush-week date at Emory. Jack Doozier (right) and Bob Morris (standing) have burdened his plate with tidbits and now monopolize his ears with conversation.

BID RUSHEE WELCOME Jim Ed Fain (left), rush chairman for the Alpha Tau Omegas at Emory, and Jimmy Lewis (right), also an active ATO, meet Rushee Relfe Pruett, of Pittsview, Ala., as he arrives in Atlanta. Thus begins the week when the freshman gets the entire Emory campus' attention.

STRATEGY That's what the Emory chapter of Alpha Tau Omega used on Relfe Pruett. Three ATO daughters—Isabel Bryan, Mary Lou Davis, Dot Daley—surround him with talk for ATO during a party.

BOWLER from the tenpins' point of view. Relfe Pruett swings hard during a rush-week date with Sigma Alpha Epsilon. An Emory rushee has four dates each day—lunch, afternoon, dinner, evening.

TO BE or not to be—what? Freshman Relfe Pruett pauses perplexedly after his strenuous rushing at Emory, to try to decide the fraternity of his choice. He'll acknowledge his acceptance of a bid when he, with a long line of other freshmen, tramps down fraternity row and walks up the drive to the house of his preference. Rush week at Emory, which has been going full steam ahead, will come to its final climax today.

OF HEAVEN'S BENEDICTION

By MARGARET GORMAN NICHOLS

Brooke Goes Home To Say Good-Bye To Family and Friends Before Sailing

SYNOPSIS. Brooke Carter, her mother dead, her father remarried, quits as secretary to a wealthy man, N. H. Kingston, and goes to New York to act as secretary-companion to his daughter, Helen. Helen, who had met while the old lady was boarding with Rod Westover's mother Grace in the New Hampshire town. Really Brooke has come to New York to be near Rod, to whom she has been engaged for two years and who has been very successful in his work with Barney Glass since he finished college three years ago. She is very happy when Rod takes her to dinner, but is surprised when he tells her he has moved from the cluttered apartment he shared with Jim Bartlett, a drawing salesman who was his college roommate and now is an accountant. Rod says Jim probably thinks him a snob but his advance in the business world called for better living quarters. As Rod says he must work the next evening, she has dinner with Jim. Hesitatingly he tells her about Irene Davies, a wealthy woman who is older than Rod. Jim says Rod still loves Brooke but Mrs. Davies is deeply interested in Rod. She meets Irene at a cocktail party given by Barney Glass and knows that Rod is in love with her. Brooke meets tall handsome Julian Carlton who tells her, "I'm a lawyer, and I'm a lawyer's lawyer. Brooke dines frequently with Rod but he makes no mention of a wedding date. One evening as she awaits his coming, she receives a telegram saying he and Irene are married and sailing to Hawaii. NOW ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT XIV. Occasionally Julian sprang into her mind, mocking her, taunting her by the intimacy with which he had looked at her and the things he had not said, and because he had told her nothing of himself and made her talk about herself. And because no inner secret seemed to escape her intuition. "He looked through me," she thought. It was disconcerting, but amusing, too. His curiosity appeared at what Rod had rejected, he probably would not see her again. Yet whenever she passed the Rockefeller Plaza skating rink on her way to the agent's Fifth Avenue office, she saw above brown tweed shoulders, became startlingly alive.

With Mrs. Kingston's reluctant permission she was going home this weekend. Both Helen and Grace had written, urging her to make her goodbyes in person. Brooke knew that her stepmother wished merely to see how Rod's marriage had affected her and to question her on her life in New York, and though there had never been the slightest reason to doubt Grace's sincerity and honesty, Brooke knew that this meeting would be strained and unhappy for both.

Wearing her black suit, a tailored white blouse and the absurd little black hat that resembled an Egyptian fez, she met Jim at the station at a little before noon on Saturday.

"Have a good trip, Brooke," he drawled, standing over her, smiling a little with a pipe between his teeth, his brown hair unkempt, his colorful tie crooked. He put a magazine in her hand. "Something to keep you company." "Thanks, Jim." She thought she was going to cry. How often she had stood in this exact spot with Rod, wanting to cry because she could not bear to leave him! She was like a bouncing ball now, she thought.

Jim said, "Give my love to Grace and tell her if she wants to come down, the same old hospitality waits." And as people began to surge forward, he looked at her somewhat anxiously and smiled. "So long, Brooke. I'll see you before you sail."

"Of course," moving with the throng, glancing back to smile and call, "Good-bye, Jim."

The monotony of the journey was relieved only by a brief storm and the political discussion of two fellow travelers, a beligerent elderly woman and an opinionated young man. Brooke turned the pages of the magazine absently, feeling adrift again, dreading the moment when she reached Chatham, knowing that Helen and her father would meet the train.

As Brooke stepped off the train at Chatham, she saw her father and Helen. In the instant before they spoke she saw them with detachment—her stepmother's small birdlike body in the colorful clothes she liked, a beige coat, wine-colored pumps and wine-colored felt hat, a very unsuitable outfit. Her small, pinched face, prematurely wrinkled, was rouged too heavily, and a new and permanent wave in her sandy hair had not been a success. How unattractive she was, how nervous!

Her father, an accountant in the mill, tall, thin, with dark melancholy eyes set close together, thinning dark hair speckled with gray, a thin nose and narrow mouth, had not changed in the slightest detail. Indeed, it seemed to Brooke that for as long as she could remember his appearance had not altered.

Helen embraced her. Her voice was high and the words came in a nervous rush as she laughed. "I lost your letter and I couldn't remember if this was the train. Isn't it wonderful, you going to Hawaii!" Looking Brooke up and down, taking in every detail of her clothes. "Why, you look fine."

Tom Carter managed a grin as Brooke turned to him to receive his light kiss. She had always felt, never knowing why, that her father did not approve of her. His temper had been violent when he was young and his frequent moods of depression were unexplainable to Brooke and her mother. He had a few friends. Small wonder then that not only Brooke but everyone else who knew him was almost shocked when a year after his wife's death he had taken to playing bridge with Heleu and her spinster sisters, all teachers, in the house across the street. Other than cards, the radio and the newspaper, he had no outside interests. Brooke had known since she was a tiny girl that her mother, a vital, intelligent, sensitive, attractive woman, had had a lonely, thwarted life. Yet Helen's devotion was obvious and of late years Brooke had seen no flaring of his temper but rather a gentler, more conciliatory attitude toward others.

As they left in a small black sedan, evidently new, Brooke sat alone in the back seat, looking coolly at Helen's excited, pinched little face as she turned around to talk. Go on. Say it! Ask me how I feel—and all about Rod and Irene—and how it happened! This person was engaged; another had had a church wedding which neither family could afford; Brooke's great-aunt, her mother's aunt who lived in Maine, had had a stroke. Brooke's old position with Dr. Fenwick had been filled by Mary Beasley, who was married, and Helen disapproved strongly of married women working. On and on until the car stopped before the big, old-fashioned, shabby cottage, shaded by huge, ancient trees.

Helen was saying as they walked up the path to the porch, "And the house is so big we're thinking of making the second floor into an apartment and renting it. Really, you know, it's no sense for two people having such a big house. You go upstairs. I've got to go to the kitchen."

Her room, high-ceilinged and wide, furnished with old, old mahogany pieces, and with the quilt on the bed her grandmother had made, was just as she had left it. But it was no longer her room. If she returned it might be the living-room of the newlyweds. She took off her hat and ran a comb through her hair. There was no place for her here. She was content, to be peacefully happy and wildly happy as she had been in this room. Helen called her. Somehow, the old-fashioned walnut furniture of the dining room was slightly overwhelming. Helen had put on her "best" linen cloth, her "best" silver, her china. They were treating her as if she were a guest. Brooke felt a slight wave of shame at her animosity toward her stepmother, a wave of shame which dissolved with the certainty that Helen's effusive hospitality would soon vanish if her stepdaughter were to announce that she was returning to Chatham to stay.

As Brooke took her place at the round table, Helen said, fussing over the dishes while Tom carved a leg of lamb, "You must be starved, Brooke! Is Mrs. Kingston's maid a good cook? I guess you've had so many fancy things to eat that Brooke's controlled face. "What kind of an apartment is it?"

The veil over personal questions behind Helen's searching little eyes and her father's emotionless dark eyes was thin. She smiled a little as she took a heaping plate from her father. "Ellen is a very good cook and a dear person. And the apartment is comfortable but rather drab. I haven't the faintest idea where we'll settle when we come back to Chatham."

That would put Helen at ease. This was an opening for Helen. Crisply, she said, "Well, I wouldn't let what happened bother me if I were you. He isn't worth it! He just isn't worth it! I always thought, and your father, too, that he was."

Tom looked across the table, his heavy dark brows drawn together.

"Maybe Brooke doesn't want to talk about it now, Helen."

"Why, Tom, I didn't mean. I wouldn't. . . ." She blushed beneath her rouge.

Poor Helen. She wanted so terribly to know. Brooke asked, "How are things at the mill?" "Oh, all right," still frowning, her father said, "When are you going, Brooke, and where?" She told him. Then Helen took up the unfinished gossip and the dreaded first meal came to an end.

However, when they were in the large kitchen, Helen began, "Brooke, I didn't mean, dear. . . . But we were so upset. Tom said he wasn't surprised, not a bit. I know how you must have felt. What did happen? Grace wouldn't say anything. I do think she might have told me!"

Picking up a plate, crying it slowly, Brooke said, "He married Irene Davies, a very rich woman, Helen. They sailed for Hawaii. That's all I know."

"And after all these years. You had faith but I never did. He's a strange boy. And the way he acted when he came home! So unfriendly and never looking up any of his old friends. I'll bet he never told anybody in New York that his mother had a boarding house. Well, all I've got to say is. . . ."

This would go on for hours. Brooke said, drying the last dish, "I'm going down to see Grace tonight."

THE GUMPS

WELL, GUMP—I HOPE YOU'RE SATISFIED—THAT OLD FOOL IS MOANING AT ME LIKE A WOUNDED PIPE ORGAN—AND IT'S ALL YOUR FAULT!

I'M HONESTLY SORRY, OLD-TIMER—I DIDN'T REALIZE IT WOULD TURN OUT THIS WAY—MAYBE YOU COULD SQUARE MATTERS BY TELLING HER YOU'RE ALREADY MARRIED—

HA—GUESS IT'S ABOUT THE ONLY THING I CAN DO—WISH AWAY, KNOB-HEAD—I'VE GOT A FEELING I'M GOING TO NEED IT—

TILDA—AH—ER—THERE'S A MATTER OF UTMOST IMPORTANCE THAT I'D LIKE TO TALK OVER WITH YOU—BUT I HAVEN'T HAD THE COURAGE TILL NOW—

OH, YOU DEAR, DEAR BOY! THIS IS SO SUDDEN!

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE

GEE, I WISH WE KNEW WHO SHE IS—BUT IT'S NOT SO PORTANT NOW—SHE'LL SOON BE ABLE TO TELL US—

YES—I BELIEVE THE DOCTOR SAID SHE IS CONSCIOUS NOW—

YES—SHE'S AWAKE—MRS. SLAGG SAYS SHE LOOKS AROUND AND IS ABLE TO TALK, BUT SO FAR SHE'S HARDLY SAID A WORD—JUST LIES THERE—

NO DOUBT SHE IS VERY, VERY WEAK—

SURE—AND I GUESS, TOO, WHEN YOU'VE BEEN THROUGH ALL SHE'S BEEN THROUGH, YOU'VE GOT PLENTY TO THINK 'BOUT WITHOUT GABBING TO FOLKS—SHE WAS CLOSE ENOUGH TO THE FEARLY GATES TO TOUCH 'EM, I'LL BET—

THAT'S A TRIP I'M SURE IN NO RUSH TO MAKE, EVEN A ROUND-TRIP EXCURSION LIKE HERS WAS—EH, SAM?

NO, ANNIE—WE DO NOT ASK TO COME INTO THIS LIFE—FEW ARE IN ANY HURRY TO LEAVE IT—

MOON MULLINS

SAY, MAMIE, DON'T SHOVE OFF FOR HOME YET. I'M BRINGIN' MY PAL, MAJ. MUTZ, UP TO THE HOTEL TO MEET YOU AND UNCLE WILLIE.

WILLIE, YOU WORM, PUT ON YER SHOES! THIS MR. MUTZ IS A BIG MOVIE MOGUL!

MUTZIE, MEET TH' PEOPLE! WE'RE JUST IN TIME FOR UNCLE WILLIE'S COMIN' OUT PARTY!

DELIGHT! BUT, MY DEAR BOY, NO TELL ME THEES A SOCIETY FUNCTION?

"COMING OUT PARTY"—WHAT WILL MR. MUTZ THINK OF US?

DICK TRACY

SO SOME OF YOUR USED TYPE SLUGS WERE STOLEN. EH? WHOM DO YOU SUSPECT?

WELL, NOW YOU'RE PUTTING ME ON THE SPOT, MR. TRACY.

I WILL SAY I ONCE HAD A RATHER WILD AND WOOLY EMPLOYEE, A WRITER WHOM I HAD TO DISCHARGE. I ALWAYS FELT SHE—

SHE? A WOMAN? SURELY YOU COULDN'T LAY A BOMB PLOT TO A WOMAN?

NO?

MR. TRACY, YOU DON'T KNOW THIS WOMAN!

PERHAPS! WHAT'S HER ADDRESS, MR. TOIRTAP?

JANE ARDEN—By Monte Barrett and Russell Ross

OF COURSE—I GAVE MY PARTNER THAT OLD LAST YEAR—

WE'VE BEEN CHECKING THE REGISTRY OF THOSE GUNS, AND WE'VE FOUND BOTH YOURS AND WHEELER'S PURCHASED BY YOU—DON'T NEVER NEVER LOADED?

I CAN'T SAY—HE KEPT IT IN HIS DESK, BUT I'VE NEVER HAD OCCASION TO EXAMINE IT—

WHY DON'T THE BANDIT FIRE AT YOU INSTEAD OF AT WHEELER?

I DON'T KNOW—IT ALL HAPPENED SO QUICKLY—I'VE WONDERED SINCE IF HE WAS TRYING TO SHOOT ME AND WHEELER GOT IN HIS WAY—

THAT WOULD EXPLAIN IT!

Your Horoscope for Today

By ALICE DENTON JENNINGS, Noted Atlanta Astrologist.

What today means to you if you were born between:

March 21st and April 19th (ARIES)—The best portion of the day is before noon and up to 1:03 p. m. However, this period appears to favor routine more than new or important undertakings. After 1:03 p. m. you will likely encounter delays, opposition to your desires and worry. The period does not favor assuming new or heavy obligations.

April 20th and May 20th (TAURUS)—The period previous to 3:27 p. m. favors land, produce, electrical devices, communications and correspondence. After 3:27 p. m. your high feelings of well-being seem to receive a wet blanket, and you are likely to have to work harder to get even fair results.

May 21st and July 20th (GEMINI)—An excellent day for literary endeavor, contacting publishers, social affairs and educational interests. The best aspects of the day operate previous to 3:01 p. m.

June 21st and July 22nd (CANCER)—The best aspects of the day operate previous to 1:03 p. m. However, this period is more favorable for routine than for new or important undertakings. After 1:03 p. m. favors sticking to routine matters.

July 23rd and Aug. 22nd (LEO)—Before 12:14 noon favors dealings with women, artistic matters, ordinary business routine, as well as new undertakings, providing you thoroughly understand any proposition into which you enter. After 12:14 p. m. favors sports and social matters.

Aug. 23rd and Sept. 22nd (VIRGO)—Previous to 1:29 p. m. your spirits will be high, but between 1:29 p. m. and 2:36 p. m. you are likely to be filled with indecision. Before 1:29 p. m. is most auspicious for dealings with those in superior positions, for communications, making contracts. After 2:36 p. m. calls for extra diplomacy and tact in all dealings.

Sept. 23rd and Oct. 22nd (LIBRA)—The morning hours and until 2:30 p. m. is a favorable period for work that calls for exertion. After 2:30 p. m. and to 6:52 p. m. guard against affairs of a secretive nature and subtleties.

Oct. 23rd and Nov. 21st (SCORPIO)—Before 10:33 a. m. you are likely to overdo things and undertake too much. Be cautious. Between 10:33 a. m. and 5:17 p. m. favors social engagements. After 5:17 p. m. favors matters of a mechanical nature.

Nov. 22nd and Dec. 21st (SAGITTARIUS)—The entire day and evening does not especially favor important plans, decisions or changes. An excellent day to attend to private matters and finish up old tasks that have been pending for some time.

Dec. 22nd and Jan. 19th (CAPRICORN)—Between 8:41 a. m. and 4:25 p. m. favors matters that require diplomacy and finesse. The remainder of the afternoon and evening, do not expect too much through social activities or through business that deals in artistic works and beautiful fineries.

Jan. 20th and Feb. 18th (AQUARIUS)—Before 12:38 noon favors literary efforts, educational matters, dealings with relatives. Between 12:38 noon and 2:10 p. m. does not especially favor developing new ideas or furthering personal interest. Between 2:10 p. m. and 5:43 p. m. you should make favorable contacts, especially with the opposite sex. This is a period to deal with friends who are original, altruistic or of a sensitive nature. After 5:43 p. m. re-trench, conserve.

Feb. 19th and March 20th (PISCES)—An excellent day for going ahead with any project you may have in mind that has been carefully planned, especially before 5:53 p. m. After 5:53 p. m. favors romantic interests and travel.

DR. CHRISTIAN—A pair of feuding 93-year-old gents became entangled in an hilarious plot in Jean Herschell's "Dr. Christian" drama to be heard over WGST at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

Each of the venerable patriarchs claims to be more aged than the other by a margin of several minutes, in an effort to win Health Week honors. Dr. Christian threatens to end the argument by bringing forth a 95-year-old contender from a near-by town. Rosemary de Camp, as "Dr. Christian's secretary, helps him solve the problem.

LANKY ROSS—As boys and girls all over the country are trekking back to college campuses, Lanky Ross will feature a wide variety of college songs during his broadcast to be heard over WGST at 10:15 o'clock tonight.

Program will include: "Sweetheart of Sigma Chi," "Far Above Cayuga's Waters," "Filtration Walk," "Betty Co-Ed."

BUD AND LOU—The Department of Utter Confusion will reign supreme when funsters Bud Abbott and Lou Costello conclude their summer series of "Time to over WSB at 8 o'clock tonight. Smile" broadcasts to be heard they will repeat their famous and super-silly baseball routine, designed to make the current American League race look like sissy stuff.

Songstress Benay Venuta will participate in the proceedings with her version of "That's for Me" with musical support from Felix Mills and his orchestra.

Board Forbids New Defense Mathews' Quick Body Named Reinstatement By President Must Wait Until After the General Election, It Rules.

Charles L. Mathews, nominated as city tax collector in the September 18 runoff city primary, may not be reinstated as chief deputy to Tax Collector R. A. McMurry until after the general city election, December 4, the city personnel board ruled yesterday.

Mathews appeared at the regular meeting of the board, and asked for a ruling, pointing out that he is now the nominee of the party, that he resigned his post to offer for McMurry's post and that now that the race is over, he wishes to have his status clarified.

Two members of the board—Aubrey Milam and Gus Harper—held that since Mathews' name will appear on the ballot in December, he would still be in politics to protect his nomination if opposition should develop. James P. Allen, third member, contended there is little likelihood that Mathews will be called upon to "engage in further political activities to secure his election."

McMurry said that under the ruling of the board, Mathews could not be reinstated until after December 4, that Mathews had not approached him concerning a prospective reinstatement in his old job, which under civil service rules he was forced to resign to enter the primary as a candidate, and that he would cross "the reinstatement bridge when I get to it."

Agency Will Co-ordinate All Branches of Communication.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—(AP) President Roosevelt created a defense communications board today to "co-ordinate the relationship of all branches of communication to the national defense."

A White House statement said that the board would have the duty of "charting the utilization and control of our communication systems in the best interests of national security."

"The board is basically a planning agency," the statement said, "without operating or procurement functions."

"The board will have no power to censor radio or other communications, or to take over any facilities."

Members will be the chairman of the Federal Communications Commission, chief signal officer of the Army, director of Naval Communications, and assistant secretaries of the State and Treasury Departments.

The board as basically a planning agency. At his press conference today, President Roosevelt said that he thought there should be no more permanent gun emplacements for coast defense purposes.

In this connection he said that he had ceased talking in terms of 1890 and when reporters requested an explanation of the significance of that date he suggested that they read the newspapers of the past year.

The President did not explain his views on coast defense problems to the extent of telling what type of defense he considered most effective in modern warfare.

Terrible New Bomb Claimed By Inventor

2,000-Pounder Has Effect of 100,000-Pound Missile, He Says.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Sept. 24.—(AP)—An aerial bomb which its inventor contends can have its destructive capacity multiplied 50-fold by a new method of construction has been developed by Master Sergeant Frank Newton, head of the ordnance department, Fort Roscoe.

Newton said a 2,000-pound bomb with this revolutionary development could be given the annihilating effect of a 100,000-pound missile without any increase in weight.

The inventor said the development had been tested with devastating effect at Camp Ord, Cal., and was in the hands of army ordnance officers in Washington, D. C., for further experiments.

NEW MAYOR—E. Glenn Laney yesterday was elected mayor of East Point, succeeding James A. Parham, who was not a candidate. (Additional Story on Page 1.)

New East Point Mayor Veteran Rail Engineer

Native of Clayton County Served Three Terms as Councilman.

E. Glenn Laney, elected yesterday as mayor of East Point, is a veteran engineer with the Central of Georgia Railroad.

A native of Clayton county, he has been a resident of East Point for 20 years, and has for many years been active in civic affairs there. He has served three terms as a member of council from the third ward, and has also been chairman of the legislative committee of the Brotherhood of Railroad Engineers for many years.

He was elected on a campaign program calling for co-operation and courtesy in the management of civic affairs.

With his wife, and son, E. G. Laney Jr., an employee of the business office of The Constitution, he makes his home, at 513 Jefferson avenue, East Point.

Traffic Expert Gives Hope in City's Problem

McClintock Says It's an Engineering Job, Can Be Solved.

Atlanta can take heart—its traffic problem can be solved completely.

America's foremost traffic authority, Dr. Miller McClintock, director of Yale University's Bureau for Street Traffic Research, who hasn't a single local ax to grind, made this definite statement here yesterday.

"You are off to a good start with the plan just put under way for a comprehensive survey of the troubles here," he declared, referring to the joint metropolitan traffic survey. "It is first of all an engineering problem and must be approached from that point of view."

"Regulating traffic, providing for its proper flow, is nothing more nor less than establishing a proper transportation system. If you were organizing a transportation system, what would you do? You would consider all of the factors and make specific provision for each one. That is the simple, but adequate, way to handle traffic."

The problem, however, he observed, is not a simple one. "Cities, largely speaking, are already 'set.' Little can be accomplished in the way of widening streets in congested areas, and about overhead highways, underground traffic arteries, and similar devices for dealing with the problem. Today there is no traffic problem which cannot be solved 100 per cent."

Worth the Money.
"These modern facilities cost money, a great deal of money. But they not only pay back every cent spent on them, but they pay dividends. They increase the flow of traffic. The resultant increase in income, both through taxes and business volume, brings all of the money back and more."

Dr. McClintock, who has just finished planning Chicago's $200,000,000 "cure," involving the most modern construction, would offer no specific remedies for Atlanta.

"The survey must develop what is needed," he pointed out. "I've been in town long enough to realize you have a problem, but it would be presumptuous to discuss other than the larger outlines of the question. I do know that Atlanta's problem, while difficult, owing in part to the casual, unplanned manner in which the central part of the city just 'grew up,' will require the best engineering talent to solve. I know also that the means exist for its definite and satisfactory solution."

Praises Road Record.
He spoke strongly against diverting gasoline and oil taxes to other purposes than highway construction, maintenance and auxiliary activity. Georgia's highway record drew praise from him.

"We are very proud of what your state is accomplishing," he said. "It is a challenge to other states. Much praise is due your Mr. M. C. Bishop, director of the division of traffic and safety. He was a pupil of mine at a short course held at the University of Tennessee, and we are all proud of his record."

The expert warned against "little nibbling tactics" being accepted as traffic cures.

"Get your plan, based on what is wrong," he declared, "and then follow it through. In that way you will solve your problem and greatly benefit your city."

BRINGS HOPE—Dr. Miller McClintock, Yale University's traffic expert, who yesterday declared a specific engineering plan, fully carried out, will solve Atlanta's problem of severe traffic congestion.

New Air Route To St. Louis Opens Today

21-Passenger Plane Will Begin Inaugural Flight in Miami.

A new air route, linking Atlanta with St. Louis, will officially be inaugurated today when the "St. Louis Flyer" hops off in Miami for Orlando, Jacksonville, Atlanta, Nashville, Evansville and St. Louis.

The new service, offered by Eastern Air Lines, makes St. Louis less than four hours away by air. The new route will also bring to a total of four the round trips operating daily between Atlanta and Jacksonville and Miami.

The ship—a 21-passenger Douglas airliner—will take off at 10 o'clock this morning in Miami, reaching Atlanta at 2:40. After a brief pause, the ship will continue on to St. Louis to arrive there at 6:40 o'clock (Atlanta time).

The return plane will leave St. Louis at 10:30 (Atlanta time), arrive here at 2:20 in the afternoon, and reach Miami at 7:40. The new ships will carry two pilots and a flight steward.

Effort Pushed To Extricate Plane Victims

Remoteness of Swamp-land Makes Recovery of Bodies Difficult.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Sept. 24. (AP)—Efforts to remove an army plane from a mudhole in swamp-land near Woodbine, Ga., and extricate the bodies of its three occupants were continued tonight under the direction of army officers.

Captain F. S. Stocks, who directed the search for the plane which crashed Friday night and was not found until late Sunday, left here early today to supervise salvage operations. He had not returned by early evening, and reports received here said the salvage efforts were continuing.

Coast Guard headquarters said a report received there indicated the bodies of Brigadier General Francis W. Honeycutt, Fort Bragg, N. C., commandant; Captain George F. Kehoe, pilot, and Robert J. Schmitt, radioman and mechanic, might be recovered from the plane during the night.

The task was made extremely difficult by the inaccessibility of the spot where the plane crashed. Captain Stocks said cross-ties and lumber would be used to build a track over which salvage equipment could be hauled to the wreck. The plane was buried in mud and water up to the tip of its tail.
